South Asian Dentists form a study club

Mississauga: On May 1, 2003, the South Asian Dentists met at Payal Banquet Hall, in Mississauga, for an evening of continuing education. This evening was hosted by the Ontario Study Club of South Asian Dentists and was attended by over 100 Dentists, Hygienists, Assistants and Lab Technicians.

In Ontario all dentists are required to attain 90 hours of Continuing Education every three years. This keeps Dentists up to date with new developments in dentistry, new materials and new techniques. It ensures that the profession is providing the most current standards in dental care.

The Ontario Study Club of South Asian Dentists was formed to help South Asians attain these continuing education hours with a special focus on the South Asian population. Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, states that "This is a great start. Dentists are showing a lot of enthusiasm about the organization and are willing to volunteer their time for the organization. I think with such great support from dentists, the community and the Media, we will see many more community events, health fairs, and continuing education events."

The interim committee consisting of Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, Dr. Grish Hattay, Dr. Pravin Patel, Dr. Heena Vyas, and Mr. Elesh Rapareil,

Dr. Arya, Dr. Grish Hattay, Dr. Lang, Elesh Rapareil, Dr. Heena Vyas, Dr. Rob Carol, Mr. Brian McCallum, Dr. Pravin Patel and Neil J. Gajjar

arranged for four speakers to lecture on a variety of topics. Dr. Rajiv Arya, DDS, LLB spoke on patient management. Dr. Randy Lang spoke on new advances in orthodontics. Mr. Brian McCallum, CGA, CFP from Assante Financial spoke on Professional Incorporations, and Dr. Bob Carol from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons gave an update on SARS.

Dr. Rajiv Arya, DDS, LLB who is a practicing dentist and lawyer discussed the most common legal issues that affect dentists and their staff on a daily basis. He elaborated on how to recognize the danger signs in advance of a potential complaint or legal problem; inadvertent slips-ups that have landed dentist in hot water; confidentiality issues; informed consent issues; the obvious dilemma of collecting a bad debt; safely dismissing patients from your practice; the new law on restrictive covenants; a review of common patient complaints and what you or should do to avoid them. Dr. Arya currently represents the professional and commercial interests of health care professionals including dentists. Brian joined Assante in 1996 as one of the founding members of Wealth Planning Group. Prior to joining Assante Brian managed the Estates and Trust

Managers businesses. During his seven years at Assante, Brian has had numerous postings and has pre-mented numerous seminars and conferences to advisors and clients alike. In Brian's current role he is using unique expertise to help Assante Advisors provide integrated personal wealth management solutions to their clients.

Dr. Randy Lang, randy is an orthodontic lecturer at the University of Toronto and a past president of the Ontario Association of Orthodontists. He is a faculty member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, a Fellow of the International College of Dentists and the World Federation of Orthodontists. He is the co-chairman of the editorial board of Oral Health.

The evening was enjoyed by all and was a great way for all the South Asian professionals to get to know each other better.

Mississauga resident appointed to Academy of General dentistry 2003 House of delegates

Nashville, TN: Neil J. Gajjar was appointed as delegate to the Academy of General Dentistry's (AGD) 2003 House of Delegates, during the AGD's 2003 annual meeting, July 17-20, in Nashville.

The House of Delegates, the AGD's governing body, decides policy and votes on issues that affect the dental community and the AGD's 37,000 general dentists serving patients in the United States, its territories and Canada. Committed to providing quality care and patient education to the public, AGD members are required to take 75 hours of continuing dental education every three years.

Calling the appointment an honour, Gajjar explains the importance of the organization.

"This is one of the only association for general dentists across North America," says Gajjar. "We have representatives from eastern Canada, Nova Scotia, Quebec, and out in the west Winnipeg and BC.

"Our purpose for meeting goes beyond committee work. We set resolutions for dentists across Canada and the United States. We set standards for our community. We have sort out mission statements, vision for the industry. We look at the issues, find a way of addressing dentists' best interests. We also see where technology is leading us. And since dentistry is a lifetime learning process, we find avenues for dentists to continue their education.

"All round, the aim of the organization is to make a better dentist."

The appointment is also significant as Gajjar is one of the youngest dentists in the organization.

"I've been practicing in Mississauga since 1999," he says.

"The practice is changing now. You're seeing a lot of more younger people. And a lot more ethnic diversity."

As far as his own future plans are concerned, Gajjar sees himself bringing the profession forward.

"A general dentist is the primary care provider for patients of all ages and is responsible for the diagnosis, treatment, management and overall coordination of services related to patient's oral health needs," says Gajjar. "I want to make consumers more aware about the importance of oral health as well as help dentists continue on the learning curve."

Gajjar has been a member of the AGD since 1999 and will be earning his Fellowship from the AGD in 2004 by completing 500 of continuing education courses. As a member of the AGD, he's committed to life-long learning and excellence in patient care.

Gajjar received his Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry from the University of Toronto and completed his Doctor of Dental Surgery degree in Washington, DC. He is board certified in both Canada and the United States. He has served on the marketing committee of the Ontario Dental Association, the executive committee of the Canadian Dental Protective Association, is the membership chair for the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry and serves on the membership council of the Academy of General Dentistry in Chicago.

AGD Annual Convention-Nashville 2003

The 51st AGD annual convention in Nashville was an overwhelming success with over four thousand dentists from across the U.S. and Canada in attendance. The convention showcased four solid days of continuing education with speakers from all over the world including OAGD president Dr. Tony Mancuso. The exhibit floor numbered 157 booths represented by companies from the U.S and Canada.

EXCELLENCE THROUGH CONTINUED EDUCATION

South Asian Dentists Group Host Information Session

On October 21, 2003, the South Asian Dentists met at Payal Banquet Hall, in Mississauga, for an evening of continuing education. This evening was hosted by the Ontario Study Club of South Asian Dentists and was attended by over 150 Dentists, Hygienists, Assistants and Lab Technicians.

In Ontario, all dentists are required to attain 90 hours of Continuing Education every three years. This keeps dentists up to date with new developments in dentistry, new materials and new techniques. It ensures that the profession is providing the most current standards in dental care. The Ontario Study Club of South Asian Dentists was formed to help South Asians attain these continuing education hours with a special focus on the South Asian population.

South Asians patients have their own needs and doctors from these areas are well aware of their problems and their remedies. Communication problems are easily solved by the dentists of their origins. Toronto and the surrounding area has about one third of its population of Asian decent and this number keeps increasing.

The interim committee consisting of Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, Dr. Grish Hattay, Dr. Pravin Patel,

Dr. Neil Gajjar

Dr. Heena Vyas, Dr. Vageesh Shaberwal and Mr. Elesh Rupareil, had arranged such seminars in the past wherein several speakers have lectured on a variety of topics. Dr. Rajiv Arya, DDS, LLB has spoken on patient management; Dr. Randy Lang, on new advances in orthodontics; Mr. Brian McCallum, CGA, CFP from Assante Financial spoke on Professional Incorporations; and Dr. Bob Carol from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons has given an update on SARS.

This time two well-known speakers spoke on very important subjects in the field of Dentistry.

Mr. Irwin W. Fefergrad (B.A., B.C.L., LL.B), Registrar, Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario spoke on P.I.P.E.D.A. This is the acronym for the Personal Information Protection and Electronics Documents Act, a new federal government legislation that will become effective on January 1, 2004. No dentist will escape its impact. The act sets out rigorous rules for managing personal information. In the dental office, this encompasses everything from charts, radiographs, tissue samples, etc.

Irwin W. Fefergrad is currently the Registrar of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario. As the registrar, he has the honour of being a member of a very small and select group — since the founding of the College over 130 years ago, he is only the ninth person to serve in that capacity.

In the dental office, this encompasses everything from charts, radiographs, tissue samples, etc. Although the RCDSO has mailed a detailed four-page explanation to Ontario's dentists, this lecture was a must for all dental practitioners, as it allowed attendees to direct questions to the RCDSO Registrar.

He is responsible for building and continuing strong, positive relationships with other organizations in the dental community here in Ontario and across the country, with other regulatory colleges and with government.

Dr. Antonio Mancuso, (D.D.S., F.A.G.D., F.A.D.I., F.P.F.A.) addressed the subject of the "Dental Aesthetic Assessment Form for the New Millennium" which included the Dental Aesthetic Assessment Form developed for "Millennium Aesthetics" This diagnostic analysis is to enable one to correctly determine the aesthetic treatment plan for these patients asking about aesthetic dentistry. His lecture included: smile styles, smile types and artistic and scientific principles of smile design. Numerous cases were shown to demonstrate these principles.

Dr. Mancuso graduated from the University of Toronto in 1985 and has maintained a general dental practice in Welland, Ontario ever since. He is a fellow of the Academy of General Dentistry, a fellow of the Academy of Dentistry International, a fellow in the Pierre Fauchard Academy and a member of the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry and numerous other organizations.

Dr. Mancuso has written articles for the newspaper and has appeared on Canada AM and local cable network. He has published articles for dental journals and has lectured to various dental organizations in both Canada and the United States. He is President of the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry, and serves on the Membership Council at National. He also serves on the editorial board of Spectrum/CJDT. Having taken numerous live hands-on programs at the Las Vegas Institute and being involved in the Esthetics program at the University of Toronto, Dr. Mancuso conceived and developed "Millennium Aesthetics in Niagara". A live hands-on program that teaches dentists and staff anterior aesthetic diagnosis and treatment.

At the end, Dr. Grish Hattay thanked the guests and all who attended for making the evening a great success. In appreciation, plaques were presented to Mr. Fefergrad by Mr. Ellesh Rupareil, to Dr. Mancuso by Dr. Neil Gajjar, to Mr. Mike Lakhani by Dr. Heena Vyas and to Dr. Bob Carol by Dr. V. Shaberwal.

Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, states that "We have received a lot of support from dentists and we are proud of the numbers attending the seminars. All our members are showing a lot of enthusiasm about the organization and are willing to volunteer their time. I think with such great support from dentists, the community and the Media, we will see many more community events, health fairs, and continuing education events."

This is the third major evening organized by the Study Club and they have had good response from their members. This is a great way for all the South Asian professionals to get to know each other better.

Patients Smiling About Wireless First Dental Office In Canada to offer Wi-Fi to patients

Matt Schlossberg, Staff Writer, Communications

OAGD board member Dr. Neil J. Gajjar has been the first dental office in Canada to implement Wi-Fi (which is Wireless Fidelity based) service for his patients.

Wi-Fi is a phenomenon! Technology so strong, that even dreams of mobility become reality!

Throw the wires and cables away! Executives and students can use their laptops equipped with a Wi-Fi card to get an instant wireless Internet connection that will allow them to go wherever and stay connected at high-speed all the time. Wi-Fi will allow them to connect to the Internet at up to 100 times higher speed than with dial-up connection. Wi-Fi brings significant tool for companies as well as individual users on the way to Internet connection without wires.

Dr. Gajjar is proud to be one of the first to introduce this technology in his office. "It shows my patients that I care about their needs and that I am doing everything to keep up with the latest technology in the field", says Dr. Gajjar.

This is not to say that there is a long wait for patients to be seen in Dr. Gajjar's Office. His in house surveys state that 98.8% of patients are seen within 5 minutes of their scheduled appointment times. The technology allows executives to arrive a little early for their appointment and send and receive any last minute emails prior to seeing Dr. Gajjar. It is also good for parents waiting in the reception area while their kids are being treated. With this technology, they are never away from the office. In an era when time is money, Dr. Gajjar believes that his patients time is very important.

Kitt Truong of e-nable Solutions says that this is the first dental office for which he has designed such an elaborate network. "Dr Gajjar told us that security was important to protect information. We developed a system with this in mind."

The country will fall for Wi-Fi very quickly, as it will allow them to create wireless network (LAN) in their offices without complex and expensive wires distribution plans. Household users will like Wi-Fi mainly as a tool for checking and working with e-mails, chatting and surfing the Internet without wires.

Moreover, any printer (or other network sources) can be made accessible with Wi-Fi connection.

Dr. Gajjar is proud to be on this cutting edge of this new technology.

Winter Clinic 2004

On Friday November 14, 2003 the OAGD held the second annual Smileline during Winter Clinic. Smileline is a dental hotline where people throughout Ontario can call to ask questions dealing with any dental issue. Consumers are able to call 1-800-Smile-33 to talk one-on-one with a dentist to get expert advice.

Through the generous donation of time from several AGD member volunteers, this years Smileline was a great success handling over 95 calls. The calls were from various age groups and dealt with a variety of dental issues.

Due to the success of the Smileline program, plans have commenced to make next years Smileline hotline an even bigger success. To help with that success, AGD member volunteers are encouraged to sign up early and help give back to their communities.

OAGD trustee Dr. Peter Bastian interactive Lunch and Learn presentation on practicing without amalgam was received with great interest by all attendees. Doctors were able to return to their office the next day and immediately begin to use the techniques demonstrated by Dr. Bastian.

The Cerac live demonstration by OAGD president Dr. Tony Mancuso was again the highlight of the Patterson Dental booth. Within no time a patient was able to leave with an excellent Cerac porcelain restoration.

Marketing savvy

By Celeste Miller

Word-of-mouth may be the most effective and least expensive way to find new patients, but it's not the only tool at your disposal. Many inexpensive strategies exist for you to put in place, and will leave a good impression on your patients. The important thing to remember is to be proactive about marketing your practice. Take the time to learn what your patients want and develop a strategy to meet those needs. While some ideas are listed below, be creative and have fun doing it.

Make a plan

You wouldn't start work on a patient without mapping out a course for treatment, so don't just try out new strategies as you think of them—devise your marketing plan beforehand.

Before you start an external marketing campaign or spend money on advertisements, start with your internal marketing strategies, says Stephen J. Persichetti, DDS, FAGD, Portland, Ore. These include answering telephones politely, being punctual for your patients, providing easy-to-read bills and statements, and providing proper follow-up care. "If you make your patients happy, they will talk about you to their friends," Dr. Persichetti says.

Staff chemistry can make or break you. If the staff works together well and enjoys each other's company, patients will be put at ease. Patients can sense when there is unrest in the office, and they won't want to return to a hostile environment.

If a patient is happy with the service he or she has received and says so, ask them to refer new patients to your practice. "If you like having a certain patient in your practice, tell them, and ask if they have any friends they might like to refer," Dr. Persichetti says.

When implementing marketing strategies, it is important to evaluate whether they are successful. One way to do this is investing in practice-management software. Melvin Pierson, DDS, opened his Sicklerville, N.J., practice in the fall of 1999, with no patients; he now has more than 5,000. He says dental software allows him to track how patients find his office (word-of-mouth, a telephone directory, print advertisements, etc.)

The software evaluates which marketing tools (direct mailers, newspaper ads, etc.) yield the greatest returns, helping you determine your best marketing source. Less expensive programs, like Microsoft Office, which includes Excel, will allow you to create spreadsheets that track referrals and marketing plans.

Be creative

Your marketing strategy can be as unique as your office—don't be afraid to try something a little different. One effective marketing tool Dr. Pierson uses is something he calls PiersonBucks, generic-looking signed checks worth $50. This can be used toward paying off a bill or receiving a free whitening. If one of Dr. Pierson's patients refers a new patient who makes an appointment, the referring patient receives a PiersonBuck. "It's very effective and easy to explain," Dr. Pierson says.

PiersonBucks even have several spin-offs, including gift certificates to local restaurants or movie passes. "We tell them, refer six patients and get a free whitening treatment." With so many elective and cosmetic procedures not covered by insurance, Dr. Pierson says the PiersonBucks have been very successful in bringing—and keeping—new patients into the office.

Know your community

Be aware of your patients' general income level and demographics and tailor your marketing plan to fit their needs. If you practice in a working-class community, your patients may be less interested in cosmetic dentistry and full-mouth reconstruction than in a more affluent neighborhood.

If you have a large non-English-speaking patient base, you may want to hire multilingual staff members. Patients will feel more comfortable talking about dental and health issues in their native language, according to Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, who practices in Mississauga, Ont., Canada. Dr. Gajjar's staff speaks five different languages. "Speaking the same language as the patient automatically makes them feel more at home," Dr. Gajjar says. "We notice that patients book appointments when that particular staff member is working."

If you have a large number of patients of a certain religion or ethnic group, you might wish to tailor your office design to those principles, such as Feng Shui or Vastu Shastra, to make those individuals feel more comfortable in your office.

Getting involved in your community is another way to spread your name around. Sponsor local youth sports teams, perform community service, or offer free screenings for local charity groups. "People like to see their dentist at functions and events," Dr. Gajjar says. "Plus, it will remind them that they need to visit you." Offer your time and service at school health fairs or sports screenings, and turn kids into mini-marketers by sending them home with magnets, toothbrushes or business cards. Dr. Pierson says, "It's more worthwhile to give up an hour of your time doing that than to run an ad that costs two or three times [your hourly earnings] and might not get you any patients."

Put your plan in place

Marketing dos and don'ts for your office

Keep it simple. If you can't explain your referral program in a few sentences, then it's too confusing for patients to remember.

Beware bargain hunters. Complimentary cleanings or whitening treatments may get patients in the door, but many will just be looking for the best deal or to spread their dental bill around several offices. They won't be the long-term patients you want to attract.

Don't promise more than you can deliver. Patients may come to expect free gifts all the time if you shower them with specials and freebies. It's the service and care you give that should keep them in your practice.

Ask for help if you need it. If you don't feel comfortable coming up with a marketing plan on your own, enlist the help of a marketing or practice management consultant to generate ideas and action. But be careful to make sure that the plans they devise fit your needs and goals for your practice.

Get personal

Make your patients feel that you care about them personally. They will remember acts of kindness before all the freebies. Sending birthday cards and remembering important events will make patients feel that you're individually invested in them. "Patients will remember that personal touch," Dr. Pierson says.

And while you keep tabs on your patients, you should keep them up to date about you and your practice. Through a newsletter, tell patients about new skills or new technology or employees you hire—anything about the practice.

Offer conveniences

Your patients are busy, just like you, and they may not come back if you waste their time. But patients will remember when you made their lives easier. In addition to installing radios or televisions in each operatory, consider adding wireless Internet access in the waiting room and operatories, allowing patients to surf the internet. Remind your patients about their appointments through e-mail, so they can easily enter those dates into a personal data assistant (Palm Pilot).

Allow your patients and potential patients to find more about you by creating a Web site. Potential patients who are looking for a dentist will find you through search engines, says Dr. Gajjar. If you create a Web site, make sure it has an easy address to remember (like www.drjones.com) and that it will be picked up by major search engines like Google and Yahoo. And if you don't feel comfortable designing a Web site yourself, contact a local Web developer. The AGD has developed "Member Web pages" which allows you to create one page of information about you and your practice. It can be customized and then set up to link to your site. Go to www.agd.org/members.only/agdBuilder/start.html.

Beyond the Yellow Pages

A large ad in the Yellow Pages is an expensive route to take and typically doesn't yield as much of a return as other forms of advertising. If you must, Dr. Persichetti suggests making the ad no larger than a business card.

Other print ads may be even more effective. A recurring ad in the local newspaper keeps your name at potential patients' fingertips every time they read the news. They may forget radio or TV ads, but they will look through a newspaper or magazine when searching for a dentist. Dr. Pierson writes informative articles about periodontal disease and other dental problems in the local newspaper. Dr. Gajjar has been successful in advertising in bridal magazines. "So many men and women have come to us for whitening prior to their wedding," he says.

No matter how you choose to market your practice, be sure to create a plan that suits your own personality and attitude. Set yourself apart from the rest of crowd, but don't compromise care, integrity or your practice's identity.

2nd Trial in Mistrial

today until Wednesday to begin the process that could lead to a new trial for the murder in suburban Victoria in November, 1997. Ellard admitted she was a key participant in the swarming of Virk under the Craigflower Bridge that was a result of friends hearing rumours about the victim. But she denied she followed her, inflicted a second beating and then drowned her in an inland waterway.

As spectators were emptying the downtown Vancouver courtroom, Ellard's mother, Susan Pakos, told Virk's mother, Suman, she was sorry the process would continue.

Moments later, Tarsem Pallan, Virk's grandmother, hugged Pakos and her husband.

"I'm exhausted. Just exhausted," George Pakos, Ellard's stepfather told reporters.

Ellard's lawyer, Robert Claus, said his client was "disappointed that it's not an acquittal."

"She wishes it was over and it's not," said Claus, adding he hopes there's not a third trial.

"It's been as good a case as they could put together," Claus said of the crown. "I don't think it gets any better for them than it was this time."

"It (a third trial) would be extraordinarily difficult for everyone."

Editor's Comment

The Journal welcomes letters from readers about topics that are relevant to the dental profession. The views expressed are those of the author and do not necessarily reflect the opinions or official policies of the Canadian Dental Association. Letters should ideally be no longer than 300 words. If what you want to say can't fit into 300 words, please consider writing a piece for our Debate section.

Choice of Treatment

In the President's Column in the March JCDA,<sup>1</sup> Dr. Dubé writes that after the dentist has given a patient the required explanations for treatment, "the patient is the one who decides which treatment is best suited for him or her." Does a patient visiting an office which advertises itself as mercury-free have this choice? Parents frequently bring their children to my office because another dentist told them treatment would need to be done under general anesthesia. They were not given the option of premedication or patient restraint. Often patient management wasn't even attempted. In 90% of the cases I have treated, the patients happily received dental treatment without general anesthesia. Too often our practises are influenced by the media, new technology, our personal philosophy, competition between professionals, and the need to meet our bottom line.

I remember a dentist who offered his patients the choice between the Volkswagen, the Chevrolet or the Cadillac treatment. He discussed the pros and cons of each treatment plan and then allowed the patients to make their choice. As you state "our role no longer involves determining the need of patients, but establishing options that meet their expecta-

Kudos for the NOHM Campaign

I would like to take this opportunity to commend CDA and Colgate for this year's great National Oral Health Month (NOHM) marketing campaign. I have had many new patients come to my office making direct reference to the campaign. These patients have seen the National Post supplement, the billboards, and the posters at the bus stops and in underground tunnels. They have visited my office to inquire about their children's development, orthodontics, whitening and cosmetic procedures, and periodontal disease. This is the first time I have seen such a direct result of the marketing campaign. I thank both CDA and Colgate for their efforts, which have resulted in increased patient flow to my office. I am happy to see our membership dues used to benefit members and am proud to be a member of CDA.

Passport for Low-Fee or Free Services

Agencies and organizations that target services (e.g., housing, food bank, athletic programs, library, transit) to people in financial need often use an eligibility test to determine if the applicants fit their criteria. In Calgary, a group of agencies offering low-fee or free services is examining the idea of using a common eligibility test and developing a common 'passport' for clients.

There are some obvious advantages. Clients would undergo the test only once to get a passport that would give them access to a host of services. By the same token, each agency could increase service delivery by reducing resources spent reviewing eligibility.

However, the challenges are significant. Agencies offering high-value services require a more extensive eligibility check (i.e., more intrusion into financial affairs). In addition, some issues are important to individual agencies, but unimportant to others (e.g., we exclude families with dental insurance).

As we struggle with this idea, I wonder if other communities have investigated or implemented anything like this 'passport' concept? Surely this issue is not unique to Calgary. I'm very interested in the experiences of others, in the hope that they may help us.

Déjà Vu: Dentists Needed in Dubreuilville

It's hard to believe it has been 44 years since I started practising dentistry in Dubreuilville (the old townsite) before Highway 17 opened. At the time, the Ontario Junior Red Cross sponsored 3 dental coaches throughout Northern Ontario. We took over from Dr. Russ Bray (U of T 5T9) in June 1960. Dr. Douglas Beaton and Dr. Douglas Heathfield were the other 2 coaches; they were located in Temagami and Noelville. In July we moved to Beardmore (for 11 months) via the Algoma Central Railway. The people in Dubreuilville were very hospitable

In July, Canadian representatives of the Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) met in Anaheim, California, for the 2004 Annual Meeting.

More than 100 Canadians gathered to strengthen their shared commitment to providing the best possible dental care to patients in Canada. Over 60 clinicians, including five from Canada, presented the latest developments in oral health and technology. Canadian AGD representatives met with CDA president Dr. Alfred Dean, to discuss ways to further connections between AGD and CDA.

The AGD presented continuing education awards to several CDA members. Most received fellowships, in recognition of completing 500 hours of continuing dental education coursework and passing a comprehensive written exam administered by the AGD. Two dentists received masterships, after completing more than 1,100 hours of continuing dental education in the 16 disciplines of dentistry.

CDA members awarded AGD fellowships were: (in alphabetical order) Drs. Joanne Baldos, Milton Cohen (mastership), Don Collins (mastership), Evelyn Elsey, Alexander Fu, Neil Gajjar, Martin Kushner, Edward Lee, Jean-Paul Rabbath, Nader Shahbaz, Ronald Yim and Emma Yu.

The AGD is a non-profit international organization of more than 37,000 general dentists dedicated to promoting quality oral care and staying up-to-date in the profession through continuing education. ■

CDA's definition of oral health

Oral health is a state of the oral and related tissues and structures that contributes positively to physical, mental and social well-being and the enjoyment of life's possibilities, by allowing the individual to speak, eat and socialize unhindered by pain, discomfort or embarrassment.

UPDATE

Gilbert's Medical Dental Supply Update

CDA has recently published more information on the status of Gilbert's Medical Dental Supply ("Gilbert's") and its associated companies Dental Wholesalers of Canada Limited and Excel-Dent.

To recap, these companies have declared bankruptcy. If you are still owed money from one of the above companies, you should follow up with your credit card company at your earliest opportunity. Dentists can also add their names to a list of unsecured creditors.

Complete details can be found in the September 22 CDAAlert, located on the members' side of the CDA Web site. Details can also be found in the News section of the October JCDA.

CDA editor-in-chief Dr. John O'Keefe would like to remind dentists that although these companies are no longer operating under the above names, it is conceivable they could re-surface in the dental supply marketplace using a different company name.

With this in mind, Dr. O'Keefe recommends that you only provide credit card details to vendors with whom you have an ongoing business relationship.

To read more about credit card usage at your dental practice, see the latest edition of Dental TeamWork, distributed with this month's Communiqué. ■

Mastertrack – Anterior and Posterior Aesthetics November 2004

The Ontario Academy of General Dentistry held its Mastertrack module on Anterior and Posterior Aesthetics in Niagara Falls. The course, held at the Renaissance Fallsview, commenced on Thursday, November 4 and ended on Sunday, November 7th. The three day participation course was attended by 14 dentists from as far as Nova Scotia and Manitoba in Canada and Orchard Park in the United States.

The Mastertrack is a series of participation modules on specific disciplines of dentistry designed to train dentists on advanced dental procedures and help get Fellows of the Academy their Mastership.

The first day of the module consisted of case presentations by participants of the previous module on oral surgery. Twelve participants presented cases ranging from extraction of 8's to removal and biopsy of soft tissue pathology. On Friday, Dr. Don Collins, DDS, MAGD lectured on Posterior Aesthetic dentistry with CEREC. In the afternoon, the participants went to Dr. Mancuso's office to prep, design, and mill restorations using the CEREC -3D. Saturday and Sunday of this course was presented by Dr. Tony Mancuso, DDS, FAGD, FADI, FPFA. He lectured on Anterior Aesthetics and supervised the participants as they diagnosed, prepared and temporized anterior aesthetic cases.

The module was enjoyed by all and participants and look forward to the next module on Removable Prosthetics and the Special Needs Patient from April 29 to May 1, 2005. For more information on this series, please contact Mrs. Debby Mancuso, Mastertrack Coordinator, at 905-734-9901.

The Oral Surgery Module Mastertrack held last May was a huge success. Above we see some of the keen participants.

Trustees. The initial findings will be compiled into guiding principles that follow the mission of the organization.

While we still have more data to come in January 2005, this was a terrific inauguration. This market data allows the AGD to re-energize for tomorrow's challenges and opportunities. The results confirmed that what we believe the AGD needs to accomplish is in tune with what our members and nonmembers are trying to tell us.

Principles of Leadership

Recognizing these critical needs the Board of Trustees unanimously voted to embrace the following eleven (11) "Principles of Leadership" decision making (or governance principles):

1. Trusteeship_Sitting in trust for others is the role of the board. The board is accountable to those who could be corporate owners, the community as owners, or members of an association;
2. Authority resides in the group, not individuals;
3. A board decision is speaking with ONE voice;
4. Speak positively about the strategic outcomes; stay out of strategies EXCEPT to restrict or set boundaries for what is acceptable in activities or circumstances. Limitations are stated in the negative;
5. Decide the most general issues in each area before deciding more specific issues in any area. In creating restraints, the board is more and more specific when it wants to constrain the choices of the Executive Director and President;
6. Stop at the level where you can accept any reasonable interpretation of the policy just created;
7. Where the board stops speaking on outcomes and strategies, the Executive Director is empowered to make all further decisions; or Where the board stops speaking on board process and relationships, the President is empowered to make all further decisions;
8. Only monitor against criteria already set;
9. A board's major work is with outcomes determination, prioritization and linking with the ownership;
10. The board's job description is its perpetual agenda. From this an annual agenda developed which, in turn, becomes the stimulus for individual meeting agendas;
11. The board develops a plan for accomplishing its own work.

This Strategic Futures Initiative will culminate in a spring 2005 (April 14-16) Strategic Futures Conference of all AGD stakeholders. Approximately 150-200 stakeholders will be asked to set the strategic direction and priorities for the organization. This will allow the Board of Trustees to make knowledge-based decisions. Consequently, the AGD can move from the concept of being a "One-size-fits-all" organization to being more nimble and responsive to our members' needs. We will be able to make strategic based changes without losing the organization's rich 52-year history.

It is important that you realize the AGD leadership is committed to ensuring value and memorable experiences for our membership. We are all excited about these steps. If you have any questions about the process, please call or e-mail so that we may continue this in a positive direction.

CIDC -OAGD Alliance Created

On October 1-2 2004 Dr. Tony Mancuso and Dr. Peter Bastian joined an outstanding list of speakers/presenters at the annual Canadian International Dental Congress. The Canadian International Dental Congress mission is to bring together the clinical and technical aspects of General Dentistry in an affordable, professional milieu. The OAGD Board is excited about the new alliance it has created with the Congress and is looking forward to 2005 when it will hold its Annual General Meeting and CE lecture components at the Congress as a partner.

OAGD NEWS

On January 27-28th January, 2005 the Academy of General Dentistry in conjunction with the South Asian Dental Association (SADA) held a two-day continuing education event at Payal Banquet Hall, Mississauga. The first session was comprised of an evening meeting featuring two speakers; Assante Financial and Dr. David Federick.. Brian McCallum, representing Assante, lectured participants on tax strategies that are beneficial to today's dental professional. This was followed by Dr. Federick's two-part session discussing the restoration of decimated teeth using Post and Cores. Dr. Federick, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame, maintains a private practice in Southern California limited to aesthetic dentistry, periodontal-prosthetic rehabilitation, and dental implant reconstruction. Participants in the seminar gained insight into the continual evolution in the field of prosthodontics. Furthermore, the hands-on nature of the course allowed individuals to use materials and techniques illustrated by Dr. Federick. The AGD wishes to extend its thanks to all the participants, speakers and Coltene-Whaldent for providing the supplies and materials.

February 25th, 2005

On Thursday February 24th, 2005 the South Asian Dental Association (SADA) had the privilege of hosting an Orthodontic seminar with the renowned Dr. Richard Litt from Michigan. The lecture, the first of 11 sessions being organized by SADA for the 2005-6 year, was held at Payal Banquet Halls in Mississauga. The seminar attracted approximately 70 dental professionals from around the GTA and as far as London, Ontario.

Dr. Litt is the founder of the Faculty of Orthodontic Research and Continuing Education. As an orthodontist with over 30 years of experience and treating thousands of cases, Dr. Litt has accumulated a wealth of knowledge that he was willing to share with SADA members. This introductory course provided a foundation for his 3 part, 11-day seminar series which he has presented to dental professionals worldwide.

Fortunately, Dr. Litt is bringing his unique brand of teachings to Toronto over 3 sessions in April, May and June 2005. Some of our existing SADA members have completed this series from Dr. Litt and this has allowed them to enter the field of Orthodontic treatment with relative ease. Dr. Litt also offers study-group programs in Ontario which allows the dentist the ability to converse personally with the orthodontist in treatment planning their various cases. This lecture was very well received by all in attendance. Further information can be found at www.forceint.com.

SADA wishes to thank all of its members for attending, as well the sponsors, Orthodontic Supply of Canada and R&S Dental Labs. SADA would also like to thank Dr. Litt for clearing up many of the myths in Orthodontics. # OAGD NEWS

The keynote speaker for the evening was Dr. Larry Tenaschuk from Milton, Ontario who practices laser dentistry. Dr. Tenaschuk provided the audience with an insight into the ever-increasing applications of lasers in a modern dental practice. Many of those in attendance admitted to being somewhat skeptical regarding the use of lasers in the dental office prior to the presentation by Dr. Tenaschuk. However, many dental professionals left that evening with an understanding that lasers are becoming increasingly popular in the dental field. Dr. Tenaschuk demonstrated numerous soft and hard tissue procedures which he performs daily in his practice. In many instances, lasers provide the patient with less invasive, less painful and more tolerable procedures. A laser dentist since 1995, Dr. Larry Tenaschuk's honesty and candor shed much insight into dentistry's newest technology. SADA would like to extend thanks to Dr. Larry Tenaschuk for an excellent presentation, the representatives of Henry Schein Ash Arcona and the Institute for Laser Dentistry for sharing their expertise and vision into the exciting field of laser dentistry.

Dentists Unite to the Benefit people locally and abroad

On Saturday April 23rd, 2005 executive members of the South Asian Dental Association (SADA) and the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry (OAGD) attended a Tsunami relief gala at the Sheraton Hotel, Richmond Hill. The organizers of the event, titled "After the Wave", were the Medical Institute for Tamils (MIFT). MIFT represents a non-profit organization of Canadian physicians and dentists of Sri Lankan descent. Founded in 1998, this volunteer organization has sent teams of physicians and dentists to Sri Lanka to provide medical and dental assistance to communities affected by the civil war. However, it was the unfortunate tragedy that transpired on December 26th, 2004 that served as the primary focus of this particular gala. The evening was comprised of a cocktail reception, silent auction, and formal dinner followed by dancing and a midnight sweet table. With over 900 people in attendance, including numerous dignitaries, this event was a resounding success. The South Asian Dental Association and Ontario AGD both applaud the immense humanitarian efforts that members of MIFT have displayed during this catastrophic event. SADA also attained recognition as an official sponsor for this charity event.

On May 4, 2005 Dr. Neil Gajjar and Dr. Sanjay Uppal of the Ontario AGD Board of Directors attended The Dentistry Canada Fund (DCF) Gala at the Fairmont Royal York Hotel. Dentistry Canada Fund is a charity for oral health in Canada. DCF's mission statement is to create and operate a fund for the citizens of Canada which assists in the encouragement of optimal oral health through education, research and promotion/public outreach programs.

INSIDE AGD

The AGD can't wait to see what's in store

The future of the Academy of General Dentistry is bright, according to the more than 130 members who recently traveled to Chicago for the AGD2010: Innovation through Involvement conference.

The event, the first of its kind for the AGD, was held April 15-17, and was designed to give stakeholders an opportunity to shape the future development of the organization.

New core purpose and value statements were established along with the production of the AGD2010 Strategic Plan. All attendees helped provide the AGD with direction and made innovation a genuine priority.

"The AGD is experiencing a strategic rebirth. It is creating a dynamic organization, providing even better services and benefits," AGD President Thomas Howley, DDS, MAGD, said. "This conference has invigorated and defined the AGD more than any other event since our founding in 1952."

Attendees reviewed and discussed the 2004 AGD Market Research—completed earlier this year—which helped to shape the new AGD2010 Strategic Plan that will be presented to the AGD Board of Trustees in May, and House of Delegates in July. The atmosphere was filled with enthusiasm and excitement about the future of the AGD. The participants of the conference believed it was valuable, as seen in the results of the evaluations.

Minnesota AGD member Mark Malterud, DDS, MAGD, enjoyed having "time to learn more about the AGD" as well as the new friendships created during the weekend.

Many members echoed these sentiments, citing camaraderie as a big reason the conference was such a success.

In a post-conference evaluation, participants noted that their time spent in Chicago was worthwhile to the future of the AGD.

In fact, on a scale of 1 to 5, with 5 being the highest, attendees rated having their viewpoints respected and heard at 4.91. The quality of the AGD2010 Strategic Plan, the networking opportunities and the goals of the conference also received ratings over 4.5.

When asked what he liked about the event, Maryland member and Region 17 president Donald Worm, DDS, MAGD, replied: "The whole conference! A lot was done in a short period of time. (It was) superbly organized."

Washington AGD member Linda Edgar, DDS, MAGD, said her favorite part of the conference was the "good feeling of fellowship" and strategic planning.

The AGD2010 Task Force (2010TF) was chaired by AGD Vice President Bruce DeGinder, DDS, MAGD, and was made up of AGD stakeholders from all over the United States and Canada. Responsible for preliminary work for the conference, the 2010TF was dedicated to rejuvenating the AGD and driving the association into the future.

"The members of the AGD are an extremely passionate group of general dentists," Dr. DeGinder said. "They spoke and we listened. They have set the goals and core values for this organization that will take AGD into the future."

In the weeks to come, look for more outcomes from the AGD2010 Conference and proposed AGD2010 Strategic Plan, along with results from the 2004 AGD Market Research, in AGD@Work and on the AGD Web site.

Attendees arrive, ready to have fun and work.

Conference participants and AGD staff members worked together to discover ways to propel the organization into the future.

Dental reimbursement issues: A message from the Dental Care Council

Perhaps the most important thing a practitioner can do when dealing with insurance companies and other third-party payers is to carefully read all documents that are signed. This includes both contracts and assignment of benefit checks. Signing a contract with an insurance company to become a participating network provider can legally allow that insurance company to engage in practices such as limiting the amount or frequency of reimbursement or even come into your office, inspect your records, and demand repayment. Likewise, even if you are not a participating provider and accept payment from an insurance company by cashing their check, you might be legally committing yourself to terms that you will later find disagreeable. Some contractual arrangements might even allow the insurance company to switch you from one plan that you like to another that you might not otherwise choose to participate in. For instance, United Concordia recently stated in a letter to the AGD that, "We have found that there is no perfect way to recruit a new dental network that will satisfy all prospective members. An 'opt-in,' rather than an 'opt-out' approach may cause some dentists who want to participate to be excluded because they do not read the notice. And personal contact with each dentist to discuss the pros and cons of the new network may be perceived as overly time-consuming and disruptive. We do not believe our opt-out method is any less fair to dentists than other methods." To reiterate, make sure you know what you're signing, and what the legal implications of your signature are. If you have questions or reticence, please contact the ADA's Contract Analysis Service.

A speaker voices his opinion on the future direction the organizations should take.

Final wrap-up: AGD 2010 Task Force members and AGD staff gather 'round following the completion of a successful conference.

On May 13, 2005 the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry co-sponsored the Seminar "Interceptive Orthodontics" presented by Dr. Brock Rondeau. Dr. Rondeau is a general dentist who has been actively teaching orthodontics for 22 years and has a practice limited to orthodontic and TMJ treatment. Dr. Rondeau is also a contributing editor to Journal of Clinical Pediatric Dentistry, International Journal of Orthodontics and the American Association of Functional Orthodontics. The course discussed the early treatment of constricted maxillary arches, posterior cross bite, constricted mandibular arches, anterior cross bites, thumb sucking habits, airway problems, retrognathic mandibles and deep overbites. The objective of early treatment is to develop the arches to avoid the extraction of permanent teeth. The importance of early treatment was emphasized as 90% of the face is developed by age 12, hence treatment should be started as early as possible. Dr. Rondeau offers a 4 session series of courses in multiple Canadian, US and overseas cities where general dentists can learn to diagnose and treat simple orthodontic cases. Upon completion of the course and lab exercises, gp's can learn 56 orthodontic lecture hours and the following participation hours: 16 orthodontic, 12 pedodontic, 15 tmj, 12 removable appliance, 4 oral surgery and 4 periodontal, and 12 special patient care. All of which can be applied towards AGD Fellowship and Mastership. The course was well received by all and most of those who attended showed interest in completing Dr. Rondeau's 4 session course. For further information about Dr. Rondeau's courses please visit www.rondeauseminars.com or call 1 877 372 7625.

Dr. Suzanne Caudry, Ph.D., D.D.S.

May 26, 2005 the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry presented the seminar entitled "Esthetic's in Implant Dentistry" featuring Dr. Suzanne Caudry, Ph.D., D.D.S. Dr. Caudry is a Periodontist who teaches at the University of Toronto and also has a private practice specializing in Implant Dentistry in Toronto. The course was held at the Nobel Biocare Training Center in Richmond Hill, Ontario. Dr. Caudry discussed the indications and treatment planning sequence for the following clinical scenarios:

- 1) Extraction of tooth with grafting and delayed implant placement
- 2) Extraction of tooth with an immediate implant, grafting (bone and/or connective tissue) and temporization via rpd or bonded crown
- 3) Extraction of a tooth with an immediate implant and immediate function via a temporary crown.

The course was well received and cleared up a lot of confusion about immediate implants. The Ontario Academy of General Dentistry wishes to thank Dr. Caudry for an outstanding presentation and Nobel Biocare for sponsoring the event.

On June 2, 2005 the Academy of General Dentistry provided its members an opportunity to spend an evening with Dr. Brock Rondeau. Dr. Rondeau, who maintains a practice in London, Ontario, has received numerous international accolades from his peers in the field of orthodontics. At this particular event, AGD members were treated to his expertise in the use of functional orthodontic appliances in the treatment of younger patients. This course served as a foundation to Dr. Rondeau's orthodontic seminar series which is comprised of four weekend sessions. The series returns to Toronto in September, 2005. For more details, all interested individuals should refer to www.rondeauseminars.com. Following Dr. Rondeau, Assante Financial Management Ltd. presented Robert Haisman who discussed financial planning concepts including the importance of having a proper will, exit strategy from a dental practice, benefits of incorporation and estate planning. The talk was informative and entertaining. For further information about these matters call Assante at 905 273 6605 or 1 800 265 4658. The Academy of General Dentistry wishes to extend thanks to all the participants, speakers to Assante Financial Management Ltd. and Orthodont for providing the supplied and materials.

On June 28, 2005, the Ontario Academy of Dentistry co-sponsored the courses titled "The ABC's of Implant Dentistry featuring Dr. Mark Lin. Dr. Lin is a general dentist in private practice with over 12 years experience in various disciplines of dentistry ranging from intravenous sedations, periodontal surgeries, impacted wisdom tooth removal, crown and bridge, surgical placement of dental implants, advanced bone grafting techniques of block grafts and sinus augmentations, endodontic therapies, aesthetic dentistry and full mouth reconstructive therapies. He has surgically placed and restored an average of 125 implants per year for the last 6 years. He has recently received Diplomate status in the American Board of Oral Implantology/Implant Dentistry, a feat accomplished by fewer than 20 dentists in Canada.

Dr. Lin presented a well organized presentation discussing implant treatment planning, prosthetic and surgical aspects of implant treatment. Following a morning lecture, Dr. Lin demonstrated a live surgical placement of an implant in the 46 position. Participants were able to watch the procedure on a large screen and ask questions as Dr. Lin detailed instructions of the procedure. After the surgery, participants were able to perform implant placement on models. The program followed with the treatment planning of cases presented by the course participants. The course ended with a hands-on prosthetic's component. The course was well received by all who attended.

Dr. Lin will give a full day implant surgery course Oct. 14, 2005 in which a live surgical placement of a dental implant will be performed and also, participants will be able to do a placement of dental implants on anatomical models. For further info about this course contact Dr. Filippo Marchello at 416 316 4849. For information about future TIDE programs go to www.tideinc.ca or call 416 221 8828.

Ontario OAGD meets with CDA President and CDA Executive Director

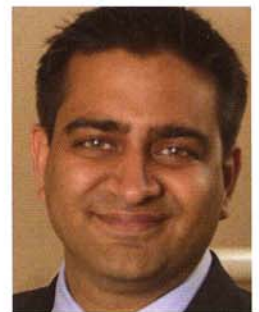

I had the pleasure of sitting down with Dr. Jack Cottrell and Mr. George Weber at the AGD meeting in Washington, DC and was very impressed to hear about the projects that the CDA has been working on and the direction that they are headed.

I must once again commend the CDA on their fantastic job marketing dentistry throughout Canada. Not only does this help educate the public, but I find that it increases the number of patients that come to our offices. A great idea and a huge member benefit.

In addition to the marketing campaign and all the other insurance benefits we get from CDSPI, I was surprised to learn of all the other projects that the CDA is actively involved in. We have all read about the GST issues and the CDA's role in working with CRA to settle this issue and the issue about dentists in BC being targeted for employer contributions for hygienists. What we have not heard about is all the behind the scene work regarding hygiene issues, university education tuition, and the integration of foreign trained dentists.

As Vice-President of the South Asian Dental Association, I was very interested in the issue of foreign trained dentists and their practicing in Canada. The issue is very complex and much research had been conducted by the CDA on this subject. It is important to know the CDA has been working with the various levels of government and the Colleges to deal with this situation. As it involves the movement of labor across Canada, there are many stakeholders that need to come together on the issue and it was made clear that all are dealing with this situation with the highest priority. I was pleased not only to see that they were addressing it but also pleased to see the manner in which they are handling it.

iTrans was another big topic of discussion as it is one of the finest projects that the CDA has delivered and it will revolutionize the way the dental world communicates in Canada. Not only will we be able to send radiographs to each other and to insurance companies using this secured method of delivery, we will soon be able to process credit and debit cards directly on this system. The first will eliminate the need for mailing radiographs and hence, eliminate a big expense in duplication, mailing and time returning radiographs to files upon return. The second will reduce costs even further by reducing the merchant rate we currently pay for these transactions. An amazing system that every dentist should be using before the end of this year.

With all these and many more benefits I have found that the CDA offers its members much more than the cost of membership. The cost of iTrans alone without membership is $360; membership which includes iTrans is only $621. This organization has definitely succeeded in offering its members a value for their dollar.

With this said, it puts a strain on every other organization to pull its pants up. As president-elect of the AGD, we have realized that people want tangible value for their membership dues. The CDA has raised the bar and we have to work harder to give members more of what they want. Hence, we have restructured and are working closely with other organizations like the CDA to give our members more. Our membership will see these changes over the coming months. In an era where the bar has been raised, we either shape up or ship out.

We thank the CDA for sharing their vision with us and most of all, I thank them for doing so much for it membership and all dentists across Canada.

Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, BSc, DDS, FAGD, FADI

Vice President, South Asian Dental Association

Dear Dr. Gajjar;

Thank you for your participation and support of the 6th Annual International Dental Congress, September 16-17 2005. It is due to your exceptional cooperation that this year's conference was such a great success!

We would like to thank you for presenting "Medical Emergencies & CPR" at the International Dental Congress. Your presentation played a significant role in attracting many people from the dental industry. This year broke all previous attendance records, thanks to your generous assistance.

Planning has already begun for next year's Congress. It was a pleasure working with you and the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry team, and we look forward to collaborating on other projects in the future.

If you have any ideas or suggestions for next year, please don't hesitate to contact us at 905-882-5839, or via email at seminargroup@rogers.com.

Dear Neil,

As you may know, our annual Awards of Distinction Gala was a tremendous success this past April. Not only did we raise about $125,000 for research but the feedback on the event itself was outstanding. All proceeds from this year's Gala will support research at the University of Toronto Faculty of Dentistry.

We are inviting you to help us meet the challenge of making this year's Gala even better. Please join us as a member of this year's Gala Steering Committee. As the 2006 Gala is a month earlier than the past one, we need to hit the ground running in September.

The first meeting of the Steering Committee will take place on Tuesday, September 20, 2005 at SciCan, 1440 Don Mills Road (just south of York Mills).

If you have any questions please don't hesitate to call Fay Rotman, Event Coordinator at 905-889-4620 or RSVP by return email to Fay (fayrotman@rogers.com).

We look forward to working with you and hope to see you on the 20th.

SADA Gala Event

'History is made by those who have the ability to change the present'

Thursday September 15th, 2005 marked a monumental day for the South Asian Dental Association (SADA). The evening gala event, held at Payal Banquets in Mississauga, served as the official launch of SADA. The 500-plus individuals in attendance were also treated to a symposium featuring the latest developments in Digital Technology in the field of dentistry.

The event attracted some of the top officials from the dental community, including Dr. Cam Witmer, President of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons (RCDSO) as well as federal and provincial dental association executives. In addition, prominent South Asian government leaders, Mr. Harinder Takhar, Minister of Transportation (M.P.P) and Mr. Navdeep Bains (M.P), joined SADA to mark this inaugural event. The joint Masters of Ceremonies for the evening's festivities were SADA's executive members, Dr. Neil Gajjar and Dr. Vageesh Sabharwal. They were given the task of introducing the evening speakers, Dr. Bob Carroll, who is Quality Assurance Advisor with the RCDSO, and renowned lecturer Dr. Walter Golub. The audience was further entertained with a video montage featuring memories from SADA's past events. Dr. Jack Cottrell, president of the Canadian Dental Association and his Ontario counterpart, Dr. Jocelyn Pearce were on-hand as the Honourable Mr. Takhar took to the stage for the official ribbon-cutting presentation.

SADA was formed in 2002 under the guidance of Mr. Elesh Ruparel, a non-dentist representative from the RCDSO. Mr. Ruparel's intent at that juncture was to promote advancement of dentistry within the South Asian community. Since its inception, SADA has operated as a non-profit dental association for the pursuit of excellence in dentistry by all members of the dental team. This intent is best exemplified by the 5 core goals of SADA:

1. To promote oral health in the community
2. To encourage dentists to create a team environment in the profession
3. To promote high professional standards amongst dentists
4. To collaborate with other dental organizations
5. To have an international presence

The founding members of SADA have devoted countless hours promoting events and providing continuing education seminars to South Asian Dentists. Dr.Gajjar best describes SADA "as a nimble organization which has enabled dentists to become friends and has made dentistry a more favourable environment practice".

2005 marks the first year in which SADA has created an official membership drive for its events. To date, there are over 250 registered members in Ontario. Due to the diligence of its committee members, SADA has also gained international recognition from its counterparts in the Middle East and India in the past few months.

supported by proper structures to allow sound and continuous medical, social, economic and human interactions to take place. This sharing of information can only help us further increase our knowledge and allow the evolution of thought on this topic.

Our profession has the opportunity to assume a major role in answering this present need in our society. CDA president Dr. Jack Cottrell recognizes that the profession has a responsibility to lead this effort of access to care.<sup>1</sup> We are in an excellent position to promote and direct needed actions. As individual educators, we must push the boundaries, accept the challenge and collectively bear the responsibility for the solution to this important question.

Setting a Clear Presidential Mandate

Dr. Cottrell set an excellent tone and direction for his mandate in his first "President's Column."<sup>1</sup> The quote from Quinn Mills on caring for others is an important guiding principle. Everyone needs to work together. It is critical to communicate and consult as much as possible with members as well as with provincial associations and licensing bodies to demonstrate that opinions and suggestions are important and valued. As he has implied, the strength of our profession provincially is enhanced by its strength nationally.

Appreciation for CDA's Work

I must commend CDA for its great work in increasing awareness of good oral health and the dental profession throughout Canada. Not only does this work help to educate the public, but it also increases the number of patients that come to our offices.

I am impressed by many other projects CDA is actively involved in. We have all read about CDA's role in working with the Canada Revenue Agency to settle the GST issue. CDA has also been doing a lot of behind-the-scenes work on the hygiene issue, university tuition fees and the integration of foreign-trained dentists.

As vice-president of the South Asian Dental Association, I am very interested in this last issue, which is very complex. CDA has conducted much research on this subject and has been working with various levels of government and the colleges. Because the matter involves the movement of labour across Canada, many stakeholders need to work together. I am pleased with the manner CDA is handling this issue.

ITRANS<sup>TM</sup> is another fine project that CDA has delivered and which will revolutionize the way the dental world communicates in Canada. We will be able to send radiographs to other practitioners and to insurance companies and process credit and debit card transactions directly with this system, thereby saving money and time.

I find that CDA offers its members much more than the cost of membership. The cost of ITRANS alone without membership is $360; membership, which includes ITRANS, is only $621. This organization has definitely succeeded in offering its members value for their dollar.

At the Academy of General Dentistry (AGD), we have come to realize that people want tangible value for their membership dues. CDA has raised the bar; we have to work harder to give members more of what they want.

*Dr. Neil J. Gajjar
President-elect, Ontario AGD
Vice-president, South Asian Dental Association*

Oral Health Messages to Appear in National Publications

This fall, CDA hopes to further its role as the national voice for dentistry dedicated to the promotion of optimal oral health with 2 high-profile public education initiatives.

First, a 16-page oral health special interest guide will be featured prominently in the October issue of Homemaker's and its French counterpart Madame. This joint venture will include editorial stories on the relation between oral health and general health, brushing and flossing, cosmetic dentistry, oral health information for parents of children and teens, nutrition and oral health, and CDA's 5-point prevention plan. A copy of the oral health guide is included with this edition of JCDA.

Homemaker's is a national magazine that targets women between the ages of 25 to 54, the demographic group generally considered the gatekeeper of the family's oral health. It is estimated that more than 2 million Canadians will be reached through this oral health supplement.

Second, a print advertising campaign emphasizing the importance of the CDA Seal of Recognition will also be launched. Using the tagline "Choosing a toothpaste shouldn't be this difficult," the ad campaign will, for the first time, directly target consumers. The ad will appear in tandem with the oral health supplement in Homemaker's as well as in the National Post and the Journal de Montréal daily newspapers. ♦

CDA President Addresses AGD Convention

The Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) held its 53rd annual meeting in Washington, D.C., from July 13 to 17.

CDA executive director George Weber and CDA president Dr. Jack Cottrell attended the event on behalf of the Association. Dr. Cottrell was invited to speak before the entire AGD delegation at the House of Delegates opening ceremonies. He spoke about the many areas of collaboration that exist between the 2 organizations.

The convention provided an opportunity for a meeting of the AGD Canadian Caucus, where the benefits of membership and future areas of cooperation were key topics of discussion. The group also talked out the future challenges facing the profession. ♦

Taking Care of Fluffy's Canines

NEW YORK—Oral care products for pets are expanding their base to include everything from mouthwash and breathstrips to all natural teeth-cleaning sprays and pastes, according to a report by Packaged Facts.

"Given the billions of dollars spent annually on oral care products for people, and the growing tendency of pet owners to seek out human-style products for their pets, this pet health segment can only continue to gain momentum," reports Market Trends: Oral Care Products for Pets.

The US$33 billion North American pet sector is cashing in on the 'humanization' of pets as well as the 'urbanization' of pets and their owners.

"Approximately 62 percent of American households have a pet while 50 percent have more than one animal," reports the National Post. "In fact, there are six million more cats in the United States than there are children under 18 (or about 78 million felines)."

The evening gala event, held at Payal Banquets in Mississauga, served as the official launch of SADA. The 500-plus individuals in attendance were also treated to a symposium featuring the latest developments in Digital Technology in the field of dentistry.

Dr. Sanjay Uppal (Continuing Education Chair, South Asian Dental Association), Honourable Navdeep Bains, MP, Dr. Neil Gajjar, (Vice President, South Asian Dental Association), Dr. Perminder Dhaliwal, (Communications, South Asian Dental Association), Dr. Pravin Patel, (Secretary, South Asian Dental Association)

Dr. Vageesh Sabharwal (Treasurer, South Asian Dental Association), Dr. Jack Cottrell (President, CDA), Dr. Neil Gajjar (Vice-President, South Asian Dental Association)

Dr. Neil Gajjar (Vice President, South Asian Dental Association), Mr. David Kochberg, (International Dental Congress), Dr. Pravin Patel (Secretary, South Asian Dental Association), Mr. Ettore Palmeri, (Spectrum Magazine), Dr. Vageesh Sabharwal (Treasurer, South Asian Dental Association), Mr. Elesh Ruparel, (President, South Asian Dental Association), Mr. Mike Lakhani (Assante Financial)

provincial dental association executives. In addition, prominent South Asian government leaders, Mr. Harinder Takhar, Minister of Transportation (M.P) and Mr. Navdeep Bains (M.P), joined SADA to mark this inaugural event. The joint Masters of Ceremonies for the evening's festivities were SADA's executive members, Dr. Neil Gajjar and Dr. Vageesh Sabharwal. They were given the task of introducing the evening speakers, Dr. Bob Carroll, who is Quality Assurance Advisor with the RCDSO, and renowned lecturer Dr. Walter Golub. The audience was further entertained with a video montage featuring memories from SADA's past events. Dr. Jack Cottrell, president of the Canadian Dental Association and his Ontario counterpart, Dr. Jocelyn Pearce were on-hand as the Honourable Mr. Takhar took to the stage for the official ribbon-cutting presentation.

SADA was formed in 2002 under the guidance of Mr. Elesh Ruparel, a non-dentist representative from the RCDSO. Mr. Ruparel's intent at that juncture was to promote advancement of dentistry within the South Asian community. Since its inception, SADA has operated as a non-profit dental association for the pursuit of excellence in dentistry by all members of the dental team. This intent is best exemplified by the 5 core goals of SADA:

1. To promote oral health in the community
2. To encourage dentists to create a team environment in the profession
3. To promote high professional standards amongst dentists
4. To collaborate with other dental organizations
5. To have an international presence

The founding members of SADA have devoted countless hours promoting events and providing continuing education seminars to South Asian Dentists. Dr. Gajjar best describes SADA "as a nimble organization which has enabled dentists to become friends and has made dentistry a more favourable environment practice".

2005 marks the first year in which SADA has created an official membership drive for its events. To date, there are over 250 registered members in Ontario. Due to the diligence of its committee members, SADA has also gained international recognition from its counterparts in the Middle East and India in the past few months.

From the CDC

Guidelines on HIV Prophylaxis Updated

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) have updated their 2001 guidelines on the management of occupational exposures to human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) and recommendations for postexposure prophylaxis (PEP).

The updated guidelines include recommendations for health-care personnel who have experienced occupational exposure to blood or other body fluids that might contain HIV.

Although the principles of exposure management remain unchanged, recommended PEP regimens have changed. The authors of the revised guidelines advise that clinicians should consider occupational exposures as an urgent medical concern in order to ensure timely HIV PEP.

The updated guidelines can be found in the September 30 issue of the CDC Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report at www.cdc.gov/mmwr/preview/mmwrhtml/rr5409a1.htm. ♦

National Survey Examines U.S. Oral Health

CDC released findings from a national survey examining the oral health of Americans.

In its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report CDC reported on estimates from the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES), between the 1988–1994 and 1999–2002 reporting periods.

Among other questions, the survey examined the prevalence of decay and untreated decay, dental sealants, edentulism and enamel fluorosis.

Some of the more significant trends between the 2 time periods included a reduction in the prevalence of caries in permanent teeth of up to 10 percentage points among those aged 6–19 years. As well, there was a 6 percentage point reduction in edentulism among those aged greater than 60 years. Disparities were observed when income and education level, ethnicity or smoking status were factored in.

Success Stories!

Dr. Gajjar, Mississauga ON

Dr. Neil Gajjar has been a loyal Logic Tech customer since 2002. During that time he has seen his practice grow tremendously. Always one to be on the cutting edge of technology, Dr. Gajjar embraced Logic Tech's latest software in its infancy. Paradigm Office Suite is now an integral part of his practice success.

Paradigm Office Suite offers many advantages over all previous versions of Paradigm, but the one that has proven most advantageous to Dr. Gajjar has been the e-mail confirmation module. Using this add-on module, which is only available in Office Suite, he has been able to greatly maximize his staff time.

Dr. Gajjar has set up his Paradigm software to automatically send out reminders 3 days before the patient's scheduled appointment. When his patients receive their e-mail reminder, they can simply press a button in the e-mail which automatically shows up in his appointment book as having been confirmed. His staff does not have to call or manually send the e-mail! If the patient wants a call back or wants to reply in another fashion, there are capabilities for this as well. This has been very well received by patients who for the most part only wish to be contacted by email.

As well, Dr. Gajjar employs a number of Associates, Specialists and Hygienists. As there are always last minute changes in schedules, it is important for all providers to know their next day schedule so that they can plan what time to come in, have lunch and leave. The Paradigm software has been setup to send out a copy of the day sheet to all providers working the following day.

This enables everyone to plan their schedules and had been very appreciated by the providers.

Dr. Gajjar's office has been set up with five static IP's and a dedicated server. One IP is used solely by Logic Tech. Our technicians can go straight to the server at anytime to address concerns and update software without any computer being affected. Another IP is used by the Associates and Specialists to be able to login to their files which are stored by username and password. Thus, they can work on documents and view x-rays from anywhere in the world. Another IP is used for an internal video surveillance system. Dr. Gajjar has incorporated IP Cameras for patient security and to ensure quality control. These cameras are accessible only by username and password. Finally, one IP is dedicated for his personal computer which he can access from anywhere in the world. As Dr. Gajjar is busy with the numerous organizations he is involved with, this feature allows him to be in the office from anywhere in the world. The last IP is kept for possible future modules. Dr. Gajjar has also been utilizing the ITRANS claims system from Continovation Services Inc for some time now. His EDI is not sent through a dial-up modem, but rather through high speed Internet. His claims go through faster and don't tie up a phone line. He also needs only one modem rather than having one at every work station that sends EDI. ITRANS also offers Dr. Gajjar the ability to share x-rays and digital images with other practitioners as well as insurance carriers in the future. Dr. Gajjar also utilizes eQualifIDec, the credit / debit card application from Continovation services Inc. As with ITRANS, this product allows his office to further utilize his Internet connectivity while avoiding all of the troubles associated with sharing a telephone line for credit / debit card access. As well Dr. Gajjar has been able to realize cost savings over his previous credit / debit solution.

Dr. Gajjar is the President-Elect for the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry, is an executive on the membership council of the Academy of General Dentistry in Chicago and is Vice-President of the South Asian Dental Association. He is a fellow of the Academy of Dentistry International, a fellow of the Academy of General Dentistry and a fellow of the Pierre Fauchard Academy. He serves as the official dentist for the Miss India Canada Pageant, Suhaag Publication Group and Fashion Flair.

South Asian Dental Association (SADA) holds dental screenings at Shoppers World

TORONTO—The South Asian Dental Association (SADA) held its' first ever dental screening for the general public. This event was held at Shoppers World in Brampton, ON, where more than 700 people were screened by 50+ dental professionals.

SADA realizes the great need for access to care for dentistry within the community. The Oral Health Awareness Campaign was targeting children and youth in its' initial phase. It had come to a great surprise to the board of SADA that there is a substantial need of dental care among adults and seniors. Dr. Neil Gajjar, President-Elect of the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry stated that "we have found the needs of our senior community are under served and there is a need from all dental organizations to service these people. From a South Asian perspective, seniors are the most respected in our community and little has been done to deliver this respect."

■ South Asian Dentists Laugh away the "Blues"!

September 27, 2006

PRINTER VERSIONEMAIL ARTICLE TO A FRIENDCOMMENT ON THIS ARTICLE

On September 14th 2006, South Asian Dental Association (SADA) organized their 2nd annual Gala at Payal Banquets in Mississauga. The evening was an astounding success as over 500 dental professionals and dignitaries gathered under one roof to enjoy the comic performance by Dr. Howard Elson, who is also a professional singer and a pedodontist from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Dr. Elson and his accompanist Bobby Cardillo had the audience roaring with laughter with satirical comedy and poetry revolving around the "Life of a Dentist" in their debut performance in Canada.

SADA Gala was organized in conjunction with Henry Schein Ash Arcona's "What's New Night" which featured over 50 exhibits from various Dental Suppliers. The event was attended and supported by numerous politicians and dignitaries who applauded SADA's endeavours and commitment to continuing education and community service.

In lieu of Health Week, who's who in the field of dentistry in Canada were present including Dr. Wayne Halstrom (President of the Canadian Dental Association), Dr. Cam Witmer (President of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario), Dr. Elio Filice (President of the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry), Dr. Ian McConnachie (President of Ontario Dental Association) and Dr. David Mock (Dean of University of Toronto School of Dentistry) to name a few of the dental dignitaries.

This year, we were also honoured to have in attendance Mrs. Elizabeth Witmer, MPP (Deputy Leader of Opposition and Health Critic); Mr. Frank Klees, MPP and Critic of Ministry of Education; Dr. Ruby Dhalla, MP, Mississauga's mayor, Mrs. Hazel McCallion, and Mayor Marolyn Morrison of Caledon.

On September 14th 2006, South Asian Dental Association (SADA) organized their 2nd annual Gala at Payal Banquets in Mississauga. The evening was an astounding success as over 500 dental professionals and dignitaries gathered under one roof to enjoy the comic performance by Dr. Howard Elson, who is also a professional singer and a pedodontist from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Dr. Elson and his accompanist Bobby Cardillo had the audience roaring with laughter with satirical comedy and poetry revolving around the "Life of a Dentist" in their debut performance in Canada.

SADA Gala was organized in conjunction with Henry Schein Ash Arcona's "What's New Night" which featured over 50 exhibits from various Dental Suppliers. The event was attended and supported by numerous politicians and dignitaries

A New Look

As my first presidents message, I would like to take this opportunity to reflect on the past and at the same time seek some advice for the future.

When I joined the AGD in 1999 after graduation, I found it to be very active in the US where I studied but saw very little activity here in Canada. Thus, I was encouraged to join the board by Dr. Bastian and was made Membership Chair. During my term as membership chair, I found that my job was much harder than expected. Members wanted tangible benefits and value for their dollar. Something that the Ontario AGD would have to work on fast or end up losing its membership. What the board decided to do was go back to our main purpose of providing CE for the general dentist. We did this by developing a Fellowtrack program to complement our very impressive Mastertrack program. The Fellowtrack program, handled by Drs. Uppal and Marchello, is one of the most comprehensive programs in North America. For $149 an AGD member can get all their CE requirements met in a variety of disciplines. I have had a chance to review the 2007-2008 program that has been developed and I must commend both Drs. Uppal and Marchello for out doing themselves again, making the Fellowtrack program even better than last year.

We have also learned to team up with other providers and offer our members even more benefits. By doing so, we are working more like a non-profit corporation and contracting services from other providers, turning potential competitors into mutual partners. In this scenario, everyone benefits giving the individual member a greater benefit than if we were working alone. Our current partners now include TIDE, CAED, SADA, the Perio Institute, and the International Dental Congress.

Over the last few years I have seen a number of new organizations develop. This is great as it makes associations work harder for their members and forces them to offer them more.

However, it must be asked why these groups developed in the first place and the answer is clear, the members did not get value and the representation they wanted. Now that these associations have formed, it is important to know that they will not go away; by giving members what they wanted, these associations are now taking what we need, our members.

Hence, in this fragile world where we pay membership fees to the ODA, CDA, AGD, the membership will start to make choices as to which memberships to keep.

*In this scenario, everyone benefits giving the individual member a greater benefit than if we were working alone.
Our current partners now include TIDE, CAED, SADA, the Perio Institute, and the International Dental Congress.*

If you decide that membership fees are too high, please keep in mind, what the AGD offers; it offers all your CE points for the year with its Fellowtrack program, a value that you cannot dismiss. In addition, we offer all our members an evening of food, drink, and entertainment at the SADA/AGD President's Gala which is held every September along with a host of other tangible benefits that can be found on our website.

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome Dr. Oliver Pin Harry who will serve as our new Public Information Officer and Dr. Jennifer Yu, who will serve as our new Secretary. Dr. Pin Harry has already started to work on offering more member benefits to our membership.

Finally, we request that you, the member get involved and make a difference. I encourage interested members to submit an application to serve on the board and help serve their fellow members. We would love feedback, good or bad, to see how we can serve you better. It is only with the negative feedback that we can correct mistakes and steer our ship in the direction you want to see it go. I also encourage you to bring non-members to attend some of our programs. Unlike other organizations, we allow any non-member to come to our programs to see for themselves what the new OAGD offers and experience dentistry like they have never experienced it before!

AGD LETTER

*Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, BSc, DDS, MAGD, FADI, FPFA, Cert. IV Sedation
President, Ontario AGD*

I would like to take this opportunity to first congratulate Brenda and her team for a very successful Gala and continuing education program. In a time when the dentist's dollar is stretched and dentists are looking for more mileage on their dollar, it makes me proud to see an organization like HPDA step to the plate and offer them a bang for their buck. This rebirth and revitalization of this organization will ensure that they continue to address and surpass the needs of their membership and future potential members.

With that said, I am proud to have the HPDA as an approved Academy of General Dentistry provider. The Ontario AGD is responsible for accreditation of both local and national providers. Local providers fall under the umbrella of the Ontario AGD, while national providers obtain PACE approval from us. PACE, which stands for Program Approved for Continuing Education ensures that the program is not only recognized locally, but also with State Boards and other ADA programs.

The AGD ensures that programs approved pass a number of criteria set out by the AGD, but most importantly, these programs are free of bias from the sponsors and exhibitors. Thus, the dentist receives true, factual, unbiased data.

The fact that these programs are AGD approved, means that participants can use the hours earned toward their fellowship and mastership in the AGD. The designations FAGD and MAGD mean that dentists have completed 500 and 1100 hours of continuing education respectively along with a fellowship examination and a minimum of three years of membership in the AGD. These designations indicates the greatest level of commitment by dentists to their patients.

By becoming HPDA members and enrolling in their CE program, dentists can speed up the process of obtaining these designations.

We are proud to have this offered to ODA members in Halton Peel. We wish not only the association but also the members, all the best in their future endeavors.

On behalf of the AGD, thank you!

Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, BSc, DDS, MAGD, FADI, FPFA,
Cert. IV Sedation

It really is a Small World After All!

On a recent business trip to Orlando, I found time to visit the “happiest place on Earth” — Disney World. Walking past Cinderella’s Castle, and the replica of a nineteenth-century Western town, brought back wonderful memories of my favorite childhood ride: the “It’s a Small World” ride. This indoor ride takes boat-loads of amusement park goers through a five-minute tour where dolls, representing all the different nationalities of the world, sing the popular “it’s a small world” medley. During the ride, my mind wandered back to the world of organized dentistry, and I began to reflect on how small it is.

From a global perspective the world has indeed become a very small place. Today, people are connected in several ways: international travel has become relatively affordable, and information is readily available — we are all constantly connected. These transformations in our methods of communication have also benefited the field of dentistry. Information such as patient histories, radiographs and photos can be sent in real-time to anyone in the world. This benefits the patients, but also makes the profession infinitely more enjoyable as avenues for treatment dialogue are always open and unbroken.

Furthermore, in recent years there has been a shift towards congruency in our field: the internet has made information easily accessible, like texts are used around the world, and treatment techniques as well as drugs and materials are becoming increasingly standardized as professionals share their strategies. Today, we operate on a much more level playing field. For example, lecturers from around the world like Dr. Sunil Bhollabhai who recently put on a course for the Ontario AGD, have proven they not only practice at par with their Western counterparts, they are also able to provide insights into innovative techniques that can be of use to us in the West.

Patients are also benefiting from this globalization of dentistry. Thanks to the connectivity provided by a variety of overnight courier companies, a dentist in Canada can now make use of a lab in China. Simple economics shows this is also beneficial for our field since the labs are thus obligated to produce a higher quality product, at lower prices, to remain competitive. For example, labs in China that wish to retain their clientele and prosper must make concerted efforts to manufacture the desired products more effectively, and at lower costs, to avoid lab work from being sent to other countries, like Mexico.

When it comes to organized dentistry, we see that there are many organizations that have a global footprint. Organizations like the FDI, ADI, PFA, and the AGD allow their respective members to interact, and share ideas, thus working cohesively to produce the most desirable results.

As we look closely at our own backyard, we see many organizations have adapted this theory of globalization. A number of groups have formed joint working groups and alliances to offer members more. The Canadian Dental Association and the Ontario Dental Association work in concert to protect the interests of dentists at the federal and provincial levels, respectively, and the AGD works with all organizations in ensuring the highest quality of CE is offered and provided to dentists.

The interconnectedness of contemporary dental organizations is providing dentists improved professional standards, and providing patients with higher standards of care. Thus, it is with great enthusiasm that we await Toronto’s joint CDA-ODA meeting in 2008. This endeavor is long overdue, and we are eager to experience a forum wherein many organizations are given free reign to interact under a single roof.

As we have seen: interaction and connectivity within modern-day organized dentistry is vital to the development of our field, and we all have an important part to play as a part of this chain. I have personally seen the evolution of dental organizations over the last few years, and it is easy to recognize the definite progress that has been made. New methods of communication have enabled all organizations to communicate, to their respective members, all the necessary information with respect to protocols, drug interactions, and regulation changes.

At this time the Ontario AGD Board prepares for its annual meeting in San Diego, where the Canadian Caucus meeting with the Canadian Dental Association will also take place. I encourage all members, and non-members, to attend this convention as it will be one of the most exciting meetings ever — the convocation and gala for Fellows and Masters being held on the USS Midway, a United States aircraft carrier. The next few years will bring forth more unique experiences for Fellow and Master Awardees and I would encourage you all to attend the FellowTrack and MasterTrack programs to fast track your own way to these prestigious awards.

Today, we are fortunate to hear lecturers from every country, and attend meetings around the world. The ever broadening sphere of connectivity has ensured associations will continue to increase both working groups, and alliances, to provide ever higher levels of care and service. It is this kind of interaction, interchange, and interconnectedness that makes the world of organized dentistry a small one after all.

Tooth Erosion PSA Launches Soon

Earlier this year, the AGD partnered with GlaxoSmithKline Consumer Healthcare to develop a public service announcement (PSA) campaign designed to educate the public about the causes and consequences of tooth erosion.

Be on the lookout next month for an in-office patient education tool—a free tooth erosion brochure that reinforces the message and provides greater detail about the condition. In addition, the brochure will contain more information about the credentials, distinctions, and services provided by general dentists.

The initiative will support AGD members and the AGD by heightening awareness of key issues pertaining to family dental care. It also will position general dentists as the best-qualified providers for ongoing prevention and treatment of these conditions.

AGD Members Receive Fellowship from ADI

Sanjay Uppal, BSc, DDS, MAGD, and Filippo Marchello, DDS, MAGD, received Fellowship awards from the Academy of Dentistry International (ADI), an international honor society for dentists. They received the awards during the convocation ceremony at the Canadian Dental Association's annual meeting on Thurs., May 24, 2007, in Jasper, Alberta, Canada. Both Drs. Uppal and Marchello are board members with the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry (AGD).

Root Canals and Dental Implants Equally Effective

Endodontists (AAE) released a position statement on April 3, 2007, regarding treatment planning when considering a root canal or dental implant. The position statement stresses the importance of considering the patient's best interests. It says, "Quality dental care can only be provided when treatment planning decisions are made by both the dentist and the patient, based on the patient's general health status and specific oral health needs. The recommended treatment should be safe, predictable, cost-effective, respectful of patient preferences, aimed at preserving normal anatomy and function, and based upon the best available scientific evidence."

The statement also indicates that the decision to treat a tooth with root canal therapy or place a single-tooth implant should be based on whether or not the tooth can be restored, the quality of the bone structure, esthetic demands, a cost-benefit ratio, and systemic factors. In addition to considering the probability of overall survival rates of the therapy provided, dentists also should consider risk factors of the chosen treatment.

Eric K. Curtis, DDS, MAGD, an Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) spokesperson who practices in Safford, Ariz., says that when deciding which treatment option is best, "My decisions typically center on concerns about patient health and patient tolerance. Patient health includes both local

Dental implants and root canals are virtually equally successful treatment options for saving compromised teeth, according to a study published in a special supplement to The International Journal of Maxillofacial Implants (February 2007), the official publication of the Academy of Osseointegration. The Academy of Osseointegration also published a consensus statement developed by experts from several dental disciplines that supports the study's findings and stresses the importance of making treatment decisions based on individual patient's circumstances.

To assist dental professionals and their patients in determining the most appropriate treatment, the American Association of considerations, such as the existence and extent of infection and bone loss, and systemic considerations, such as diabetes and hypertension. So a root canal, which is typically less invasive than an implant, might be recommended for someone with certain health problems. The patient's tolerance for treatment also might suggest a specific treatment direction."

"While it is true that studies show equal survival rates of single tooth implants and endodontically restored teeth, a major consideration in the decision must be based on the clinical condition and restorability of the tooth," says Neil Gajjar, DDS, MAGD, an AGD spokesperson from Ontario, Canada. This is due to the fact that not only does each procedure have a chance of failure, but each procedure also is subject to long-term survival rates." The dentist needs to consider which procedure will be most beneficial for the patient in the long term.

According to the AAE, its position statement is meant to be used as a guide when deciding how to best treat a compromised tooth. It also is intended to assist dental professionals in evaluating the various risk factors and other implications associated with each of the treatment choices.

Overall, Dr. Curtis believes that patient education is a determining factor when it comes to root canals and implants. Middle-class patients who rely on third-party payers to help cover costs often look for the most time- and cost-saving option. Dr. Curtis says, "Patients must consider the demands of tomogram imaging, tooth extraction and bone preparation, implant placement and time for osseointegration, the placement of a healing cap, the taking of impressions, and crown delivery. Also, there are financial concerns. A patient's dental plan probably won't cover much on an implant. That's why many of my patients still choose root canal therapy as the easier and more practical alternative."

Dr. Gajjar agrees that educating the patient is extremely important when deciding which treatment to administer. "The best way to handle this is by explaining to the patient what is involved with each treatment, the overall prognosis, and the long-term survival rate of the restored tooth."

Dental School Updates

Northwestern Pre-Dental Society

The Northwestern University Dental School closed in 2001, but two undergraduate, pre-dental students there have founded the Northwestern Pre-Dental Society to gather like-minded students. Because of the highly esteemed medical program at Northwestern, the student founders felt that more awareness of the pre-dental program needed to be summoned. More Northwestern students are becoming aware of the profession and have decided it is a good match for them.

U of L Receives Millions for Research

The University of Louisville (U of L) received two monetary awards for study from the National Institute of Dental and Craniofacial Research. Michael Martin, PhD, an assistant professor of dentistry at the U of L, received $1.4 million to study the role of inflammation in the immune system's efforts to protect the body from disease. Georgios Hajishengallis, PhD, associate professor of dentistry at the U of L, was given $1.6 million to investigate why the aging immune system gradually loses its ability to fight P. gingivalis bacteria, a leading cause of periodontal disease.

SCHIP Update

Rep. Rahm Emanuel (D-IL-5) introduced the Healthy Kids Act of 2007 (HR 2147), which would extend the State Children's Health Insurance Program (SCHIP), streamline enrollment under SCHIP and Medicaid, and amend the Internal Revenue Code to provide for a healthy savings tax credit for the purchase of children's health coverage.

There is a provision for flexibility in this bill that would increase a state's allotment if it is determined that a state will have more children enrolled in SCHIP than the projected number of children to be enrolled.

The bill also would establish grant programs for conducting innovative outreach efforts designed to increase the enrollment and participation of eligible children and promote understanding of the importance of health insurance coverage for children and prenatal care.

Indian Health Care Legislation

Indian Health Care legislation has moved forward in both congressional chambers. In the U.S. House, the Committee on Natural Resources unanimously approved HR 1328, the Indian Health Care Improvement Act (IHCA). No amendments were offered on either the Community Health Aide Program (CHAP) or the Dental Health Aide Therapist (DHAT) provisions; therefore, they will remain as written: "limited to Alaska and limited in scope of services they can provide." Please refer to the AGD's updated fact sheet about the reauthorization bills at www.agd.org/files/advocacy/policies/IndianHealthCareReBill.pdf for more details.

Meanwhile, in the U.S. Senate, Sen. Byron Dorgan (D-ND) introduced a virtually identical bill (S 1200), which was referred to the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs.

Dental Education Loan Bill

Rep. Eleanor Holmes Norton (D-DC) introduced the Dedicated Dental Service for HIV/AIDS Act of 2007 (HR 2168), which would establish a dental education loan repayment program. The program is intended to encourage dentists to serve at facilities in areas with a high incidence of HIV/AIDS that have a critical shortage of dentists.

Specifically, the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services may enter into an agreement with any dentist under which the dentist agrees to serve for a period of time at such a facility and the Secretary agrees to pay a percentage of the dentist's dental education loans.

With the changes in methods of communicating, the way we market ourselves also has changed.

The Way We Communicate

In January, my flight from India was canceled and I was forced to stay overnight in Delhi. I met a few young university students who were studying in the United States and also were stranded. After spending the day with them, I asked for their e-mail addresses. The students then asked me if I had a Facebook® account. Since I was unfamiliar with the site, they explained that it was similar to hi5 and Friendster. I told them I did not have a Facebook account, but I would definitely look into it when I returned to Canada.

Although I had heard about Friendster and hi5, I decided not to open an account because they seemed to be geared more toward dating and other types of relationships. But the way in which these students had described Facebook made me think I should take a closer look at this new technology.

Over the years, the way in which we communicate has changed dramatically. I believe the most radical change came when Microsoft® Messenger was introduced. This simple tool allowed people to communicate in real time with anyone, anywhere in the entire world, for free. Since most computers are set up to sign into Messenger as soon as they are connected to the Internet, users are connected and available for conversation upon turning on their laptops. The technology further improved when Web cams were introduced. People could then hear and see each other on their monitors; they could conduct meetings like never before. Again, this was all for free.

With the changes in methods of communicating, the way we market ourselves also has changed. Local marketing techniques, such as the Yellow Pages, flyers, and television do not have the same return as before. With Web sites, such as YouTube, people no longer have to wait for a specific time to watch their favorite television shows; they can do so at any time by logging on and viewing the shows via streaming video—either on their computer or on mobile handheld devices. Hence, fewer people now watch television in a traditional way and, as a result, advertising on this medium is much less effective. The age of the newspaper also is fading because people want quick, concise images of activities that are happening around the world to be delivered directly to their handheld devices. Fewer people read the newspaper, so advertising dollars do not offer the same return as they once did.

Directory advertising companies spent significant capital to develop online portals after viewing studies that showed that most people don't even keep a printed directory, since the information within can be obsolete before it is printed. The only way to obtain current information is by visiting online directories where maps, Web sites, and other pertinent information can be downloaded and printed.

Upon my return to Canada, I received an invitation to open a Facebook account. I visited the site to learn how it works and how people are using it. I believed that joining an online community would be a great way for me to touch base with friends with whom I may have lost contact. Since July, I have added more than 160 friends to my list; many were from my hometown of Stephenville, Newfoundland. Facebook enables you to add yourself to different networks. I have added myself to the networks that focus on where I have lived, where I have worked, and where I have studied. When other friends create accounts and join these networks, they can reunite with me.

What does this have to do with marketing? The answer is simple: Online communities connect people through degrees of separation and create a virtually unlimited referral base for businesses. My online community—a free marketing tool—has resulted in 30 patients referred. Not only have old friends made appointments, but my office has received referrals from friends of my friends.

I have come to realize that my office has spent too much money on television and print media. Neither avenue comes close to the return on investment that has been realized by my Web site, Facebook, or Google™.

At the end of the day, I've learned that if we don't change our marketing methods to adapt to new communication channels, we cannot expect our businesses to realize the same growth we have experienced in the past.

An Acclamation of Your Achievements!

With summer coming to an end and students preparing to return to school, I would like to take the opportunity to reflect on some of the Ontario AGD's great achievements over the past few months, as well as remind our members of what's to come.

First and foremost I would like to congratulate the 12 Fellows and 5 Masters on receiving their prestigious awards at a convocation ceremony on board the USS Midway, an aircraft carrier docked at San Diego Harbor.

This extravagant celebration was very much deserved. To achieve the 500 hours of continuing education needed for Fellowship one must participate in at least 75 days of continuing education away from the office. For the average dentist this equates to at least $225,000.00 in lost income from being out of office based on an average office production of $3000.00 per day. Add to that, at least an additional $22,500.00 in tuition at $300.00 per day. This equates to approximately $247,500.00 for a Fellowship and an additional $297,000.00 for a Mastership. So, as you can see, it not only takes a substantial commitment of time and energy, but a substantial financial commitment as well.

This financial and time commitment is of little importance to dentists who have dedicated their lives to their profession and their hearts to their patients. They strive to offer the best possible care to their patients, and for this they must be commended.

It is this kind of commitment that has led the growth of the Ontario AGD, our members, and our partners in education. Dr. Filippo Marchello was awarded the title of Top Recruiter: having recruiting more members in Ontario than anyone in any other constituent in North America. In addition to increasing membership, the AGD awarded Dr. Elio Filice the ACE award for best editor resulting in the most improved newsletter of all constituents in North America. The entire Board was also recognized when it received an honourable mention in the category of best constituent — an award the Board has set its sights on receiving at our next annual meeting in Orlando.

I congratulate the Board on all their hard work, and look forward to sharing in their achievements at our next annual meeting. I also have to congratulate Dr. Frank Pomposo, our treasurer, for winning the AGD Annual Golf Tournament. Frank, who has been with the Board since 1990, has ensured that our budget numbers are always below par and our product way above it.

I would also like to congratulate all the members for their dedication to continuing education and their devotion to offering their patients the very best. For this, I would like to welcome all members to the AGD Annual President's Gala to be held on September 27, 2007 at Payal Banquets in Mississauga.

This evening is free to all AGD members and will consist of a Casino Night with many gifts and prizes. There will be plenty of food and drinks along with entertainment to honour those that have chosen the path of continuing education. This evening will launch the start of the 2007-2008 Fellowtrack Program which I encourage you all to join.

Finally, I would like to congratulate the team of Dr. Sanjay Uppal and Dr. Filippo Marchello for the development of this program and the negotiation of member benefits with our continuing education partners. Our members-only e-newsletters will detail all the reduced tuition costs for courses that take place in Ontario and throughout Canada. Thanks to the hard work of these individuals, your membership will result in the savings of thousands of dollars on course fees.

I encourage all non members to take a look at the new AGD and become a part of this great team of dedicated professionals.

Assume your patients' water is fluoridated?

- Not in Ontario's Niagara region, where the water supply hasn't been treated since the early '90s. Many local dentists say they are unaware of the situation

by Lynn Bradshaw,
Assistant Editor, Dental Chronicle

SOME MUNICIPALITIES IN ONTARIO'S populous Niagara region have had inadequate amounts of fluoride in their water supply since the early '90s, a fact that was not brought to the attention of local dentists until last May, according to the Regional Municipality of Niagara's dental director, Dr. David Klooz.

These inadequate levels of fluoride in the water supply in areas such as Pelham, Welland, and Thorold were not reported to the health department, Dr. Klooz said, because public works legislation states that notification is only necessary if fluoride levels go above recommended levels. However, legislation governing the health department says public works must give notification if fluoride levels fall below rec-

Periodontal research

Studies link stress to periodontal disease

- Independent University of Toronto, Brazilian investigations to identify additional causative factors

by Jelani Lowe,
Associate Editor, Dental Chronicle

A RECENT SYSTEMATIC LITERATURE review of major studies by Brazilian researchers suggests a positive relationship between stress and periodontal disease, and the findings may be supplemented by an ongoing investigation at the University of Toronto.

The Brazilian report, published in the Aug. issue of the Journal of Periodontology, found the majority of studies reviewed between 1990 and 2006 showed a strong correlation between stress, distress, and periodontal disease.

"Our review highlights the importance of psychological factors in periodontology, making it apparent that diagnosis and treatment of psychosocial factors is as important as the clinical treatment of periodontal disease," said lead investigator Dr. Francisco Nociti, of the State University of Campinas, Brazil.

"Stress has been linked to periodontal disease since the middle of the last century and most reports comprise necrotizing forms of periodontal disease," Dr. Nociti noted in an interview with DENTAL CHRONICLE. "In the past decade, more evidence has emerged from epidemiological studies relating peritonitis to stress, depression, and negative life events."

PERIODONTAL DISEASE, STRESS, AND SOCIAL SUPPORTS

Researchers at the University of Toronto have begun a similar investigation into the impact of various social supports such as family or friends on the effects of stress in the development of periodontal disease.

Facing up to Facebook

■ The way the world communicates has changed, and (30 new patients later) this dentist concludes that's a good thing

by Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, Special to Dental Chronicle

THIS PAST JANUARY, FLYING BACK FROM MY ANNUAL trip to India, my flight was cancelled due to fog and overbooking. As a result, I was fortunate enough to meet with a few young American university students who had also found themselves stranded in Delhi. We spent the day together, had dinner, and I proceeded to ask them if they would like to exchange e-mail addresses. At this point one of the students asked me if I had a Facebook account.

I was stumped. I had my Blackberry, cell phone, state-of-the-art laptop, Wi-Fi phone, and a handful of different e-mail addresses—but Facebook? What was that? The students explained it was an online community, where individuals of any age could set up an account using their e-mail addresses. After establishing this initial introduction, individuals are then able to locate and invite friends, acquaintances, and colleagues to join the online community and share contacts, photos, and any other information they would like to share.

This was all new technology to me. However, Facebook seemed intriguing and I wanted to take a closer look.

Facebook was launched in February 2004 as a new means of communication for Harvard students. The site was made available to all students with a designated university e-mail address, and later to the general public in September 2006. Today, the website boasts over 23 million active users across more than 47,000 regional, occupational, collegiate, and secondary school networks. Facebook is now the sixth-most trafficked and number one photo-sharing site in the US.

The Internet and the online communities it has spawned have clearly changed the way we interact. Waiting for the customary dinner party to 'network,' and modestly dispensing business cards are quickly becoming the archaic ways to expand, and do, business. Communication pathways are rapidly expanding, and the way we communicate has dramatically changed.

With methods of communication constantly changing, the way we market our practices, and advertise our services, must also change. It is vital to realize standard local marketing techniques of the past (colored ads, door-to-door flyers, and television commercials) are no longer enough. In fact, they often have a lower rate of return. People expect information to be at their fingertips—preferably on a screen in front of them, and not in some thousand-page yellow, white, or blue book. With websites such as youtube.com and torrent downloads, people watch what they want, when they want. Gone are the days of reorganizing daily timetables to ensure that favorite television show will not be missed. With access to a computer with an Internet connection, almost any show can be viewed online via video streaming. As a result, fewer people are watching television, and an even smaller number are channel flipping—television advertising is becoming increasingly ineffectual.

The golden years of the print press have also been fading. Few people wait for their morning paper to get an image of what happened in the world the day before.

As a result, circulations have drastically declined. Advertising in this medium means paying to reach out to a very small, and specific, part of the population—this is certainly not cost-effective.

With the aforementioned changes in modern methods of communication, our methods of marketing must be re-examined if we are to remain relevant. Enter Facebook.

Upon my return from India, I found an invitation to join the Facebook community in my e-mail inbox. Since I grew up in Newfoundland, completed my undergraduate degree at the University of Toronto, and my DDS in Washington, DC, I thought Facebook would be an excellent portal through which I could find old friends and acquaintances.

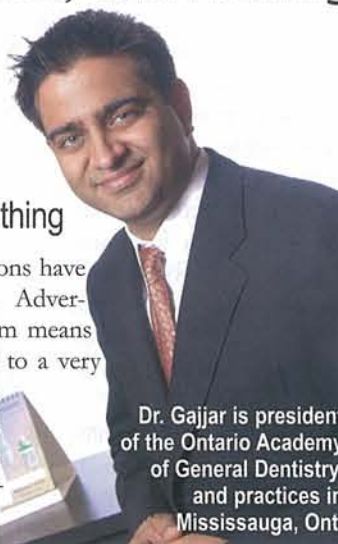

As of a few months ago, I have added approximately 150 friends to my list, many of whom are from my hometown of Stephenville, Nfld., but Facebook has also enabled me to become a part of countless other networks. When other friends, or acquaintances, create Facebook accounts they are also able to join these networks, and reunite with others.

At this point, the question is: What does this have to do with marketing? The answer is quite simple. My Facebook account became a free and incredibly effective marketing tool for my practice. After establishing my account, friends and acquaintances I had lost contact with found out about my practice—as did all of their friends and acquaintances who had Facebook accounts. The result has been more than 30 new patients.

Many of us have heard the adage, "we are all separated by six degrees of separation." In other words, everyone is no more than six acquaintances, colleagues, friends, or family members away from each person in the world. Facebook connects people through minimal degrees of separation. For example, each individual with a Facebook account has a list of 'friends,' and each one of those 'friends' has his/her own account with his/her own list of 'friends.' The beauty is in the connectivity it provides: my friend's friend (who is two degrees of separation away) can access my profile and view my list of friends. This creates an unlimited referrals base.

Having tracked the referrals that come to my office, I have concluded we spend too much money on television advertising and print media—neither of which provides a return similar to the return on investment from our website, Facebook, and Google search engine.

Technological progress is inevitable. The way the world communicates has drastically changed, and trying to avoid these changes by continuing to do business and marketing in the conventional way is futile. We must change our marketing methods. We must adapt to these new forms of communication and use them to our advantage, otherwise we cannot expect our businesses to grow as they have in the past.

Dr. Gajjar is president of the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry, and practices in Mississauga, Ont.

U.S. property

The right time to invest?

■ With the Canadian loonie equal to a US greenback, and prices in retreat, the sunbelt real estate market looks like a ripe opportunity. But is it?

THE US HOUSING MARKET—IS THIS THE RIGHT time for you to consider a house or vacation property in the US?

The unequivocal answer to the question posed above is: yes and no.

Clear on this? Not to hedge any bets, but some observers think this is the best time to invest: optimal house prices, great house price appreciation in key areas, and tenants wanting to rent your properties at rents that make your properties cashflow positive. Yet, many of you may be wondering about phrases tossed around during media coverage of these matters, such as 'subprime problems,' 'mortgage chaos,' 'housing market crash.' We will explain.

THE SUBPRIME PROBLEM

The subprime mortgage market lends to people whose income is too low, or whose credit history too patchy, to qualify for an ordinary mortgage.

Subprime borrowers are poorer than those who can obtain mortgages at lower, usually fixed rates. They tended to join the great housing-market party late, when prices were already high. Many appear to have been encouraged to take out loans by brokers who were more bothered about their fees than their clients' ability to repay their debts, and the lenders who made the loans underestimated the potential for future default.

Subprime borrowers—long shut out of home ownership—account for one in five new mortgages and 10 per cent of all mortgage debt. Low short-term interest rates earlier this decade led to a bonanza in adjustable-rate mortgages (ARMs). Ever more exotic products were developed, including "teaser" loans with an introductory period of interest rates as low as one per cent.

When the housing market began to slow, lenders pepped up the pace of sales by dramatically loosening credit standards, lending more against each property and cutting the need for documentation.

A repossessed property will eventually be sold—$326 billion of repossessed mortgages equates to approximately $112 billion of losses, which is spread over several years. Consider that about $600 billion was wiped out on the stockmarkets as share prices fell on Feb. 27th. Any losses ought to be manageable even for banks such as HSBC and Wells Fargo, the two biggest subprime mortgage lenders, and Bear Stearns, Wall Street's largest un-the AGD and my practice," he says.

Public Information Officer Haniel Rosemond, DDS, FAGD, of the New Jersey AGD, agrees. "The material presented was excellent and provided me with tools that I can use as an AGD leader as well as in my practice."

Saturday was filled with more spirited discussions and brainstorming activities, as the participants began by identifying what is needed for results-oriented leadership. Attendees brainstormed about what it takes to produce results and determined the most relevant trends in general dentistry and within the AGD as an organization. They then drilled down to specifics and explored the implications and possible responses for their leadership contributions. The session, "The ABCs of the AGD," built upon the responses in the early-morning discussions. Participants were asked to look closely at the importance of the resources that the AGD provides, including AGD staff members and peer-networking. The session also gave attendees more information about future leadership and volunteer opportunities provided by the AGD.

The conference concluded by giving participants a chance to discuss and reflect on their experiences and the discussions they had. Participants left Texas with a renewed sense of motivation and fresh ideas for their roles as leaders.

Reflection and motivation

In addition to the many sessions, the conference divided participants into mentor sections to allow for discussion among up-and-coming leaders and veteran leaders. Also, during each break period, attendees were encouraged to network and discuss issues with their peers. This allowed attendees to work and brainstorm with leaders of different experience levels. The energy from the up-and-coming leaders inspired the veterans. AGD Secretary Linda Edgar, DDS, MEd, MAGD, felt it was a great way to involve new leaders and to inspire those with more experience. "The opportunity to meet and talk to our young leaders was enlightening," she says. "Sometimes we think we know what they want and need without asking. This kind of activity allows us to connect, show that we care, and begin to create a better future for the AGD."

Mark Malterud, DDS, MAGD, president and editor of the Minnesota AGD, says, "Leadership in this organization needs to be dynamic and ever-changing to address the diversity of the issues that we face. New leaders help this organization address these issues with new ideas and this conference helped in the development of these up-and-comers. It was great to be a part of it."

Marko Alanis, DDS, the immediate past-president of the Rio Grande Valley AGD, echoed those sentiments, saying, "This conference has made me more open to new ideas and change. It also has taught me how to leverage and seek talent in different individuals to help advance the future of the AGD."

Douglas Bogan, DDS, FAGD, regional director of the Rio Grande Valley AGD, was especially attuned to the value the conference offered up-and-coming leaders, saying, "The FLC motivated me to seek larger perspectives in my volunteer leadership, practice, and personal activities. I felt it was a rare opportunity for the up-and-coming leaders that the AGD will benefit from for years to come."

AGD President Vincent Mayher, DMD, MAGD, was thoroughly impressed by the FLC. "The 2007 Future Leaders Conference exceeded my expectations," he says. "The level of enthusiasm that was evident was electrifying. I would love to see this event shared with many more AGD leaders."

AGD Past President Bruce Burton, DMD, MAGD, ABGD, urged others to attend the event and expressed his enthusiasm for the conference's content. "Of all the courses on leadership skills and interaction I have taken, this was by far the best and I felt lucky to attend. If you get the chance, don't miss taking it."

Region 4 Trustee Manuel Cordero, DDS, felt the goal of the conference was realized. He says, "The Future Leaders Conference was all about connecting the dots that will make the future leaders of the AGD function in the way in which we were meant to operate: efficiently and to improve our quality of life." ♦

The Canadian Section Annual Convocation was celebrated May 24, 2007 at the Fairmont Jasper Park Lodge, Jasper, Alberta, Canada. Undoubtedly the most spectacular of any venue the Academy has been privileged to visit, Jasper Park boasts unparalleled scenery, majestic mountains and wandering wildlife.

Past President Dr. Ralph Barolet presented a history of the Academy for the Fellows-Elect. Highlighted was the role the Canadian Section has played in the growth and development of the Academy. Officers of the Academy present for the Convocation ceremony were introduced and the Orientation program was adjourned for the reception. The reception provided time for renewal of old acquaintances, developing new friendships and fellowship for all participants and guests.

ADI President, Dr. Frank Faunce presided over the induction ceremony, assisted by Regents Drs. Don Stewart and Hank Klein; Vice-Regent Neil Gajjar; Past Presidents, Drs. Ralph Barolet and Rex Fortescue; and the Executive Director, Dr. Robert Ramus. Honorary Fellowship was bestowed on Mr. John T. Patterson prior to the induction of an outstanding 2007 honors class. The ceremony concluded with remarks from the Class Respondent, Dr. Peter Doig.

Class Response

Mr. President, Distinguished Fellows, Colleagues, Ladies and Gentlemen. Good Evening.

It is a great honour and privilege to be asked to say a few words on behalf of the Canada Honours Class of 2007. Together myself and my professional colleagues would like to thank the Academy of Dentistry International for recognizing our efforts and accomplishments in our field. And what a collection of men and women; I feel very humbled to be included in such a group of remarkable dentists, who have contributed to our community in so many ways.

I use the term "community" very deliberately because it is my belief that we as dentists and members of society belong to a number of communities within our professional and private lives. We belong to communities of family, of the city or town in which we reside, of social circles, perhaps of church or other places of worship, of faculty, of alumni, of sports organizations and not least of our profession.

I see the relationship of these communities in my mind as a Venn Diagram, you might remember those diagrams of superimposed circles which have one area that is common to all. I must admit that I had to ask my 11 year old daughter if I had the right name for the diagram. In my mental Venn Diagram I have many circles of differing sizes overlapping in many places. These circles represent the different communities in which I play a roll and common to them all in that one little spot that they all overlap is me.

So what do we do within these various circles of life in which we participate. I would like to paraphrase the late President John F. Kennedy and "ask not what your community can do for you, but what you can do for your community." We all have skills which we can offer to our communities. Some of your skills are in areas of sport, religion or public service. Activity in these areas are all means by which we give back to our communities.

Tonight the community we celebrate is our professional community, likely one of those big circles in our own personal Venn Diagrams. We live and practice our profession here in Canada in one of the strongest dental communities in the world. We live in a country that provides the vast majority of people access to the type of dental care that is second to none. We have done an admirable albeit not perfect job of providing dental care to our community of Canadians. But there is a greater community to which we as dentists belong and that is a world wide fraternity of people dedicated to improving oral health throughout the world.

Canadians have always been active in reaching outside our borders to provide oral health care to the less fortunate worldwide. Whether it is students providing care in villages in Central America or Maxillofacial surgeons treating the unfortunate in Vietnam, Canadian dentists have always been on the forefront of our profession. We have dentists active in International Dental Organizations such as this one or the FDI, in fact we now have for the first time a Canadian president of the FDI. These organizations are dedicated to improving knowledge worldwide to improve the oral health of our global community. They do this by improving access to scientific knowledge, to improving education of oral health care providers and by improving access to quality dental care.

*Dr. Donald A. Stewart, Regent Canada East and

So as dentists it is our duty to serve the various communities to which we belong. To share our skills and knowledge with others and with any luck we will leave our communities a little better off for our having been there.

And so, on behalf of the class of 2007 may I say once again that we as a group are humbled by the Academy's faith in us as dentists and individuals to allow us to accept the obligations and dedication to the ideals and mission of the Academy of Dentistry International.

Thank-you and Good Evening.

members of our Section always look forward to their presence and participation.

During the first year of his term, in 1999, our annual meeting was held in Halifax, Nova Scotia, in conjunction with the annual convention of the Canadian Dental Association. Having met Bob and Janet for the first time at that meeting, we weren't aware of Bob's strong aversion to fish and seafood. Being on the east coast of Canada, naturally the big social event of the convention was a 'Lobster Fest,' which we all attended as part of the festivities. When we attempted to find Bob a substitute for the main course, the best we could come up with was a 'hot dog' — which he devoured without complaint.

It was our pleasure, at our 2007 convocation, to induct Bob as an Honorary Fellow of the Canadian Section, as we had done for his two predecessors. We look forward to our continuing relationship with Bob during the last two years of his term.

The total membership of the Section continues to grow. Currently we have 665 members, consisting of 424 Active; 6 Master; 220 Life and 15 Honorary. At our 2008 convocation in Toronto on April 12th we will have 43 candidates, including an international one. As reported by President Rondeau, we continue our student award program and our humanitarian projects.

During the 12 years that I have had the privilege of serving as the Registrar of the Canadian Section, one area which has made this a pleasant and productive experience has been the relationship of the Canadian Section with our International Office. This has been partly due to the outstanding Fellows who have served as International President, but more especially to the two Fellows who served as Secretary General during this period. For the first two plus years it was Secretary General Dick Shaffer, and now I am into the tenth year of working with Secretary General Bob Brady.

In addition to being efficient and pleasant to work with himself, Secretary General Brady has assembled an outstanding support staff in the Central Office, who assist him in handling the business of the College in an effective and congenial manner. Bob and his wife Janet are great ambassadors for the College. Since his appointment, they have missed attending only one annual meeting of the Canadian Section, and the mem-

Secretary-General Robert E. Brady was inducted as an Honorary Fellow of the Canadian Section at the Annual Meeting in Jasper, Alberta, Canada on May 25th, 2007.

"Teamwork, dedication and commitment from the members of the Ontario AGD has lead to this great achievement," said Dr. Gajjar. "We look forward to another outstanding year in which we can help advance the field of dentistry and the AGD as well as ensure the oral health of the public."

Ontario AGD earned an Honorable Mention for the CE Award of Excellence, which recognizes exemplary continuing dental education programs throughout a state. It acknowledges constituents who have provided multiple CE opportunities throughout their state through direct training or through approved local program providers and have encouraged participation in the Fellowship and Mastership Awards programs.

For their efforts to go above and beyond in their recruitment and retention efforts, Ontario AGD also received an Honorable Mention for the Membership Award. Ontario received the ACE award, a component of the Editor's Program, for their excellence in newsletter publishing. Constituent Editors compile constituent newsletters and information on ways to recruit, retain and train new editors. Newsletters are evaluated by impartial judges who are not affiliated with the AGD.

The AGD is a professional association of more than 35,000 general dentists dedicated to staying up-to-date in the profession through continuing education. Founded in 1952, the AGD has grown to become the world's second largest dental association, which is the only association that exclusively represents the needs and interests of general dentists.

Dental aid plan takes root

Peel Region registers 1,100 seniors in program to help low-income earners receive oral care

MOIRA WELSH
STAFF REPORTER

Like many low-income seniors, Linda Manicki chose the pain of an infected tooth over the sting of a dental bill.

That all changed a few weeks ago when, after reading about Peel Region's new dental care program for low-income seniors, Manicki became one of the first to receive treatment, ending months of throbbing from an infected tooth.

"I am on a very limited budget and at the end of the month there is no money left over, certainly nothing for a dentist," said Manicki, 65.

Her tooth was removed, and the pain is gone.

Manicki is one of 1,100 seniors in the region who registered for the program after it was announced in mid-November. They will receive treatment within the next six months. Some 479 more are on a waiting list, revealing a demand that surprised even Carolyn Parrish, the Mississauga councillor who pushed hard for the program after being inspired by the Star's 2007 series on dental care for the working poor.

"It has had such an amazing response from people," Parrish said. "It is so fabulous that the program is finally operating. These folks, a lot of them did well in their day, and now they are just trying to hang on. They've paid their taxes for 55 years, but they don't have enough money left to pay for dental care."

Parrish said when the idea was announced in 2007, at least 40 dentists signed up immediately to offer their help. Under the program, the region's public health department pays dentists 70 per cent of their regular fees.

Meanwhile, the province's promised dental program for the working poor, announced in 2007 after the Star stories appeared, is nowhere to be seen. The government said it would spend $45 million a year on basic dental care for those and Caledon who sign up through Peel Public Health. They're required to declare a financial hardship that prevents them from paying for dental care themselves.

Dr. Neil Gajjar has a dental practice near Mavis and Derry Rds. One of the dentists who embraced the program, Gajjar currently has five patients going through the system.

"A few years ago, we did a screening program that was intended for children, but what we saw was an overwhelming response from seniors. We realized there was a big void where seniors were not getting the care that they needed, because they are living on a pension cheque," Gajjar said.

Seniors often wait so long for dental care that when they do come in their problems are profound, he said.

"We are seeing them come in with a lot of tartar, tartar that is covering their teeth, which is resulting in infections in their mouths."

BORN AND RAISED IN NEWFOUNDLAND, DR. NEIL GAJJAR has recognized the value of achievement and furthering his education right from the start.

Upon graduating with honors from the Stephenville Integrated High School, Dr. Gajjar was awarded the University of Toronto National Book Award, the Principal's Shield, the Governor General's Medal, and the Lion's Club Scholarship as well as being named valedictorian, Student of the Year and a Canadian Scholar.

Dr. Gajjar went on to complete his degree in chemistry at the University of Toronto where he was named to the Dean's list and named a Faculty Scholar. His Doctor of Dental Surgery degree was completed in Washington, DC, where he was awarded the Teachers of Oral Diagnosis Award.

Throughout his career, Dr. Gajjar says he has possessed a passion to bring dentistry forward as a profession, and so increase the profile of dentists with the public and within the dental profession as well. He accomplishes this personal goal of advancing dentistry as a profession by remaining involved and promoting continuing education.

"I have been involved in a lot of organized dentistry, including the Academy of General Dentistry, where we promote education for general dentists," he said.

"Also, especially in the US, we lobby and are politically active in maintaining the rights and promoting the rights of dentists with the aim of protecting the dental profession."

Maintaining a work-life balance is not an easy task, he says. Typically, he works five to six days a week, sometimes 12 hours a day. Dr. Gajjar noted that he also strives to keep up to date with the changes in therapies, techniques, and procedures within the profession. He frequently provides or attends continuing education sessions, and serves on some boards.

"This profession takes up a lot of time and it does put a strain on the family life, but that's where having an understanding family is important."

Dr. Gajjar says he is honored to be serving on DENTAL CHRONICLE's Editorial Advisory Board, and he hopes that the information within the journal is well received.

"DENTAL CHRONICLE offers dentists a voice to actively share knowledge and information. It is one of the great journals that we have out there that will enable people to improve, will enable people to increase production, and more importantly improve patient satisfaction, as well as their quality of life."

Dear Dr. Gajjar:

The College has received a request from The National Dental Examining Board of Canada (NDEB) to provide a list of licensed general dentists who would be appropriate to be appointed as NDEB Examiners for the Equivalency Process for 2011/2014.

The RCDSO Executive Committee has nominated you as a suitable individual for this purpose. If selected by the NDEB Examinations Committee, you would need to be available to attend an Assessment of Clinical Skills and/or three-day marking session which typically occurs in June each year in Ottawa, although we are not sure of the specific dates at this time.

The list of names will be considered by the Examinations Committee and presented to the NDEB Board. Examiners are appointed for three calendar years and are eligible for reappointment.

If you are not interested in being nominated as an NDEB Examiner, please let me know.

Yours truly,

Internet Advertising:

What works, what doesn't, and what can't

NEIL J. GAJJAR, DDS

Having spent a lot of time in Canada and the United States, interacting with dentists of both countries, it is clear that there has been a slowdown in dental office production in both countries. This has been obvious, more so over the last six months than we have previously experienced. Rest assured you are not in this boat by yourself; it is affecting every industry, every profession, including ours.

One of the main principles in marketing is that a business should spend more money in advertising when the economy is slow. This is based on the fact that there are limited dollars being spent in the market and that your brand should be the one that captures that dollar when it is spent. This has always been the case, but it is less so this time than in the past. The reason being is that there has been almost a stop in the movement of money. When there is very little money people have to spend, even with all the advertising, they may want to spend it with you, but can't. Hence, the key in today's economic condition is to hold tight and weather the storm.

During this slow period, I believe the best thing to do is work on your website, search engine optimization, and build your social media sites.

However, many still believe that they should spend more money to advertise and over the last few months I have seen some very creative internet advertising – Zoom Whitening for $99, Light Activated Whitening for $25, and a Complete Exam, Two Bitewings, and one hour of Cleaning for $39.

While these dentists have meant well with these creative internet promotions, I can tell you that there are serious problems with the approach.

First, you are not a restaurant where you have something unique to offer and want people to try your food and hopefully keep coming back to your restaurant. Your service is like everyone else, and as such, there is only so far a person will travel and pass so many other dental offices to see you. You will however, drive to the other side of town to eat a good meal and you will recommend the place to others if you like the food.

You may think that you and your staff will provide such good service you will win their loyalty from the patients' current dentist. Do you really think you and your staff are that good and better than the other thousands of dental teams out there? I believe that each has their unique offerings.

Have you ever wondered why these internet 'fans' are coming to your office?

It's not because of your service, but because you are offering your service at a discount. So, by attracting this price conscious client, do you not think they will ask you for a deal on every service you provide? If you gave an 80% discount on the cleaning, why can't you discount their restoration, denture, or implant? Is this the patient you really want?

Do you actually think you are going to get good patients and that these promotions will help build your business? You have to understand that many people outside your backyard subscribe to these emails. When I mean outside, I mean, Stephenville, Newfoundland and Detroit, Michigan. Remember, when you advertise a deal, many people will subscribe/purchase it to use when they visit. Hence, you will not get any follow up business other than the one-time loss you experienced.

A loss leader works for milk and water, hoping consumers will buy other lower ticket, high margin items, but even these stores are finding themselves having to set limits, something you cannot do in dentistry.

Those are my thoughts on why you should not waste your time and money on this type of internet advertising. However, you may think I'm wrong and want to take the advice of those who advocate the use of these channels. Remember, these guys have an incentive for you to use these channels. You buy product from them at full cost and sell it to recoup half your cost in the hope of getting patients. Who wins? The patient and the supplier!

Regardless, if you don't want me to help save you some money, at least let me help save your dental licence. That's right; the rules in Ontario regarding these advertising channels are much different than those of the United States.

First, you cannot split your fees with anyone other than a Dentist and under certain situations, a Dental Hygienist. The terms of most of these Email Marketing companies is that they take 50% of the revenue received for these services. By you signing a contract with one of these many Email Marketing companies, you are splitting your fees for a particular service and hence subject to professional misconduct and the potential discipline which may include fines and/or suspension from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons.

A second violation is in regards to Referral Fees. A dentist in Ontario cannot pay anyone a fee for the referring of patients to their office. By virtue of these companies charging 50% for referral of patients to your office, this could put you in jeopardy for another area of professional misconduct.

Finally, if reductions of fees are advertised, those reduced fees must be charged to everyone, whether they have third-party coverage or not. Furthermore, by offering reductions to only new patients, you may upset patients who have been loyal to you. If you choose to offer light whitening with no expiry for $99 or consults, radiographs and cleanings for $39 to the members of the website, than be ready to do it for anyone for the rest of your life or find yourself with complaints resulting from patient dissatisfaction.

I hope that helps with your marketing decisions, saves you some money, and keeps your Certificate of Registration on your wall.

Dentist Should Advise Vegetarians on Good Oral Health

Health concerns about fat and cholesterol have prompted many people to become vegetarians, and the nutritional deficiencies that can sometimes result may reveal themselves during dental exams.

Academy of General Dentistry spokesperson Dr Neil Gajjar, DDS says he usually asks patients if they adhere to vegetarian or other special diets.

"Most adult vegetarians are very knowledgeable about nutrition; they maintain their diets in a proper fashion. An adult on a vegetarian diet for a prolonged period can be at an increased risk for periodontal (gum) disease from a lack of vitamin D and calcium," says Dr. Gajjar.

Children, however, need a well-balanced and nutritionally complete diet for proper growth, and the potential for deficiencies is greatest among children and teenagers who put themselves on vegetarian diets without knowing enough about their nutritional needs.

Although vegetarian diets vary, some vegetarians, particularly those who do not consume any food of animal origin, can experience deficiencies in calcium, vitamin D, riboflavin, vitamin B12 or complete proteins. Studies show that by eating the right amount of fruits, vegetables, grains and legumes, they can get the nutrients they need. Dr. Gajjar recommends that anyone considering adopting a vegetarian diet seek counseling from their dentist or a nutritionist to learn about substituting foods to get all the necessary nutrients. He also suggests taking a multiple vitamin daily.

Teeth may soften when there is a shortage of vitamin D, becoming more susceptible to decay and periodontal disease. Vitamin D is produced in the body with sun exposure, so deficiencies are rare, but it can develop in those who do not consume milk or fish. Adding vegetable margarines or soy milk to the diet may solve the problem. "Diet is an important part of an individual's medical history, and patients should always inform their dentist if they adhere to vegetarian or other special diets," says Dr. Gajjar.

Dr. Gajjar lectures on managing medical emergencies in the dental office, has been a lecturer of oral pathology and clinical instructor at the Canadian Academy of Dental Hygiene, and currently serves as a clinical instructor in the Oral Diagnosis and Emergency clinics at the University of Toronto, Faculty of Dentistry.

Dr Gajjar has served on the marketing committee of the Ontario Dental Association, the executive committee of the Canadian Dental Protective Association, the Membership and Dental Education Councils of the Academy of General Dentistry, is the Past-President for the Ontario Academy of General Dentistry, is an executive on the Council for Group Benefits of the Academy of General Dentistry in Chicago, is Past-President of the South Asian Dental Association and serves as the Canada East Regent for the Academy of Dentistry International.

The Toronto District School Board organized a special event to thank the Academy of Dentistry International (ADI) on May 31. It was in appreciation the organization's recent donation of $12,500 to North Kipling Junior Middle School for milk for all the students for the school's Morning Meal program.

The donation came from ADI's Dentistry Canada Fund (DCF), a charity for oral health that aims to mobilize and allocate resources for the advancement of oral health through education, research and public outreach.

"The school has been recognized as a school that has taken an initiative in establishing a positive attitude towards healthy living through its Breakfast program, Morning Meal program, physical education curriculum and extra-curricular sports programs," according to a press release. "Since April, students have been enjoying milk as a nourishing part of the morning meal."

Client or Patient?

I wanted to say that I have just read Dr. Tomkins' President's Page on "Client or Patient?" (Ontario Dentist, March 2011). I agree with her completely!

I recently held the position of director for a private accredited dental hygiene school, and when we were told we had to change all wording from patient to client, well let's just say some old dogs can't be taught new tricks.

I appreciate your interpretation on the subject.

Thank you for sharing your thoughts!

I wanted to tell Dr. Tomkins how much I enjoyed Client or Patient? Dr. Tomkins, I could not agree with you more.

Let's hope that the universities take note of this and return to calling those we treat patients!

Apology

This letter was sent to ODA President Dr. Lynn Tomkins after an article appeared in a national newspaper in which the author referred to dentists in an unflattering manner.

Dear Dr. Tomkins:

Recently I made some remarks about a new dental innovation that promised pain-free dentistry. At the time I said that all the "sadists" would have to leave the profession. Though I made the comments in jest I realize that I was perpetuating an outdated stereotype and not acknowledging the wonderful advances in pain-free dentistry that already exist.

Through the work of people like Dr. Steve Goren, [ODA Past President] who has always been a friend to the people of Toronto Centre, that I have the honour of representing, I have come to appreciate all that dedicated professionals in the field of dentistry have done to help those in need of dental services in my constituency.

Often, our words do not reflect the respect and regard that we have for others. In this case I'm afraid that's true.

I hope we can continue to work together in the future on issues of importance to your Association and to the benefit of those I represent in Toronto Centre and throughout the province.

Yours sincerely, would supplement their wages. So, in a way, they depend on part of their earnings through the kindness of the patrons of their establishments. Sure, there are times when bad or rude service forces us not to leave a tip or to leave an insultingly small tip. But why do we often do it even when the service was efficient, warm and friendly?

Personal experience

I once received terrible service at a bar in Mississauga. The waitress came by after ten minutes, took my order and never came back again to check on me although I needed to have my drink refreshed as well as order something to eat. She spent her time on the phone and talking to other patrons. The service toward the white patrons contrasted with the poor service I received, so much so I actually went up to the waitress, told her what I thought and went on to call her white trash while the patrons looked on shocked. I met up with the owner later and complained about my experience. Sympathetically, he mentioned that his staff often had to deal with South Asian tippers, who didn't tip, snapped their fingers to summon a waitress (an obnoxious Indian habit that most in the west find offensive, perhaps I should've tried that). He was not excusing the poor service but let on to what he thought could be fueling this indifferent service so many of us now experience. A friend of mine tells me of a trick that invariably gets him great service at a bar: He tips generously after the waitress brings him his first drink and uses please and thank you. The fact that he tipped initially distinguishes him from other South Asians, who tended to evaluate the service and generally find it poor enough to

TELUS cuts roaming rates up to 60%

TORONTO: TELUS has lowered its roaming voice and data rates by up to 60 per cent. With the launch of TELUS' new clear and simple international travel pricing, all customers get the same low roaming rates when they're traveling. "After the launch of our new HSPA+ wireless network in late 2009, TELUS was able to offer our customers a true international roaming capability for the first time, ending Rogers' monopoly in International Roaming for Canadians. We quickly started working with carriers around the world to negotiate reduced roaming rates for our customers and we now want to make it as simple and affordable as possible for our customers to use their smartphones wherever they go, without coming home to a surprise on their bill," said David Fuller, TELUS Chief Marketing Officer.

justify a meager tip, if at all. This friend is a working Joe, who told me that often he has gone out restaurants with wealthy South Asian clients, who tip so poorly that he is embarrassed. "One time the client tipped $3 on a bill that was $75. I added another $5 and the client told me that I was tipping them too much," he said. Another friend of mine, who visited from Austin, Texas where there are fewer Indians, noticed that whenever he travelled to areas in North America and Canada with a significant South Asian population, he experienced fair to poor service at restaurants.

Nothing to do with race

This poor service has nothing to do with race because even South Asian service staff would prefer serving the white man instead of the brown sahib. And so this is a cycle that we find ourselves in. We get poor service because of the reputation we've acquired and then we don't tip which reinforces the stereotype in the service world. We, South Asians, love a bargain and sure we want to get a deal everywhere, we will nickel and dime even when something costs a dime at a garage sale. But visiting restaurants in particular, there is an expectation of an etiquette, an invisible vibe that service staff pick up on and service is delivered based on perception. In restaurants, when we find prices 'steep', our first reaction is often to complain about the dish tasting bad.

Tip calculators

Patrons at bars and restaurants customarily tip 15% of the bill and some phone apps have tip calculators which I suspect South Asians seldom use. They should realise that service staff are at the bottom of the food chain and often have trouble making ends meet. They work long hours and get paid minimum wage. Next and the Dentistry Canada Fund for their generous donation. Earlier, a presentation of thanks to the ADI/DCF took place at the School. Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, Canada East Regent, represented ADI.

TORONTO: The Academy of Dentistry International (ADI) Board of Directors donated $12,419.28 for milk for all the students of the North Kipling Junior Middle School as part of its morning meal program. Since April, students have been enjoying milk as a nourishing part of the morning meal, claims a release issued here. The students, staff and community extended warmest thanks to the Board of Directors of the Academy of Dentistry International.

The Dentistry Canada Fund was created in 1994 as Canada's charity for oral health. Its mission was to mobilize and allocate resources for the advancement of oral health through education, research and public outreach.

Dr. Sandy Bhasin
Chiropractor Mississauga

Q: Pain going in to my right arm and fingers. Feels like a electric feeling. Also losing power in right arm - hard to lift things. Don't want drugs or surgery. What should I do?

A: Pressure in top and middle spine - can cause mid back pain, pain in the arms and even low energy. So what can you do? Get a spinal check-up. Even the slightest misalignment in your spine - can cause tremendous damage to your overall health. By first finding if you have pressure in your spinal cord and then gently, and scientifically removing the pressure over time - your body can start to heal. In our office I use a gentle technique (by hands only) - that removes pressure from your spinal cord. With this approach - we've had thousands of people heal and start to enjoy life once again without the use of medication or surgery. You were born with a natural ability to heal yourself - we just have to unleash it. Don't wait for things to get worse. Waiting usually makes things more expensive and you may even need strong medication or even surgery! My name is Dr. Sandy Bhasin and I am a Chiropractor, passionate about helping you feel your best. ## My experience with teeth whitening services

■ Some dentists are asking: Why should we determine a low price for whitening, when patients may be prepared to pay more?

by Dr. Neil Gajjar,
Special to Dental Chronicle

CONSUMER-BASED ORAL PRODUCT suppliers spend millions of dollars advertising fresh breath, whitening pastes, mouthwashes, chewing gums, brushes, and home whitening kits. These companies have raised public awareness of oral health and have created a consumer that is ready to pay for whiter teeth. I got into whitening early on, but my first attempts were financial failures. Offering whitening can be good for your practice, but you need to approach it carefully.

When whitening initially hit prime-time television, it seemed like everyone wanted it. I would hear people talking about it, inquiring about it, and some even getting it. Since I spent so much of my time marketing, I decided to get an in-office whitening unit. The choice was not based on the quality of the whitening, but rather to simply offer the service and attract business.

It would seem that this would be a very profitable service. Guess again!

MY HISTORY WITH WHITENING

When we quoted $399 originally for in-office whitening, we had very little case acceptance. Yes, there is a possibility that we as a dental firm don't have the skills to sell, but I believe that if a product is good and priced right it will sell itself. In 10 years, I have only performed five such whitening treatments. Factoring in kit and supply cost, reception time, prep time, treatment time, clean up, the result ended up being a bad financial decision.

We also tried offering take-home whitening kits for which we charged $150. I like the kit because people are able to control the time they insert the trays and hence control potential sensitivity. I would always inform patients to keep the solution in the fridge and to use it the night before a big party to have that bright smile to show off the next day.

The take home kits produced a profit of around $50. We are a business and we have to make money—not a lot, but some. But even with this small margin, there was limited acceptance of the take home kits. What I realized over the years is that consumers don't want to do anything by themselves. They would rather pay more and have it done for them and better yet, have it done quicker.

So a $399 price point was not attractive for the in-office whitening and $150 was not worth it for something they needed to do themselves. At the same time, mall kiosks, spas, hair salons were doing chair-side cheaper—$99 with a satisfaction guarantee.

So how could they do it and we couldn't? We could!

The secret was that any whitening gel placed on the teeth could be 'activated' with heat/light. A heat/light source would result in the carbamide/hydrogen peroxide breaking down faster resulting in faster whitening. The active ingredients of whitening are carbamide/hydrogen peroxide, mixed with potassium nitrate for sensitivity, in some sort of plastic carrier. The chemicals are cheap, with other costs being associated with the carrier, packaging, marketing, and regulatory fees. These kits should be available for less than $50 while an attractive looking light with safety standards and control can be found for no more than $1,000. Companies that sell at these prices are out there, and seeking them out is key to being competitive in whitening.

WHAT TO CHARGE?

Now the question becomes what you should charge for light-activated whitening. In my office we sell one 15 minute session for $79 and two sessions for $100. This will leave you a net of $29 to $45 depending on the number of sessions. The beauty of this system is that the patient is in the decision position of whether they want two sessions. Almost 75% of patients opt for the second session; the $79 seems like a good price point to start the process.

The key is fair and honest pricing. One of the comments that I have heard from dentists is why should I sell whitening for such low prices when people are willing to pay hundreds of dollars? Even if the provider's volume is low, their profit outweighs them doing it more cheaply.

Whitening is one of the few items we can sell at a discount and increase volume as opposed to all other things we offer. Remember, we are required to disclose the cost of the product to the patient and show any additional charges as a professional service fee. A service fee significantly higher than the cost of materials may leave your patients thinking your fees are too high. If they think your whitening fees are too high, they may think the same for your other services.

When a patient asks why your whitening is so much more expensive than others, what can you say to justify the cost and remain honest? The Internet is there to call your bluff. These days, our patients are very educated and information is available at their keyboard. There are multiple postings by consumers who discuss their experiences, research and comparisons. These postings are highly accurate, unbiased information, and will likely be more valued than those from any dentist. So, the only way to avoid deceptive sales tactics is to always speak the truth.

The flip side of this is why not offer whitening for free to bring new patients in the door? I never liked this approach and never advertised free whitening. For one thing, anything free has no value. It also opens the door for people to bargain for other services and ask for freebies on top. Finally, it opens up the door to misleading advertising and professional misconduct.

Providing light-activated whitening at a reasonable cost not only makes you look honest and trustworthy, it provides everyone with an opportunity to experience the benefits. It makes people more conscientious of their smile, oral health, and results in them requesting more cosmetic dentistry from you.

At the end of the day, you have a patient that got something at the price point they wanted, they were able to get it done right away in a safe environment under your supervision and you possibly opened up the door for further work by a fair and trustworthy dentist—you.

Skin conditions can indicate patient's dental health

patient could be experiencing Bechet's syndrome.

It is significant that clinicians differentiate between lesions that cannot be scraped off, such as leukoplakia and leukoedema, and lesions which can be scraped off with a tongue blade, such as pseudomembranous candidiasis.

A leukoplakia can range from something benign like a callus to something much more severe like a cancer. "There are a lot of possibilities," says Dr. Siegel. One visual clue is that redness in a leukoplakia is an ominous sign, with about 4 to 6% being malignant at the time of biopsy. The prognosis becomes increasingly poor with increasing redness of the lesion.

OTHER CONDITIONS TO WATCH FOR

Pseudomembranous candidiasis is more likely to occur when the immune system has been suppressed in some way such as when a patient is taking antibiotics. The most common sites of pseudomembranous candidiasis are the tongue, buccal mucosa, and the palate. Therapies can include systemic anti-fungal medications as well as a modification to diet.

"You get yeast overgrowth because you wipe out the competing bacteria," explains Dr. Siegel. "The best defense is [consumption of] cultured yogurt."

Some benign lesions can originate from contact with a new toothpaste or mouthwash, and ceasing use of the mouthwash or toothpaste will lead to resolution of the lesion in about two weeks. Similarly, ASA burn can occur, and it can be treated with a bland diet and warm, salt water rinses, with the lesions generally healing without scars in about two weeks' time.

Habits such as lip biting or cheek biting, which are very common, can also lead to hyperkeratoses, but the white lesions do not undergo malignant change. They vary in appearance depending on how severe the habit is. To help correct the habit, Dr. Siegel suggests that patients be fitted for an appliance.

As a general rule, lesions that persist and remain unchanged for a two-week period should be biopsied, Dr. Siegel said in conclusion.

Dr. Gajjar practices in Toronto and Mississauga, Ont., and is a member of DENTAL CHRONICLE's National Editorial Board. He is a Master of the Academy of General Dentistry, a Fellow of the Academy of Dentistry International, a Fellow of the Pierre Fauchard Academy and a Fellow of the International College of Dentists. He is certified in IV sedation.

Glitz, Glamour and Excitement as the Canadian AGD hosts its first ever Gala Event!

By Dr. Sarah Mancuso, OAGD PIO.

On the evening of September 7, 2013 over 400 general dentists and guests flocked to the first ever Canadian AGD Gala. Canada AGD is part of the National Academy of General Dentistry an organization of over 38,000 members who help dentists continue to strive for excellence in patient treatment.

This years Casino theme had AGD members stroll down the red carpet and pose for a photo-op on an evening that magnified all the glitz, glamour and excitement that Monte Carlo is famous for. The Canadian AGD organized this Gala event at no charge for its members as a chance to show appreciation for all of the general dentists who are part of and support the AGD.

It was an opportunity to develop an event that was purely fun and social, where AGD board and members could dress up, mingle and take pleasure in an elegant night out together. Gala-goers enjoyed this marvellous event inside the Lakeshore Convention Centre in Mississauga, Ontario.

Mississauga Mayor, Hazel McCallion seemed to enjoy herself at the Canadian AGD Gala

Photographers were onsite to capture the memories made, with live show girls to pose with. This elegant evening included a cocktail hour of drinks and hors d'oeuvres, a 5 course sit-down dinner, dessert bar, live entertainment, dance floor, expansive casino area and raffle of prizes.

Gala guests were enthusiastic players at the casino, vying for chips to bid on the prize items, which included a Louis Vuitton purse and LCD flat screen TV. Attendees enjoyed an address from the city's mayor and national AGD president, awards, and dancing late into the night. Gala guests experienced the best in food, décor, live music, and entertainment, in keeping with the AGD's commitment of supporting its general dentist members.

Everybody was a winner at the casino.

By all accounts this evening truly was a tremendous success. AGD president Linda Edgar recounts the night by saying,

"Region 15-16 Canada Academy of General Dentistry once again accomplished what some would say is impossible by offering a free Gala to its AGD members with fun casino games and prizes, wonderful food and dancing to it's members. This region is setting the bar for all constituents by also involving their Canadian dental association leaders, sponsors and even their Mayor in this wonderful event. Sponsors from many sectors help AGD members receive free continuing education or CE at very reasonable costs and encourage dentists to continue to strive for excellence in all that they do to help provide excellent care for our patients."

Special thanks to all of the dedicated OAGD board members, volunteers and sponsors, as well as to our GP members who made the night so worthwhile. Members are encouraged to 'like' our Facebook page Ontario AGD, as a link will be posted shortly of photos from the event.

We hope all dentists in Canada will also take advantage of the AGD National Annual Meeting to be held in Detroit on June 26-29, 2014 with world renowned speakers such as John Kois, Carl Misch and Ron Jackson.

ડેન્ટિસ્ટોના વાર્ષિક ગાલામાં કેસિનોની થીમ

કેનેડિયન એકેડમી ઓફ જનરલ ડેન્ટિસ્ટ્રી (દાંતના ડોક્ટરો)નું પહેલું વાર્ષિક ગાલા સાતમી સપ્ટેમ્બરે મિસિસાગાના લેક્શોર કન્વેન્શન સેન્ટર ખાતે યોજાઈ ગયું. કેસિનોની થીમ ઉપર યોજાયેલા આ ગાલામાં ડેન્ટિસ્ટો પાસેથી કોઈ ફી લેવામાં આવી નહોતી, પણ તેમને રેડ કાર્પેટ તથા વ્લેમર, એન્ટરટેઇનમેન્ટ, ફાઇવ કોર્સ સીટ ડાઉન ડિનર, ડાન્સ, ઇનામો તથા ટ્રિન્કસ વડે નવડાવી દેવામાં આવ્યા હતા. સંસ્થાની નેશનલ એન્યુઅલ મીટિંગ હવે ૨૬ થી ૨૮ જુન, ૨૦૧૪ દરમિયાન ડેટ્રોઇટમાં યોજાશે.

મધ્યપ્રદેશમાં ભાજપનો એકતા અને શક્તિપ્રદર્શનનો પ્રયાસ

ભોપાલ: મધ્યપ્રદેશના મુખ્યપ્રધાન શિવરાજ સિંહ ચૌહાણની રાજ્યવ્યાપી યાત્રાના સમાપન પ્રસંગે ભોપાલના જમ્બોરી ગ્રાઉન્ડ ખાતે કાર્યકર્તા મહાસભાનું આયોજન કરાયું હતું. આ સમયે ભાજપના લગભગ તમામ આગેવાનો રાજનાથસિંહ, અડવાણી, નરેન્દ્ર મોદી, સુખા સ્વરાજ, અરુણ જેટલી, મુરલી મનોહર જોશી, વૈક્યા નાયડુ સ્ટેજ પર હાજર હતા. આ કાર્યક્રમ દરમિયાન નરેન્દ્ર મોદીએ બે વાર અડવાણીના ચરણસ્પર્શ કર્યા હતા પરંતુ અડવાણીએ તેમની સ્પષ્ટ રીતે અવગણના કરી હતી. જોકે પોતાના સંબોધનમાં અડવાણીએ ભાજપના મુખ્યપ્રધાનો મોદી, શિવરાજસિંહ અને રમણસિંહના શાસનના વખાણ કર્યા હતા. અડવાણીએ જણાવ્યું હતું કે આજે ભાજપ દેશના રાજકારણમાં આ ઊંચાઈએ પહોંચ્યો છે તેનું કારણ ફક્ત નેતાઓના ભાષણો નથી પણ કરોડો કાર્યકર્તાઓની મહેનત અને તપસ્યા છે. મોદીએ પોતાના ભાષણમાં વાજપેયી અને અડવાણીને પક્ષના માર્ગદર્શક ગણાવ્યા હતા. મોદીએ જણાવ્યું હતું કે મહાત્મા ગાંધીની અંતિમ ઇચ્છાને અમલમાં મૂકી આપણે દેશને કોંગ્રેસના શાસન અને ભ્રષ્ટાચારમાંથી મુક્તિ અપાવવાની છે. આગામી લોકસભાની ચૂંટણી કોંગ્રેસ નહીં પણ સીબીઆઈ લડશે તેમ મોદીએ જણાવ્યું હતું.

ભૂતપૂર્વ આર્મી ચીફ વી.કે. સિંહ સામે તપાસની શક્યતા

નવી દિલ્હી: ઇન્ડિયન આર્મીના ભૂતપૂર્વ વડા જનરલ વી. કે. સિંહ થોડા સમય પહેલાં હરિયાણાના રેવાડી ખાતે યોજાયેલી જાહેરસભામાં ભાજપના વડાપ્રધાનપદના

ઉમેદવાર નરેન્દ્ર મોદીની સાથે સ્ટેજ પર જોવા મળ્યા હતા. એના થોડા દિવસ પછી એવા રિપોર્ટ મળ્યા હતા કે જનરલ વી. કે. સિંહ આર્મીના વડા હતા ત્યારે આર્મીના એક યુનિટ ટેક્નિકલ સપોર્ટ ડિવીઝન (ટીએસડી)નો દુરુપયોગ કરાયો હતો અને તેનો ઉપયોગ જમ્મુ-કાશ્મીરની ઓમર અબ્દુલ્લા સરકારને ઊથલાવવા માટે પણ કરાયો હતો. આ ઉપરાંત આ યુનિટની નાણાકીય ગેરવ્યવહારમાં સંગ્રહણી હોવાના પણ રિપોર્ટ મળ્યા હતા. આ રિપોર્ટના આધારે કેન્દ્ર સરકાર જનરલ વી. કે. સિંહ સામે તપાસ હાથ ધરે તેવી શક્યતા હોવાના ખબર મળ્યા હતા. (વેલકમ ટુ ઇન્ડિયન પોલિટિક્સ જનરલ). આ અંગે પત્રકારોએ વી. કે. સિંહને પૂછતાં તેમણે જણાવ્યું હતું કે, આ તમામ રિપોર્ટ બદલરાદાપૂર્વકના છે અને ભાજપના નેતા નરેન્દ્ર મોદી સાથેના મારા સંબંધો સહિતના અનેક કારણો તેના માટે જવાબદાર છે તથા તેની પાછળ અમુક શસ્ત્ર સોદાગરો પણ સંકળાયેલા છે તેમ તેમણે જણાવ્યું હતું. જનરલ વી. કે. સિંહે આર્મી દ્વારા સરકારને સોંપાયેલા આ રિપોર્ટની કોપી મેળવવા 'રાઇટ ટુ ઇન્ફર્મેશન' (આરટીઆઈ) એક્ટ હેઠળ માંગણી કરી હતી.

Brampton gets accolades for branding campaigns

BRAMPTON

Few cities have worked this hard at promoting itself the way Brampton has over the past few years. Now the city's economic development office has been recognized for all its efforts in the form of two awards from the Economic Developers Association of Canada (EDAC) for its new brand identity and brand video. *

Healthier snacks and meals at more Ontario schools

TORONTO

Ontario is going out on a limb when it comes to getting more children and youth eat nutritious meals at school so they can be healthier, concentrate better and learn more effectively.

As part of the Healthy Kids Strategy, the province is investing an additional $3 million in Ontario's Student Nutrition Program to create more than 200 new breakfast and morning meal programs for approximately 33,000 kids in higher-needs communities, including First Nations communities.

This increased funding will also support the hiring of 14 food distribution and logistics co-ordinators across the province. Co-ordinators will work with new and existing programs to build stronger partnerships with local businesses and food distribution networks resulting in more efficient channels to purchase, transport and store food.

The Student Nutrition Program has been shown to influence overall student health and improve learning and behavioral outcomes. A recent research report found that more than three-quarters of high school students who eat breakfast regularly are on track to graduate, while suspension rates have decreased by half since the implementation of these programs.

Providing nutritious meals and snacks in more schools across the province supports the Ontario government's efforts to give every child a healthy start in life. This is part of the government's economic plan to invest in people, invest in infrastructure and support a dynamic and innovative business climate across the province. * request during this morning's General Committee meeting despite the fact they almost uniformly agreed there isn't much interest in the issue among residents.

The debate eventually wandered into the realm of eliminating the Region.

But for that to happen, Brampton, Mississauga or Caledon that to happen, would have to appeal to the Province.

Councillors suggested an online survey for residents so they can hear what they have to say about Brampton's request.

Brampton is hoping the issue is resolved by Dec. 31, which is when the Municipal Act requires changes to be adopted before the term of council ends. Meanwhile dozens of aspiring South Asian candidates are waiting in the wings. *

Workshops to be held in Mississauga on home fire prevention

MISSISSAUGA

Mississauga's Fire Prevention & Life Safety team will be at various Mississauga Home Depot locations as well as Erin Mills Town Centre during Fire Prevention Week to educate the public on ways to prevent kitchen fires and keep our community safe."

Talk to staff about fire safety in the kitchen and the best ways to prevent kitchen fires from starting. Also, see the Fire and Emergency Services pink fire truck in support of breast cancer awareness.

Attendees also enjoyed an address from the city's mayor, the irrepressible Hazel McCallion, and national AGD president, awards, and dancing late into the night.

Said AGD president Linda Edgar, "Region 15-16 Canada Academy of General Dentistry once again accomplished what some would say is impossible, by offering a free gala to its AGD members."

"This region is setting the bar for all constituents by also involving their Canadian dental association leaders, sponsors and even their Mayor in this wonderful event," Edgar added.

Meanwhile all dentists in Canada can also take advantage of the AGD National Annual Meeting to be held in Detroit June 26-29, 2014, with world renown speakers such as John Kois, Karl Misch and Ron Jackson.

Toronto's Reel Asian to include South Asian films

Staff Report

It's official: Bollywood is conquering Asia.

The Toronto Reel Asian International Film Festival (Reel Asian), presented by National Bank, celebrates its 17th annual edition Nov 5-16, 2013 with an expansion into films from across South Asia.

"In response to the overwhelming demand from the local community for more South Asian films, Reel Asian is proud to officially expand to include feature films from India, Pakistan, and the South Asian continent," said a statement from the organizers.

"As the Asian population in Canada continues to grow and as Asian arts are injected into mainstream culture, there is no better time to expand our festival mandate to represent new voices from the Asian community," said Sonia Sakamoto-Jog, Executive Director of Reel Asian.

Reel Asian lays claim to being Canada's largest pan-Asian film festival dedicated to showcasing contemporary Asian films and work from the Asian diaspora, and is the only film festival of its kind in Toronto.

This year's lineup includes the best of South Asian film from around the world.

The opening gala will include a notable film from India, with special international guests in attendance followed by a South Asian themed gala party, the organizers promise. Over 1,000 film and party lovers are expected at the red carpet event.

Other festival highlights include Pakistani documentary Without Shepherds starring international-cricket-star-turned-politician Imran Khan, and up-and-coming Indian American filmmaker Meera Menon, with her award-winning debut film Farah Goes Bang.

Founded in 1997, Reel Asian was established in response to the strong interest in Asian films in Toronto, and has grown to a two-week festival attracting over 12,000 attendees each year.

From Nov 5-14 (Toronto) and Nov 15-16 (Richmond Hill), the festival will present more than 50 films and videos from over 12 countries, including China, Hong Kong, India, Japan, Laos, Pakistan, South Korea, Taiwan, Canada and the US.

Canadian AGD Hosts Its First Ever Gala

On the evening of September 7, 2013, over 400 general dentists and guests flocked to the first ever Canadian AGD Gala. Canada AGD is part of the National Academy of General Dentistry, an organization of over 38,000 members who help dentists continue to strive for excellence in patient treatment.

This year's casino theme had AGD members stroll down the red carpet and pose for a photo-op on an evening that magnified all the glitz, glamour and excitement that Monte Carlo is famous for. The Canadian AGD organized this gala event at no charge for its members as a chance to show appreciation for all of the general dentists who are part of and support the AGD. It was an opportunity to develop an event that was purely fun and social, where AGD board and members could dress up, mingle and take pleasure in an elegant night out.

Your Smile – Now With More Options

If your teeth have been straightened in the last 20 years, the odds are high that an orthodontist did the procedure, but new techniques may change who performs these procedures in the future.

OutRank by Rogers has been tracking this change in dental care. Their office helped hundreds of dentists and orthodontists connect with patients through live bidding on Google Adwords and in 2012, their team handled over five million patient searches relating to dental procedures. To date, 34% of dentistry partners are optimizing their advertising for search words like 'Invisalign, invisible braces, aligners, and smile correction'.

A large part of this change is being driven by the ease of integrating these kinds of procedures into a dental practice. For a system such as Invisalign, a dentist can assess alignment issues and create molds of patients' teeth, techniques that are already common in dental practices. These molds are then sent to a lab where 10 to 20 sets of retainers are created. Requiring no new tools or additional staff, systems like this represent a low barrier way for dentists to generate new business.

AGD Attends Legislative Conferences

Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) leaders and staff attended both the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC) Annual Meeting, Aug. 7 to 9, 2013, in Chicago, and the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) Legislative Summit, Aug. 12 to 15, in Atlanta. During these events, AGD leaders and staff took the opportunity to speak with lawmakers about the interests of general dentistry and offer solutions for the oral health issues facing America.

During the ALEC meeting, AGD Vice President W. Mark Donald, DMD, MAGD, networked with approximately 200 state lawmakers and discussed the AGD's belief in providing quality dental care to all citizens, regardless of economic status or geographic location. Dr. Donald presented model legislation regarding oral health literacy education to ALEC's Health and Human Services Task Force. He participated in the organization's Scope of Practice Working Group, where he stressed the significant differences between the practice of general dentistry and the physician practice model.

"Attending the ALEC Annual Meeting positions the AGD as a credible resource for information when legislation related to oral health is on the table," Dr. Donald says. "It gives us the chance to present our positions directly to lawmakers in a way that's not typically possible."

At the NCSL summit, the AGD exhibited in conjunction with the American Dental Association and the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry. AGD Legislative & Government Affairs Council Chair Joseph A. Battaglia, DMD, FAGD, and Region 19 Trustee Carol A. Wooden, DDS, MAGD, met with nearly 300 state lawmakers and discussed pending state legislation affecting dentistry, as well as issues regarding midlevel providers, oral health literacy, and fluoride.

"The NCSL Legislative Summit offers the AGD the chance to discuss with lawmakers our commitment to advocating for our patients, our members, and the public," Dr. Battaglia says. "It's important to establish personal contact and create long-lasting relationships with state lawmakers from districts across the country, since they are responsible for implementing solutions that ensure our nation's citizens receive high-quality oral health care." For more information on the AGD's most recent advocacy efforts, contact advocacy@agd.org.

MISSISSAUGA

Last weekend Peel Police held their "Diversity Cup" basketball tournament at the University of Toronto, Mississauga Campus. Basketball teams from all ethnic backgrounds took part. South Asians were represented by a group of talented young people who call themselves Sikhadian.

Following the tournament we caught up with Sikhadian basketball captain Simratpal Singh Soodan who had this to say:

"We have played basketball from early ages, and started organized basketball during middle school. We often take part in different local tournaments in the community, as well as different South Asian tournaments around Ontario and the US.

Participating in Diversity Cup 2013 has given us the opportunity to meet new people, make new friends and relationships, and we got to meet police officers, including senior officers as well as Mayor Hazel McCallion, and interact with them on a personal level which was fun, since we otherwise only see them while on duty.

I work and I'm currently studying Criminal Justice at the University of Guelph-Humber, but all the other team members are in university.

I have been in competitive basketball for the last 5 years.

This tournament gave me an opportunity to interact, socialize and play basketball with members of different faiths and ethnic backgrounds in our community. The Peel Regional Police Diversity Unit does a fantastic job every year of promoting diversity in our region. Events like this create a harmonious atmosphere in our community.

I look forward to participating again next year to make this tournament more colorful." ☞

Exhibition to honour Sikh contribution on Remembrance Day

CI News Service

MISSISSAUGA

The Sikh Heritage Museum of Canada is hosting a free exhibition celebrating and honouring the contributions and sacrifices made by Sikhs entitled "In Remembrance - The Sikhs" on Sunday, November 10 from 12 to 4 pm at Pearson Convention Center, 2638 Steeles Ave East, Brampton. Two lectures are scheduled at 3 pm featuring VC Nand Singh one of the most decorated Victoria Cross winners. There will be a Kids Komarto to engage children with crafts, games and colouring of various Remembrance Day themes.

Can-India caught up with Pardeep Nagra, Executive Director, Sikh Heritage Museum of Canada for a short interview.

How did you get involved with the lecture and exhibition of In Remembrance of Sikhs?

The more my friends and I researched and learned about the outstanding valour and service of Sikhs in the Great War for Civilization (WWI) the fuller story of the Sikh military tradition came to light including campaigns prior to and after WWI, including Saragarhi. Furthermore, it was even more enlightening to discover that Sikhs served for Canada and Australia during WWI. What was missing was awareness when celebrating Remembrance Day. As a result we set out to create awareness through an exhibition and lecture to share their (The Sikh) stories of sacrifice and valour.

Are you an artifact collector?

The Sikh Heritage Museum of Canada is a group of collectors, researchers and historians from all walks of life with a passion for sharing the history of Sikh heritage in Canada and abroad. Various members have extensive collections related to Sikh history.

Why is it so important for Sikhs as well as other Canadians to know the contributions of the community?

As Ontario and Canada continues to become more diverse, it is important to portray an accurate portrait of Sikh Canadians towards nation building and our contributions globally, so that when we speak of Canadians it is more inclusive.

Are there many Sikhs joining the Canadian Armed Forces?

We have many Sikhs joining various sectors of the Canadian forces with their articles of faith. This is also a great sense of pride for the community and members will be present at the Exhibition. In fact we have a Sikh who is commander of a regiment in British Columbia - Harjit Singh Sajjan, Commander, Duke of Connaught's Own. ☞ s an avid marketer of my dental practice, I sometimes Google my name and specific keywords to see what comes up and where I rank. Over the last few weeks, I noticed two negative reviews on consumer rating sites.

In the past, when a patient had left a negative review, my staff and I would quickly go through the schedule and charts to see if we could identify the patient. However, our last two were somewhat different, in that the reviewer was very specific about their experience and alleged that our positive reviews were “fake.” Immediately, I had our staff go through all of the charts over the last few months and try to recall the patient and the situation. I wanted to ensure that if we had done something wrong or did not handle the situation to the patient’s satisfaction, that we are at least able to take corrective action; if not for that specific patient then for our future patients.

As many businesses do, we invest a lot of time and money into our marketing and provide the best service that we can. But the irony is that the more we expose our business to the market, the more susceptible we become to these types of reviews which can be counteractive and, personally, quite bothersome. The unfortunate part is that once it is up online, it is there permanently.

It was not until a few days ago that things appeared much clearer to me. I was on my way to a meeting in New Orleans and had a stop-over in Atlanta where I ran into an old friend who owns multiple brand name hotels all over the United States. We started talking about his business and how the hotel industry has become a very competitive and saturated market — just like dentistry.

He shared with me that he recently hired a new Director of Communications, who came from another hotel chain, and since hiring him sales had gone up. His job was to stay on top of hotel review sites, thank people for posting their positive experiences and address any negative experiences from the management side. He informed me that by having more postings and responses, the major search engines will start to rank the hotel higher in consumer searches; making it easier for people to find his hotels over others. What he told me next blew me away. His new Director of Communications was also responsible for leaving negative comments for competitor hotels. I was stunned and could not believe that he would be involved in such an unethical and deceptive practice. His response was that he did not even know about it until his Director of Communications had told him and that it is a very common practice in his industry. Recently, a gentleman named Peter Hook, who describes himself on Twitter as “director of propaganda” for Accor hotels in Asia and the Pacific, was caught publishing a number of critical reviews about the company's rivals. Now things started to make sense to me. I decided to do some more research on the topic, specifically in the dental industry.

Reviews on most sites are unverified, meaning anyone can create an identity and post an experience. Amazon.com is such a massive e-commerce player where anyone can leave a review on any product. Some popular sites say that suspicious reviews are investigated; others claim they have software to detect automatic postings, and RateMD.com claims that they track IP addresses so that the same user is unable to continuously post positive or negative reviews. Regardless of any anti-fraud measures, there are many ways around it. People can stoop to using multiple usernames and can post from different locations to prevent using the same IP.

Studies have shown that a one point increase on a five point scale can command up to nine percent increase in revenues for businesses (Harvard Business Review). However, in this new world of online marketing and the 'power consumer reviews,' it has resulted in a new kind of business around Reputation Management. Some of these companies offer to pay people $5 for every fake review they write, while others just have a team of writers overseas that are just churning out fake consumer reviews. The latest being caught and fined in this practice are a number of companies in New York. A total of 19 firms collectively agreed to pay more than $350,000 in fines and stop posting bogus online reviews touting clients using a Bangladesh company to write fake reviews, being paid from $1-$10 per review (USA TODAY). On Freelancer.com, there are 200+ ads for people to produce fake reviews for sites.

Georgios Zervas, coauthor of a recent study "Fake It Till You Make It: Reputation, Competition, and Yelp Review Fraud," concluded that at least 16 percent of the reviews are fake.

Most people are not aware that posting false reviews is against the law. It is also very difficult to track and has become a new type of crime where 'reputation' companies can make millions driven by corporations who want to increase their bottom line. According to Scheiderman Edward Telmany, US Coachways's chief executive, "We get bashed online, we are losing money from this." Telmany told his employees to write favorable reviews and posted a five-star review himself on Yelp that began: "US Coachways does a great job!"

Another misleading practice that has come up in the dental industry is one where a company has set up an online review site for practitioners in which mainly negative reviews are posted. If you contact the company for verification of these reviews, you likely will not get a response back. However, you may be contacted by an Online Reputation management company offering to have the comments removed for a fee. It has come to light that most of these management companies are owned by the online review sites that have posted the negative reviews and will have those postings removed but for a price. Sounds a lot like extortion in the digital age, right? Kathleen Richards investigated this practice and has written an article called "Yelp and the Business of Extortion 2.0," where owners say Yelp offers to hide negative customer reviews on its website for a price.

Dr. Neil J. Gajjar has written numerous articles and lectured on practice management, marketing, and advertising. In addition to being involved in industries outside of dentistry, he has served on the marketing committees of both the Ontario Dental Association and the Academy of General Dentistry. He has also acted and continues to act as a marketing consultant to numerous dental drug, suppliers, and device manufacturers.

In a 2012 Ipsos MediaCT study commissioned by Google, 69 percent of business travellers researched a trip online and 54% read reviews from other travellers; a similar trend that is also growing in the medical/dental field as more people check for reviews when choosing a practitioner for themselves and for their children. My wife did the same when we were expecting our first and second child by researching every OB and pediatrician.

SO WHAT CAN BE DONE TO AVOID BECOMING A VICTIM?

Educating the public about these practices is the first step. I am sure you will never look at an online review the same way after reading this article and the same goes for our patients. If they understand that not all what is written is true, they will use that information more carefully or may not at all.

This is not to say that all sites are bad. Many are credible and give verifiable information to consumers by having reviewers log on and provide their information before posting.

Another tactic to combat bad reviews is to encourage satisfied patients to leave good reviews. Many offices do this by having monthly draws for free gifts like electric toothbrushes for those that have liked them on Facebook or have posted an online review of the office.

One approach that some dentists in the United States have tried is having their patients sign a non-publish agreement along with the patient intake forms. Some practitioners have even sued patients for posting to online sites about their experiences. Dr. Stacy Makhnevich was a New York City dentist who made use of a bizarre form provided by a company called "Medical Justice." Her patients were expected to sign this form, through which they assigned copyright in all their reviews of the dental practice and the doctor to the doctor herself, enabling her to use copyright notices to censor any criticism of her that appeared online.

In a day where every dentist is trying to get on the front page or the first result in an online search, many have resorted to paying search engines to be in that top search. The problem is that other dentists are learning to instruct their staff to click the competitor's link in the morning multiple times to use up their daily budgets and have them no longer appear at the top; another deceptive practice, which I am always told, all is fair in Love, War and Dentistry.

The good news is that as online sites strive to deliver accurate information to become a trusted and credible source for its users, they themselves are engaging in practices to ensure the reviews are from actual clients. In addition to setting up a client profile, some are working with companies like hotels, airlines and restaurants to send out email requesting reviews from existing customers. It's a win-win for all parties involved as it prevents fraudulent emails from non-clients, and keeps the website credible while encouraging more reviews and higher rankings for the business. Eventually, as the number of posts increase via smartphones, you will only be able to post reviews of places you actually have visited.

There is a whole science dedicated to identifying false reviews, like the overuse of superlatives or "I" and "we," or the fact that most fake reviewers spend less than a minute to write their reviews. Real reviews, however, will often have photos uploaded by the user which shows that the reviewer was actually there. But just as more information is published on fake reviews, these reviewers change their patterns to blend in and it once again it becomes a cat and mouse game.

As we move into the future and digital age, a new level of fraud will continue to emerge. When arming your security system and locking your front door, be advised that this is no longer the only method to protect your assets. There is a whole world of cybercrime that can cost you more than a laptop or a tablet. Stay current and employ internet safety measures that keep you and your business safe.

Personal Statement

"The AGD has been a continuous part of my dental career almost from the beginning. The AGD has been the largest part of the foundation for whatever professional success I have had, has blessed me with leadership opportunities, and has led me down a path of personal growth and fulfillment. The AGD is in a vastly different environment than that of 1976, when I first joined. Notably, there is much more competition among organizations for members—particularly involved members. Expectations of our members and prospective members are different. Organizations which adapt to this new world without deviation from their core principles are the ones which survive and thrive.

"Several years ago, I had the privilege to be a consultant to the Texas AGD New Dentist Committee the year it was formed, and I have seen it grow from the beginning to holding its own statewide conference and creating innovative ways to attract a new generation of general dentists. Out of the New Dentist Committee, the New Dentist Study Club has grown throughout the state. These young members are becoming committed in a whole new kind of way to lifelong learning and the AGD. I am committed to a future for the AGD that builds on what I've described here. The AGD has made a positive impact on three generations of general dentists and their patients, and I see us poised to be even more relevant to our new generation and generations to come."

Personal Statement

"As many of you know, I have been an active member of our beloved AGD since my graduation from dental school in 1999. My primary goals have been to elevate the image of general dentists; to increase camaraderie among our colleagues; and to engage dentists to become active in the AGD and organized dentistry. As the current regional director from Region 15/16, I am keenly aware of the many challenges that the AGD faces. When we look at the big picture, it boils down to communication and execution—both areas in which I have a proven record.

"As you all know, Ontario in 2001 had a membership of 538 and today has membership of 1,338. Our annual budget has gone from $10,000 to $280,000. In the communication arena, we have our magazine/directory and one of the most cohesive groups, which has helped us to be successful as a constituent. I also was responsible for rebuilding the British Columbia AGD to a constituent that is active with CE education and growing membership, and I am in the process of doing this for Alberta, Canada. This—coupled with my involvement in the printing and publishing, hospitality, food and beverage, and marketing sectors—is why I would like to ask you to give me the opportunity to bring all of my experience and passion to help the AGD grow into the world-class organization that I envision it to be.

"As secretary, I promise to put my heart and soul into continuing the commitment to cost control, accountability, transparency, and leadership provided by the incredible work of those who have held this office before me. Most of you know me as an honest person who speaks his mind. In the time leading up to the annual meeting, you will be receiving correspondence from me, clearly explaining to you what I intend to do to make our AGD the world's largest dental association. Thank you for your support, advice, and all you do for the AGD and its members."

Predictability through technology

The Nobel Biocare Symposium on July 12-14 offered two days of scientific presentations outlining the technical advancements and treatment options to treat more patients better. The weekend was truly five-star learning for 180 dental professionals who gathered at the five-star location: JW Marriot resort – one of the top 10 resorts in Canada.

The Symposium began with a tribute presentation for Dr. Peter Schüpbach's work – one of the most clinically researched in the world. Dr. Chandur Wadhwani and

Dr. Paul Rosen presented issues which clinicians experience when treating peri-implantitis as well as the use of cement and low cost third party restorative solutions. The common theme was the All-on-4® treatment concept, which was covered in depth throughout the entire conference.

The program was designed not just to provide attendees with the latest evidence, but to frame it in a way that helps them apply the findings in their day-to-day work.

Proposed Bylaws Amendments for the AGD 2016 House of Delegates

Chapter VI, Create a New Section 5: Student Chapters

Several dental schools have organizations that are essentially AGD chapters or, more accurately, components of AGD constituents. Several schools have inquired about establishing such groups. However, there are no formal provisions within AGD policy or its Bylaws to provide for such organizations. The AGD Dental Student Program Task Force is recommending the adoption of a Bylaws provision that would formally provide for student AGD organizations at dental schools. The task force believes that student chapters will facilitate membership growth and retention.

Chapter IX, Section 2 (A–B): Clarification of Council and Committee Appointment Authority

This proposed amendment clarifies existing policy and practice that it is the president-elect who makes council and committee appointments at the appropriate timing during the governance year before he or she assumes the office of president. All such appointments would continue to be subject to board approval.

Housekeeping: Board Meeting Nomenclature — Entire Bylaws

In 2014, the House of Delegates approved the separation of the AGD scientific session from the annual meeting. With the new format for the governance year, it was necessary to rename the board and Joint Council meetings. The Governance Year Task Force decided that rather than use a season to describe the meetings, a Roman numeral system would be implemented. The board approved this change for the Board Policy Manual at the April 2015 board meeting. This proposal would update the Bylaws accordingly wherever there was a seasonal reference.

Personal Statement

"During my term as your treasurer, I have made it my personal goal to increase our non-dues revenues from many angles and have started to work on various programs to accomplish this. This year, we have also started to review the budget from a revenue side and implemented looking at a three-year projection, rather than one year at a time. In addition, I have been working with staff on opportunities to increase non-dues revenues, while increasing the value of AGD membership. I would like to continue the implementation of these and other processes that we have started to ensure our financial success."

નર્સ પર હુમલો કરવા બદલ હોસ્પિટલને દંડ ફટકારાયો

Centre for Addiction and Mental Health

વાયોલેન્સના ભંગ બદલ આ દંડ ફટકારવામાં આવેલ છે.

જ્યારે આ બનાવ બન્યો ત્યારે નર્સના ગળામાં એલાર્મ સિસ્ટમનું ઉપકરણ લગાડવામાં આવેલું હતું, પરંતુ ભારે ઘોંઘાટભર્યા વાતાવરણમાં આ ઉપકરણ યોગ્ય ચેતવણી આપવામાં નિષ્ફળ રહ્યું હતું. હોસ્પિટલ બિલ્ડીંગની કોમ્યુનિકેશન સિસ્ટમમાં આ ઉપકરણનું જોડાણ લગભગ ન હોવાથી અને તેમાં આપમેળે ચેતવણી આપે તેવી વ્યવસ્થા પણ નહોતી. વાસ્તવમાં હોસ્પિટલ સત્તાવાળાઓ દ્વારા આવી વ્યવસ્થા અનિવાર્ય હતી અને તેથી હોસ્પિટલની બેદરકારીને કારણે જેના પર હુમલો થયો તે નર્સ અને તેને બચાવવા માટે વચ્ચે પડનાર નર્સને સહન કરવું પડ્યું હતું. સરકારી સત્તાવાળાઓએ જોકે ૧ લાખ ડોલરનો દંડ ફટકારવાની ભલામણ કરી હતી, પરંતુ માત્ર ૮૦ હજાર ડોલરની પેનલ્ટી કરવામાં આવતા ઓન્ટારીયો નર્સિસ એસોસિએશન અને ઓન્ટારીયો પબ્લિક સર્વિસ એમ્પ્લોઈઝ યુનિયન દ્વારા પણ ભોગ બનનાર નર્સને ઓછું વળતર આપવામાં આવ્યું હોવાની લાગણી વ્યક્ત કરી છે. ખરેખર તો આ નર્સને ૫ લાખ ડોલર વળતર મળવું જોઈતું હતું એવી માગણી કરાય હતી.

CHICAGO, IL

Credit scores matter for newcomers - true or false?

TORONTO

about banking in Canada.

We often hear how necessary building a credit history is to settling into Canada. It is a key part of the process used to determine whether a person is eligible for a loan, including how much one can borrow. In addition to borrowing, credit history is often required for day to day living needs like setting up utilities or a cell phone, buying a car, buying or renting a home, to name a few. Nearly half (45%) of South Asian and Chinese immigrants (who have lived in Canada for 5 years or less) reveal their financial needs are much more complex than in their home country. The sentiment is truer among South Asian newcomers (56%) and those that arrived to Canada in the past year (66%).

Why credit score matters

Canada's central credit bureaus gather information from all the lenders that you do business with to determine your credit score. The better the credit score, the more likely you are to qualify for credit.

Your credit rating is based on your record of managing your finances responsibly. Lenders look at how you handle your financial obligations, such as whether you pay your monthly bills on time, carry a balance, or regularly miss payments.

Many newcomers to Canada are surprised at how important credit scores are, or how they work. The credit system in Canada may not always take into account financial history in another country and the concept of building a credit history can be unfamiliar, especially in places where cash or your bank balance is the most important financial consideration.

What you can do

One of the first things you should do if you are new to Canada, is gain a better understanding of Canada's financial system. Speak with an RBC Advisor, take the time to ask the important questions and do everything you can to immerse yourself in the Canadian system. In fact, according to the poll, newcomers would encourage others in their situation to go to the branch (39%) or meet with a financial planner (34%) to get free financial advice. Another one-third (29%) would encourage people to sign up for free financial literacy sessions to learn

Do you understand credit scores?

Test your knowledge with the following True or False statements:

Everyone needs their own credit score.

TRUE: Your credit score is yours and yours alone. If you are married, you both need credit in your name in order to establish a credit score. If your credit card, car loan or mortgage is in your spouse's name only, you are missing a valuable opportunity to build your own credit score. You can't rely on your spouse's credit history for your personal credit needs.

Credit history data stays on your ranking forever. FALSE: In Canada, data stays on your credit rating for seven years.

Missed payments show on your credit score.

TRUE: Credit scores are maintained by credit reporting agencies, and include whether you have paid your bills such as utilities, mobile phone and credit card on time, if you have missed payments, and if you have outstanding debt. Over time, this data will form a pattern of how well you pay back - or don't pay - your debt. This is why it is so important to pay at least the minimum payment on all of your bills, on time, even if they seem small or insignificant.

My credit history from my home country will be reflected in my Canadian Credit Score.

FALSE: Your credit score in Canada starts with your activity here in Canada; for example the first time you borrow money, set up utilities, or purchase a cell phone.

Understand your credit score:

One last tip: It's a good idea to check your own credit history once a year by requesting a report from one of Canada's credit bureaus TransUnion or Equifax. This will not only help you track how you are doing, but also help you detect any errors and protect yourself against identity fraud by ensuring the information is accurate.

Understanding the credit system in Canada is the first step in creating a solid financial footing in your new home.

Free drop off of old recycling bins in Peel until August 6

Old and unwanted recycling bins can be dropped off for free at Mississauga's Iceland Arena Saturday, Aug. 6.

Old green bins, blue boxes, grey boxes or plastic resin containers no longer being used by residents, after implementation of the new cart-based garbage collection system, can be dropped off at the arena, 705 Matheson Blvd. E., from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Region of Peel said it does not pick up the unwanted containers at the curb.

Get rid of it now!

Curbside collection would cost about $3.5 million and the price tag for the drop off events is an estimated $350,000, according to waste department figures.

To get rid of the old container, residents can either attend one of the two drop-off events in their city or drive to a Community Recycling Centre.

However, according to regional officials, residents who have challenges getting to a drop off event or recycling centre can request container pickup by regional staff.

They can email the request, with their address, to zzg-wasteinquiry@peelregion.ca or phone 905-791-9499 to coordinate a pickup.

Impaired driving charges thrown out over violated rights

Editor@CanIndia.com

BRAMPTON

Because police failed to give Bikkar Khandal access to a Punjabi interpreter following his arrest on impaired driving charges, a Brampton judge has dismissed the case. The judge was outraged that Mr Khandal's rights had been violated.

Initially police attempted to accommodate his language need but it didn't pan out.

So here's what happened. Back in October 2015, Mr Khandal was arrested at a RIDE spot-check in Mississauga. Once Khandal had been brought to the police division, the arresting officer called duty counsel — who provide free legal advice over the phone to individuals under arrest — and also requested a Punjabi interpreter, according to Monahan's ruling.

A lawyer was brought in to represent him, but since he spoke English and Mr Khandal had limited understanding of the language, it was determined that Mr Khandal could not have had a proper consultation with counsel.

The Judge excluded the breath sample evidence as a result calling the decision "a relatively easy one" given the circumstances.

Khandal first blew 140 mg of alcohol in 100 mL of blood — nearly twice the legal limit — and a half-hour later blew 130 mg of alcohol in 100 mL of blood, according to the ruling.

"In my view, notwithstanding that Constable Lupson and Constable

Do you speak English?

Passmore were attempting to act in good faith and notwithstanding that I consider them to be honest witnesses and officers, in my view they fell below the standard of care reasonably expected of them in the circumstances," Monahan wrote.

He concluded that administering the breath samples would bring the administration of justice into disrepute.

The decision comes about three weeks after a different judge at the same courthouse criticized Peel Regional Police officers who didn't immediately return a man's turban following his arrest. That violation resulted in the man's im-

Fashion week gives young designers opportunities

By Chris Clay
@ChrisMissiNews

It might not be the runways of Milan or Paris, but Mississauga Fashion Week (MFW) is striving to create a place where Canadian designers on the outside of the industry can feel welcome.

MFW, which debuted last year, is a series of events happening next week to help "build the fashion industry within the city," said managing director Kulsoom Sayed.

"We really wanted to create a platform for designers, artists and (models) who sometimes don't have a chance to join other fashion week events," said Sayed. "It's not an easy industry to survive in as it's very competitive."

MFW gives preference to Canadian designers and models, specifically those from Mississauga and the GTA, including storied Mississauga designer David Dixon, who will share his thoughts and advice drawn from his 20-plus years in fashion, as well as emerging designers such as Chavez, Shilango and Damassia Wheneber.

Networking is a big part of fashion weeks and that's also the case with the Mississauga event, said Sayed.

Organizers have put together a pair of workshops, this Tuesday and Wednesday, for models or those aspiring to be, featuring advice on everything from styling and walking the runway, to hair and makeup.

On Thursday, they've organized a panel of designers who will discuss their designs, inspiration and brands. Guest speakers include Dixon, the owner of clothing company FabriKite, and Mesha Toor, who runs her a modelling agency.

Other events include a blending of the arts and fashion next Friday.

The week draws to a close with a red carpet fashion show on Saturday featuring the lines of 16 designers, including locals Chavez, Shilango and Wheneber.

"(Mississauga's) industry is working to be established," said Sayed. "We have a lot of talent and a lot of diversity in designers, but they don't always have a platform to show (what they can do)."

The events are open to the public but there is a fee to attend.

Mississauga Dentist to hold a prestigious position with Academy of General Dentistry

Mississauga - Dr Neil Gajjar is not your average household name. And if you ever heard about him, it would be in connection with his dental practice at the intersection of Derry and Mavis.

And yet, unknown to many, Gajjar has quietly gone on to receive a very notable recognition in the field of Dentistry – he is currently the Vice President of the Academy of General Dentistry, the second largest dental governing body in North America. He is the first South Asian to hold this post.

"I have been an active member of the AGD since my graduation school in 2009," said Gajjar, in a candid interview with Mississauga News. "My goal always has and continues to be to increase camaraderie among dentists and to inspire them to be active in AGD and organized dentistry."

Gajjar, who was born and raised in Newfoundland, Canada completed and received his Doctor in Dental Surgery from Washington DC, where he was also awarded the Teachers of Oral Diagnosis Award. He has successfully completed the American Dental Association National Boards, and the National Dental Examining Board of Canada Exams. He is currently licensed with the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario.

In addition to attending courses with the AGD, Gajjar lectures on managing medical emergencies in the dental office, has been a lecturer of oral pathology and clinical instructor at the Canadian Academy of Dental Hygiene, and has served as a clinical instructor in the Oral Diagnosis and Emergency clinics at the University of Toronto, Faculty of Dentistry.

With the AGD, Gajjar has been instrumental in increasing both the membership and funding for AGD in Ontario.

"During my service, the Ontario membership grew from 586 members in 2001 to 1409 in 2016," he said. "During that time, the Ontario Annual Budget has also grown from $10,000 in 2001 to $280,000 that it is today."

Gajjar says the increase in budget has helped them implement many new programs, including more free continuing education, more galas, more social events, giving people more reason to be part of the esteemed organization.

Last year he was the Regional Director for the AGD in this region and his current role with the AGD lasts for three years, the first year, Vice President, the second President Elect and the third, President. In these three years, Gajjar hopes to achieve a lot in the coming years.

"I hope to increase membership, increase revenue and increase attendance at scientific meetings", he said. "I feel I am in an exceptional to use my business background to help guide the organization in the direction it should be going. I would strive to run Academy like I run my own business."

Mississauga dentist elected vice president of Academy

By Nouman Khalil
@NKhalil25

Dr. Neil J. Gajjar, a Mississauga dentist, has been elected vice president of the Academy of General Dentistry, the association announced on Monday, Aug. 30.

Neil Gajjar

Gajjar secured the position at the academy's annual meeting held recently in Boston, Massachusetts. Gajjar is also the academy's second vice president from Canada.

"Being elected as vice president is truly an honour and privilege," said Gajjar. "We have a lot of work ahead of us, which I am confident we will accomplish with the great team, staff, and support of our members."

A member of AGD since 1999, Gajjar has been active on both the local and national levels. He also served as AGD secretary (2015-16), president of the Ontario AGD, and has served on the AGD membership, dental education, group benefits, and annual meetings councils.

Peel board to include all-gender washrooms in every high school

By Kristin Rushowy
Torstar Network

Every public high school in Peel Region will have an all-gender washroom this school year, director Tony Pontes announced Wednesday morning.

Speaking to hundreds of staff at his annual kick-off to the school year, he said the Peel District School Board must make sure all students feel safe.

"Last year I talked about a designated bathroom at Jean Augustine Secondary School (in Brampton) for students who self-identify as trans and need a place of safety ... Since then, I have had lots of conversations about this. About why students or staff would self-identify. Why do they need a separate bathroom? Some believe that identification is counter to their personal beliefs.

"Bottom line – it is not our role to ask why someone self-identifies, it is not about our personal beliefs and what bathroom they choose is not our business. Our job is that when they do identify, we make sure they have a place of safety – just as we do for every other student."

Last fall, Pontes and the board took a firm stand on the new health curriculum, saying while parents have the right to pull their kids from sex-education lessons, they could not opt children out of lessons or talk about gender equity.

He mentioned the sex-education controversy again Wednesday, saying the curriculum "was, without a question, a point when we chose to stand behind our value of inclusion."

He said he's "proud to say that within this school year, every secondary school will have a designated bathroom for students," with a sign that says "inclusive washroom."

He also said the board will "continue this conversation to our middle schools" as well as establishing gay-straight alliance groups for senior elementary students as well.

એકેડમી ઓફ જનરલ ડેન્ટીસ્ટ્રીના પ્રેસિડેન્ટ તરીકે નીલ ગજ્જરની વરણી થઈ

ધી એકેડમી ઓફ જનરલ ડેન્ટીસ્ટ્રીના નવા પ્રેસિડેન્ટ તરીકે શ્રી નીલજે ગજ્જર (DDS, MAGD) ની વરણી થઈ છે. તેઓ ઓન્ટારીયોના મિસ્સીસાગાના વતની છે અને તાજેતરમાં ૩૫ નવેમ્બરના રોજ સંસ્થાની વાર્ષિક બેઠક શિકાગો ખાતે યોજાઈ ત્યારે તેમાં નીલ ગજ્જરને નવા પ્રેસિડેન્ટ તરીકે ચૂંટી કાઢવામાં આવ્યા હતા. તેઓ એક વર્ષ સુધી પ્રેસિડેન્ટ તરીકેની સેવાઓ આપશે.

પોતાની વરણી બાદ ડોક્ટર ગજ્જરે જણાવ્યું હતું કે, એકેડમી ઓફ જનરલ ડેન્ટીસ્ટ્રીના પ્રેસિડેન્ટ તરીકે તેમની વરણી થવાથી તેઓ આત્મ ગૌરવ અને સન્માનની લાગણી અનુભવી રહ્યા છે. કેમ કે આ સંસ્થા વિશ્વની દાંતના ડોક્ટરોની સૌથી મોટી સંસ્થા છે અને તે દાંતના ડોક્ટરોને

સમર્પિત થયેલી છે ત્યારે તેમના માટે કામ કરવાનું મને ગમશે. તેમણે એમ પણ કહ્યું કે, પ્રમુખ તરીકે તેમની સામે અનેક પડકારો અને તકો રહેલી છે. સંસ્થાના સૌ કોઈને સાથે રાખીને એક ટીમવર્કની જેમ કામ કરીને સંસ્થાની પ્રગતિમાં સહયોગ આપીશ.

સંપૂર્ણ સન્માન સાથે પ્રદિપસિંહ કુશવાહાની અંતિમવિધિ

જમ્મુ-કાશ્મીરના પુલવામા ખાતે આંતકવાદીઓ સાથેની અથડામણમાં શહીદ થયેલા અમદાવાદ શહેરના મેઘાણીનગર વિસ્તારમાં રહેતા વીર જવાન પ્રદીપસિંહ કુશવાહાની સૈન્ય સન્માન સાથે અંતિમયાત્રા નીકળી હતી. હજારોની સંખ્યામાં લોકો સ્વયંભુ તેમાં જોડાયા હતા. અંતિમયાત્રામાં લોકોએ વંદે માતરમ્, ભારત માતા કી જય, પ્રદીપસિંહ અમર રહો ના નારા લગાવ્યા હતા. સૌ કોઈએ સલામી કરી વીર શહીદ પ્રદીપ કુશવાહાને અંતિમ વિદાય આપી હતી. ભાર્ગવ રોડ પર રહેતો ૨૩ વર્ષનો જવાન પ્રદીપસિંહ ગુરુવારે જમ્મુ-કાશ્મીરમાં આંતકવાદીઓ સામે અથડામણમાં શહીદ થયો હતો. શુક્રવારે સાંજે તેમનો પાર્થિવદેહ ભારતીય વાયુદળના વિમાન મારફતે અમદાવાદ એરપોર્ટ પર લવાયો હતો, ત્યાં કુશવાહાને ગાર્ડ ઓફ ઓનર અપાયું હતું.

ગુજરાત ચેમ્બરે મનમોહનની મિટિંગ માટે હોલ ના ફાળવ્યો

ગુજરાત ચેમ્બરના વેપારીઓ ભાજપની ચમચાગીરીમાં એટલા વ્યસ્ત છે કે વેપારીઓના હિતોની પણ પરવા કરતા નથી. જીએસટીના વિવાદાસ્પદ મુદ્દાઓ અંગે ચર્ચા કરવા માટે ભારતના પૂર્વ વડાપ્રધાન અને અર્થશાસ્ત્રી ડૉ. મનમોહન સિંહ મંગળવારે અમદાવાદ આવ્યા હતા, પણ તેમના હોલની ફાળવણી કરવાનો ઈનકાર ચેમ્બરે કરી દીધો હતો. પરિણામે ગુજરાત ચેમ્બરને બદલે શાહીબાગમાં સરદાર સ્મારકમાં તેમનું પ્રવચન ગોઠવાયું હતું. ગુજરાત ચેમ્બર કોઈ રાજકીય પક્ષને ટેકો આપી ના શકે, પણ તેના હોદ્દદારો ભાજપની ચમચાગીરીનું જ કામ કરતા થઈ ગયા છે. વેપારીઓના પ્રશ્નોને વાચા આપવા બદલે ભાજપનું હિત જાળવવાનું કામ જ આ તળિયાચાટુ ચમચાઓ કરે છે.

ઊકળતા તેલમાં હાથ બોળવાનું પ્રકરણ દાબી દેવાયું

વીરમગામના ભૂતપૂર્વ એમએલએ કરમશી પટેલના પુત્રના પેટ્રોલપંપ પર ચોરીના કેસમાં સાણંદના જાંબુથલમાં ભૂવાએ યુવાનોને સત્તા પારખા કરાવવા તેલમાં હાથ બોળાવ્યા હતા. મધ્યયુગની યાદ અપાવે તેવા આ કૃત્યનો વિડીયો વાઈરલ થયો છતાં પોલીસ કોઈ તપાસ કરવા તૈયાર નથી. કોંગ્રેસ સાથે દગાખોરી કરીને ભાજપના ખોળામાં બેઠેલા સાણંદના કરમશી પટેલના પુત્રના વિરમગામ ખાતેના પેટ્રોલપંપ પર છ લાખની ચોરી થઈ હતી. આ કેસના શંકાસ્પદ યુવાનોને ઊકળતા તેલમાં હાથ બોળાવીને સરમુખત્યારશાહી દેખાડી હતી. હવે ભાજપના બની ગયેલા આ નેતાના પુત્રને બચાવવા સમગ્ર પ્રકરણ પર ઠંડુ પાણી રેડવા પોલીસે તપાસ કરવાનું ટાળ્યું હતું. અમદાવાદ ગ્રામ્ય પોલીસના વડાએ કહી દીધું કે તેલમાં હાથ બોળાવવા અંગેની કોઈ ફરિયાદ આવી નથી. દલિતો માટે તેલ પણ અલગ રખાયું હતું તે એટ્રોસિટીનો ગુનો બને છે તેમાં પણ પોલીસે કશું કાર્ય નથી.

ભાજપની ગૌરવ સંપર્ક યાત્રાનો વિરોધ, સાંસદ સોલંકીનો વિરોધ

પાટીદાર અને દલિત વસતિવાળા વિસ્તારોમાં ભાજપનો સતત વિરોધ થાય છે. ૨૨ વર્ષ બાદ ગુજરાતમાં વિધાનસભાની ચૂંટણી જીતવી ભાજપ માટે લોઢાના ચણા ચાવવા જેવી બની રહી છે. ભાજપના નેતાઓ પ્રજાના રોષનો ભોગ બની રહ્યાં છે. બુધવારે અમદાવાદમાં ઓઢવમાં ભાજપના સાંસદ કિરીટ સોલંકીને સ્થાનિકોએ ઘેરી લીધા હતા. જનતાનગરમાં તેમને પ્રવેશવા દેવાયા નહોતા. મંગળવારે અસારવામાં ભાજપના ધારાસભ્ય આર. એમ. પટેલને સ્થાનિકોએ ઘેરી લીધા હતા. ભારે વિરોધ પછી સોલંકીએ પરત જવું પડ્યું હતું. સુરતમાં મોટા વરાછામાં ભાજપના નેતાઓ લોકસંપર્ક કરવા ગયા ત્યાં પણ પાટીદારોએ ભારે વિરોધ નોંધાવતાં તેમને પાછા જવાનો વારો આવ્યો હતો. આમ, ભાજપના નેતાઓ સામે પ્રજાનો રોષ ભભૂકી રહ્યો છે.

સુરતની સભાનો બદલો લેવા આયોજન થયું હતું - પરેશ ધાનાણી

જે રીતે સુરતે સૌથી મોટી પાર્ટીના રાષ્ટ્રીય નેતાનું સન્માન કર્યું એટલે કે અમિત શાહની સભામાં ધમાલ મચાવાઈ, તેનો બદલો લેવા માટે કોંગ્રેસની આ સભા તોડવા માટેનો પ્રયાસ થયો હતો એમ પરેશ ધાનાણી જણાવ્યું હતું. રાહુલ ગાંધીની ત્રણ દિવસની મુલાકાતના છેલ્લા દિવસે વિશાળ સભામાં તેમણે કહ્યું કે આસપાસ ધ્યાન રાખજો કોઈ ધમાલ ના કરે. કોંગ્રેસની ભુલ થઈ હોય તો એક વાર કોંગ્રેસને માફ કરી ભાજપને સાફ કરવા માટે મતદાન મોટી સંખ્યામાં કરજો તેવું તેમણે કહ્યું હતું. તેણે વધુમાં કહ્યું કે, ગુજરાતમાં અંગ્રેજો જેવી સરકાર છે, જેથી કોઈ પણ સમાજ આંદોલન કરે છે તેની સામે દમન થાય છે. પહેલાં અંગ્રેજોએ ભારતીયોને લડાવી રાજ કર્યું હતું. હવે ભાજપના નેતાઓ જ્ઞાતિવાદનું ઝેર ફેલાવી રહ્યાં છે. ભાજપમાં બાપુ આગેવાન છે પરંતુ કોંગ્રેસમાં કોઈ દરબારને આગેવાન બનાવે તો ભાજપના નેતાઓ તમને ઉશ્કેરી છે કે કે અન્ય સમાજના બદલે કોંગ્રેસ બાપુઓને આગળ કરે છે. ગુજરાતમાં પહેલા મુસલમાન અને દલિતો, ત્યારબાદ પાટીદાર અને આહિર સહિતના અન્ય સમાજોને સરકારે તોડી નાખ્યા હતા.

સહારા ઇન્ડિયાના નામે ૯૦ લાખની ઠગાઈ

Hill Day 2018 Promotes Oral Health Literacy

AGD leaders, members and students met in Washington, D.C., June 18-19, to advocate on behalf of general dentistry during AGD's annual Hill Day. Nearly 40 attendees from across the U.S. and Canada flew in to attend a conference hosted by AGD and to meet with legislators. Over 65 meetings took place on Capitol Hill June 19.

One of the two priorities for 2018 was promoting oral health literacy programs and funding. Rocky Napier, DMD, AGD Legislative & Governmental Affairs Council member, joined Lynn Mouden, DDS, MPH, vice president, dental director of quality and performance at Avesis, on a panel discussing the importance of oral health literacy programs. Napier expressed his concern that the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention does not offer information on prevention as it pertains to oral health. Rep. Mark Meadows (R-NC), who was in attendance to close Monday's session with a speech, noted that he would work to resolve this issue. Mouden noted that an effective way to garner attention to the issue of oral health literacy is to show the ways in which poor oral health is related to conditions like diabetes and heart disease. These points were met with general agreement.

Attendees' second priority was funding Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) programs and promoting the full functionality of the chief dental officer (CDO) position to their legislators. Captain Renee Joskow, USPHS, DDS, MPH, FAGD, HRSA CDO, presented HRSA's ongoing projects related to oral health.

Meadows concluded Monday's session with anecdotes about working in Congress during the current administration. He articulated his goal to pass appropriations bills as soon as possible.

Prior to departing for their legislator meetings on Tuesday, attendees heard from dentist and Congressman Mike Simpson (R-ID). Simpson addressed current issues in Congress and thanked attendees for their work as advocates for general dentistry.

Feds announce $1.25bn to fight homelessness in 2019

OTTAWA

Cities like Toronto hoping for a cash infusion from the feds can now tap into $1.25 billion over the next nine years through the Liberal government's cornerstone homelessness strategy. The Liberals agreed to overhaul the program after hearing complaints from cities about cumbersome reporting requirements, inadequate funding and unrealistic expectations about how quickly the money should be spent. Anti-poverty advocates have waited since the summer to find out how funding will move. The revamped homelessness strategy, dubbed "Reaching Home," happens early next year and cities will be able to apply for funding. Municipal governments administer most of Canada's housing programs but construction and rent subsidies are expensive, so the cities rely on provincial and federal governments to support them. This money should help up to six large cities qualify for annual federal funding, joining 61 cities already considered

"designated communities" with access to yearly contributions from the federal government. Territories are also being promised $43 million over the nine-year period. There will also be new spending targeting Indigenous people. Details of the Reaching Home plan are being laid out as the Liberals prepare to introduce legislation to put into law a strategy to lift more than two million people out of poverty. More details will be announced over the next few weeks.

Engineering a More Connected Profession

New AGD President Neil Gajjar's Ambitions for Organized Dentistry

By Kelsey Henke

Neel Gajjar, BSc, DDS, MAGD, FADI, FPFA, FICD, FACD, hails from a family of engineers. “Building and construction were always of interest to me,” he says. For Gajjar, dentistry — with its combined emphasis on technique and technology — is its own form of engineering. As AGD’s new president, Gajjar intends to bring the same industriousness to the organization, building and strengthening its network of dentists and making more resources available to empower both dentists and the general public to advocate for oral health.

Gajjar earned his undergraduate degree in chemistry from the University of Toronto and his Doctor of Dental Surgery from Howard University in Washington, D.C. After working as an associate for two years, he established his own private practice in Mississauga, Ontario. Today, his practice staffs six associate dentists, a prosthodontist, an orthodontist, an anesthesiologist and a denturist. “We’re a bread-and-butter family dental practice,” said Gajjar. Since it opened in 2002, the practice has grown to offer a range of pediatric and adult services, including sedation dentistry and dental implants, and, after a 2015 expansion, has grown from six operatories to 12.

For Gajjar, details matter. “Anything we can do to make things easier, faster or more comfortable for patients, we look into,” he said. Gajjar’s office — from the position of the entrance to the orientation of the dental chairs — was designed according to Vaastu Shastra, Hindu architectural principles, to foster positive energy. His practice was among the earliest to offer Wi-Fi to patients, and it recently phased out magazines from the waiting room, replacing them with public-use iPads. His staff members collectively speak nine languages — English, Hindi, Gujarati, Punjabi, Italian, Persian, Arabic, Laotian and Urdu. “Second-language skills are an asset,” said Gajjar. “When we hire people with these skills, we can deliver care to a greater demographic.”

Gajjar is active in his local community: he makes visits to local schools; he has sponsored a local badminton league; and he has received the City of Mississauga’s Civic Award of Recognition for his volunteerism. For Gajjar, approachability and relationship-building are integral to providing quality care. “We concentrate a lot on the human element,” he said. “It’s important to understanding where people are coming from and to let them know that we will work with them. And it’s important to let them know why they need care and what options they have; that’s where it starts.”

His community focus extends into professional development. Gajjar has been active in organized dentistry since he graduated in 1999. He’s held leadership roles and committee positions at regional and North American dental associations, including the Ontario Dental Association, the Canadian Dental Protective Association, the Ontario AGD, the Academy of Dentistry International and the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario.

In the early 2000s, he helped found the South Asian Dental Association. “There were, and still are, a lot of new dentists coming from overseas to the Greater Toronto area. So, we created an opportunity for dentists of a similar background, who were treating a similar patient pool, to exchange ideas and skills. The idea was that they are able to learn from each other and from our courses,” he said.

During his term as president of the Ontario AGD, Gajjar championed new membership recruitment and strengthening the constituency’s continuing education programs. Gajjar’s leadership team helped the Ontario AGD expand its membership measurably, and it earned AGD’s Constituent of the Year Award, Constituent Editors Award and honorable mentions for the Continuing Education Award of Excellence and the Membership Award. Recognizing AGD’s unique position to empower dentists across national borders, he has since continued to scale up his scope of influence, serving AGD as regional director, Region 15/16, from 2010 to 2015, as secretary, 2015 to 2016 and as vice president, 2016 to 2017. Says Gajjar, “Dentists in Canada and the U.S. often face similar issues, and fostering communication and sharing resources through AGD allows both countries to benefit.”

The first South Asian and youngest dentist elected AGD president, Gajjar hopes to see AGD expand its reach and look to technology to support its mission. “Our members want to be connected to other dentists,” he said. “They want to know what should be done in specific clinical situations, which courses they should take, which courses are worth their money, and which ones will make them better dentists. We need to incorporate technology to give them what they need.” ♦

Highlights from AGD 2018 Annual Meeting

AGD's Annual Meeting of the House of Delegates was held Nov. 2–4 in Chicago, where it installed new officers and adopted new policies. AGD President Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, MAGD, delivered a speech that addressed the organization's past, present and future. Some of the topics that Gajjar discussed included:

- Increasing membership. Gajjar suggested that, to bolster membership numbers, AGD must “answer why we started, why we exist and what we can offer our members.” He said that, at its core, the organization exists to make life easier for general dentists by teaching practice management tips, clinical skills and “small things that no one teaches in school.”
- Maximizing potential. Gajjar said that, in addition to targeting new members from traditional markets, AGD needs to maintain the prestige associated with being an AGD member. It must better understand traditional markets before entering new ones.
- Continuing education. AGD faces increasing competition in the continuing education (CE) market. In order to remain relevant, Gajjar suggested that AGD continue to blend education with gamification and build a state-of-the-art electronic system for registering and tracking CE.
- Advocacy. “If we want to grow, we need to advocate more for our members,” Gajjar said. He explained that AGD must understand that there are two categories of members, those who are employed and those who are self-employed, and it must tailor programs for both groups.
- Public awareness. “We need to make the public aware of who we are,” said Gajjar. In order to accomplish this, the organization has to invest more funds into its future. “We need to dream and, if we really believe we can be there, the reality will be that we are there. We need to be willing to take risks.”
- Technology. Dentistry is being changed by rapid advances in technology that allow patients to diagnose many problems with their smartphones. AGD must also use technology to stay abreast of these developments and properly safeguard public health. “We cannot operate the same way we did 40 years ago when members came by horse and carriage from all over the country to make policies, to make the profession better and deliver better care for our patients,” said Gajjar.

Gajjar ended his speech with a call to action for all AGD leaders in attendance. “I now turn to you and ask that you raise your level of commitment to the organization, too,” he said. “Don’t ever hesitate to let us know how we can help you and improve AGD. Don’t ever hesitate to let us know how we can prepare for the future. What may seem like a silly idea may in fact be the next big game changer. We need to be open and engaged, and we need to do it together.”

Universal Award Winners Announced

The 2018 Universal Awards were presented to AGD constituents at the Annual Meeting. This recognition is presented annually for excellence in service in categories including Advocacy, Communications, Continuing Education, Membership and Public Education. Constituent of the Year awards were also presented to Texas AGD (Category 1), Alabama AGD (Category 2) and Army AGD (Federal Services).

Napier Receives Mark Ritz Award

During the AGD Annual Meeting, the 2018 AGD Mark Ritz Award was presented to Rocky Napier, DDS, of Aiken, South Carolina.

The Ritz Award is presented to a member who has demonstrated outstanding service to AGD and organized dentistry in advocacy, ensuring that AGD's voice is heard by legislators, regulators and policymakers.

“Dr. Napier has a critical understanding of the issues facing our profession and what is needed to influence legislative and policy initiatives that will impact our profession,” said AGD Immediate Past President Manual A. Cordero, DDS, CPH, MAGD. “As a pediatric dentist who understands the need to partner with AGD, he knows how to collaborate better than anyone I know. He has done tremendous work in South Carolina and lends his expertise to other members who are facing challenges in their communities.”

Zirkonzahn's M4 Wet Heavy Metal Milling Unit – The all-rounder

Zirkonzahn's M4 Wet Heavy Metal milling unit combines the vast experience in CAD/CAM technology and the production of millable materials with new technological insights. A casing of tempered and UNI ISO certified security glass, in high quality design, forms the packaging of this 1500 W and 350 kg milling unit, which withstands all vibrations. The M4 Wet Heavy Metal milling unit is equipped with the proven 5+1 axis simultaneous milling technology. Its centrepiece consists of the 360° rotatable workpiece table, which permits milling in hard-to-reach areas, such as undercuts and divergences. This also enables, besides the standard indications such as individual crowns, inlays, onlays or veneers, the production of occlusally screw-retained bridges, attachments or bars. The extra-large milling area with different types of blank holders permits the elaboration of up to 10 models, 20 full arch bridges, 30 Raw-Abutments®, Bridge-Rods and/or glass ceramic blanks in a single milling process. Furthermore, the integrated tool changer function and the tool magazine allow the automatic exchange of up to 32 milling burs. In this way, all structures needed for complex restorations can be produced in a single milling process. Thanks to the built-in wet processing function, all common soft and hard materials can be elaborated. Optionally, the machine can be further equipped with the high-performance, water-cooled Performance Milling Spindle M4, with an integrated suction device. During the elaboration of resins, the Ioniser (optional) ensures a clean milling unit by discharging the plastic shavings, which results in more cleanliness during the milling process and increases the machine's performance since cleaning is no longer necessary.

BRIDGING THE GAP

DIVERSITY, EQUITY AND INCLUSION WITHIN DENTISTRY ENABLE BETTER ACCESS TO CARE

BY KELSEY HENKE

Dentistry in the United States and Canada has made significant gains in workforce diversity in the past 50 years. Dental care for historically marginalized groups has also increased. Superficially, these two concepts may not seem to have a causal relationship. However, promoting diversity, equity (guaranteed fair treatment, access and advancement) and inclusion within the profession is an essential way for dentistry to successfully expand care to underserved populations. Having a dental workforce that is inclusive of all genders, races, sexualities and backgrounds better prepares the profession to serve the oral health needs of populations that need it most. Dentistry benefits from empowering practitioners who are sensitive to unique cultural and health needs and who bring experiences to the profession that strengthen its collective capacity for empathy and nuanced care.

While much progress has been made encouraging diversity within certain groups, more remain underrepresented. Universities, professional associations and government organizations are working to bolster diversity, equity and inclusion in the profession. Concurrently, continuing education providers, dental schools and specialized clinics are among those introducing current practitioners to cultural competency training programs that prepare them to better understand patients who have backgrounds with which they may be unfamiliar.

Embracing the growing trend of diversity in dentistry means the ability to care for more patients. But much work still needs to be done.

The Current State of Diversity in Dentistry

In terms of workforce demographics, dentistry has diversified significantly, though unevenly, over the past few decades. The biggest gains are in the representation of Asian and female dentists. In 1983, Asians only accounted for 6.2 percent of enrollees in dental education programs.<sup>1</sup> Today, they are both the second highest percentage of enrollees (24.7 percent in 2016) and the second highest percentage of applicants to dental education programs (31.6 percent in 2016).<sup>2</sup> Unlike other minority groups, the proportion of practicing dentists of Asian descent was greater than the proportion of Asians in the U.S. population.<sup>3</sup>

Female dentists are also approaching parity. Though they still only constitute 32.3 percent of practicing dentists (as of 2018 data), women make up 48.5 percent of dental school graduates.<sup>4</sup> These numbers are particularly remarkable considering women only accounted for 4.6 percent of dental school graduates in 1976.<sup>4</sup> efforts as important influences for bringing more women and minority dentists into the profession.

However, dentistry continues to suffer representational disparities across certain demographic lines. Black, Hispanic or Latino, and American Indian or Alaska

Demographics of U.S. Population vs. Enrollees in Dental Schools

Demand for practitioners who can relate to and understand the context and needs of underserved populations remains high.

One of the largest continuing gaps exists with black dentists. Black students only constituted 5.2 percent of enrollees in dental programs in 2016, though black people accounted for 12.3 percent of the U.S. population.<sup>2</sup> A 2012 article published in the Journal of Dental Education reports that “data from 1975 to the present shows that the percentages of African American students have not increased substantially.”<sup>1</sup> A 2017 study found that black dentists in the workforce face unique obstacles: higher than average educational debt, a greater likelihood of being the first in their family to graduate from college and lower reported annual income.<sup>4</sup>

Initiatives in Representation and Inclusion

Recognizing the progress that remains to be made in the dental field, associations, universities, corporate foundations and government organizations have been charting a new path with initiatives and policies aimed at recruiting more underrepresented dentists and supporting them throughout their education and careers. Some major projects include the American Dental Association’s 2010 National Summit on Diversity in Dentistry and subsequent Diversity and Inclusion Plans; the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation’s Pipeline, Profession, and Practice: Community-Based Dental Education program; and the establishment of the American Dental Education Association’s Center for Equity and Diversity.

Rosa Chaviano-Moran, DMD, professor and assistant dean of admissions at Rutgers University, and Darryl Pendleton, DMD, associate professor and associate dean of student and diversity affairs at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC), are among the network of professionals working within the university setting to promote diversity and inclusion.

For both Chaviano-Moran and Pendleton, a critical step has been to make changes to the admissions process.

At Rutgers, Chaviano-Moran helped institute a holistic admissions process. In addition to quantitative metrics, such as a student’s GPA and standardized test scores, the admissions team at the Rutgers School of Dental Medicine also considers factors such as a student’s community involvement, working hours, leadership experience, familiarity with the profession, demonstrated compassion for others, motivation, status as a first-generation college student and special aptitudes.

“Not everyone can afford a test prep course or private university tuition,” said Chaviano-Moran. “Holistic admissions allows us to select students who are interested in dentistry, but who may not have had the same exposure or opportunities as other applicants.”

The UIC College of Dentistry has also adapted its admissions policies to attract students who bring unique backgrounds and perspectives. “It’s not just about racial and gender diversity,” said Pendleton. “We also have to consider things like a potential student’s geography and socioeconomic status.”

Chaviano-Moran and Pendleton also help oversee their schools’ pipeline programs. One component of these programs is outreach to children and young adults from underrepresented communities in elementary, middle and high schools to introduce them to the dental field.

Outreach to younger children typically involves a classroom visit by a dentist to introduce students to basic oral health principles. Programs for high school and undergraduate students can include hands-on activities at the dental school, clinical observation, symposiums and admissions counseling.

Chaviano-Moran and Pendleton both recognize that recruiting students is only one component of supporting diversity at the university level; they also stress the importance of creating an inclusive environment for underrepresented students while they are attending school. Rutgers and UIC support student groups that aim to better connect the communities of students they bring into the program, such as clubs for LGBT students and student chapters of national organizations such as the American Association of Women Dentists and the Indian Student Dental Association. They also offer mentorship opportunities and prioritize faculty diversity.

The Work of Associations

Dental associations also make major efforts to recruit and support underrepresented minority dentists. Some have been doing this work for decades. Organizations such as the American Association of Women Dentists and the National Dental Association were formed in the early 20th century with the intention of advancing female and black dentists within the profession. Organizations such as these offer a professional network, career development opportunities and tuition scholarships for minority dentists and dental students. (See “Conferences Prioritizing Diversity” for a more detailed list of active organizations.)

Sarita Arteaga, DMD, MAGD, is president of the Hispanic Dental Association Foundation (HDAF), an organization that works with the Hispanic Dental Association to award scholarships to dental assisting, dental hygiene and dental students. “The goal is to support this changing workforce and help to develop and recruit into the profession those leaders and professionals who will provide for the Hispanic and underserved communities,” she said. The HDAF has distributed over $518,000 in scholarships since 1995.

Arteaga explains that increasing representation of minority dentists is about more than just equity within the profession; it also makes the workforce better able to provide for those who may not be getting the care they require.

“Increasing the number of healthcare professionals who can relate to this growing population and understanding their needs will help reduce disparities,” she said. “It’s important to have an understanding of how cultural and religious beliefs can impact healthcare decisions, not just an understanding of the language. Having a thorough understanding of social determinants of health can improve healthcare outcomes overall.”

A Diverse Workforce to Support Diverse Patient Populations

Health disparities between populations have been well documented in the United States and Canada for decades, and factors such as cost, barriers to access, stereotyping and bias continue to negatively influence patient care, treatment acceptance and health outcomes across communities. Research and policy across healthcare fields have consistently maintained that training a diverse workforce is an important step toward improving care delivery and addressing these continued disparities.<sup>6</sup>

Demand for practitioners who can relate to and understand the context and needs of underserved populations remains high. Within dentistry, the same populations that are underrepresented in the American and Canadian workforce — blacks, Hispanics and American Indian/Alaska Native populations — also experience large disparities in both access to dental care and oral health status.<sup>3</sup>

Communities of color are reported to experience higher rates of tooth loss and

“Patients want to feel respected and understood. If you can speak to them in their language and understand what questions and concerns they are bringing into the office, that’s critical.”

Neil Gajjar, DDS, MAGD

untreated tooth decay and receive fewer preventive services. Moreover, Asian, black and Hispanic children remain less likely than white children to have even one dental sealant, and Asian and black seniors are much more likely than white seniors to have lost all of their teeth.<sup>7</sup>

In addition to race-based disparities, the National Healthcare Disparities Report, published in 2017 by the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, acknowledges that access to care also varies by socioeconomic status, age, sex, disability status, sexual orientation, gender identity and residential location. Populations that experience poverty at higher rates — such as LGBT populations, seniors, immigrant communities and rural communities — can find themselves systematically priced out of seeking the care they need.

Research across the healthcare field has also found that even when individuals from these populations are able to seek care, they are more likely to encounter negative bias and stereotyping from practitioners and staff.<sup>8</sup> Healthcare providers have been shown to demonstrate more negative attitudes toward blacks, Latinos, Native Americans, overweight/obese individuals, gay and lesbian people, individuals with lower socioeconomic standing, injecting drug users, and wheelchair users with spinal cord injuries.<sup>9</sup>

Within dentistry specifically, a 2018 study concluded that dentists were significantly more likely to recommend root canal treatment to white patients and significantly more likely to recommend extraction for black patients.<sup>8</sup>

Researchers and practitioners who treat these underserved populations contend that having staff from a variety of backgrounds is a necessary part of providing quality care.

AGD president and private practitioner Neil Gajjar, DDS, MAGD, agrees.

“A diverse workforce is essential,” said Gajjar. “Patients want to feel respected and understood. If you can speak to them in their language and understand what questions and concerns they are bringing into the office, that’s critical.”

Gajjar is a South Asian dentist based in Mississauga, Ontario, a Canadian city with a large percentage of immigrants — South Asian immigrants especially. He explains that the South Asian population has beliefs, customs and backgrounds that impact how practitioners should provide care to them.

“A large part of India is vegetarian. So dentists might hear questions about whether dissolvable sutures or capsules have meat products in them,” said Gajjar. “You need to know what toothpastes don’t have gelatin. And, if you’re treating a Sikh patient, you may have to think about things like, ‘Is it OK for me to ask them to take off their turban so we can get a panorex?’”

Brooks Woodward, DDS, director of the Chase Brexton Health Care dental program, also emphasizes the integrality of understanding and honoring a community’s unique needs to reduce oral health disparities. Founded in 1978 to serve Baltimore’s gay community, Chase Brexton today treats a large percentage of patients who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT).

“The most important element is for patients to feel recognized and respected for who they are,” said Woodward. The clinic employs a diverse workforce and has an onboarding process intended to build a practitioner's understanding of the nuances of delivering care to the LGBT population. For example, practitioners and staff are trained to communicate using language and vocabulary that affirms the patient. Woodward explains that dental professionals start by taking time to identify how patients wish to be addressed, what pronouns they prefer and whether they have a preferred name that may not be the one on their driver's license or insurance card.

Moreover, the dental clinic offers all services — including preventive, restorative, endodontic, oral surgery and fixed and removable prosthetics — at sliding-scale fees to all patients. This payment strategy is an attempt to recognize and reduce the economic barriers to care for a population that is disproportionately affected by low socioeconomic status, unemployment, underemployment and lack of health or dental insurance.<sup>10</sup>

Woodward notes that, while the care and specialized services Chase Brexton provides are “not often found in other community health centers,” all practitioners can improve their cultural competencies in treating the LGBT population by seeking out cultural competency training courses specific to that group.

Looking Ahead

Within the dental school domain, many universities now offer — and sometimes require — courses that teach culture, communication, and public health skills or clinical experience in extramural patient settings where students can offer care to diverse populations. As more diverse students enter dental programs, and dentistry curriculum continues to fill the gaps in the field's cultural awareness and public health skills, current disparities may continue to decrease.

In addition to joining dental associations and continuing their education, dentists who want to support diversity, equity and inclusion can find courses offered by independent providers about providing care to minority populations. Patient literature in other languages is available online, as are blogs, articles and best practice guidelines for providing culturally competent care.

Gajjar, who co-founded the South Asian Dental Association, affirms that practitioners who are not a part of the communities they treat have much to gain from familiarizing themselves with groups and education that promote equity and cultural sensitivity. “Canada has a big immigrant population, and all providers want to be able to communicate with their patients to give them the best care,” he said. “I think dentists who are committed to understanding the unique needs of their patients can find opportunities out there to learn from other people who are seeing the same problems.” ♦

Fun in Mohegan Sun

AGD2019 to Feature a World of Entertainment

Dentists traveling to AGD2019 at Mohegan Sun will find dozens of fun activities to fill their leisure time in between educational sessions. With a combination of activities, entertainment and dining, there is truly something for everyone at Mohegan Sun.

Activities

Those not on a schedule will find an exceptional number of amenities within the resort. In addition to two world-class spas, two indoor pools and a giant outdoor sun terrace, attendees wanting to catch up on their shopping can stop at The Shops at Mohegan Sun. The 130,000-square-foot retail space hosts some of today's best brands — from Tommy Bahama to Le Creuset. Families with children — or kids at heart — can visit the Cyber Quest arcade to try for some new high scores.

Want to spend some time outside? The Mohegan Sun Golf Club is a par 72 course designed by Geoffrey Cornish that accommodates all levels of play. Convention attendees will receive a discounted rate on green fees, cart fees and the driving range. For information, visit agd2019.org, and click on Family Activities.

Entertainment

Mohegan Sun also boasts some of the best entertainment venues in Connecticut. The 10,000-seat Mohegan Sun Arena will feature a WNBA game between the Connecticut Sun and the Atlanta Dream on Friday, July 19, at 7:30 p.m. For a slightly smaller-scale experience, the 350-seat Wolf Den has featured performers such as MC Hammer, Blue Oyster Cult and Eddie Money — and the shows are always free.

Looking to sizzle up your evening? Comix Roadhouse features karaoke every Thursday and country-themed dancing and mechanical bull riding every Friday. The comedy club within the roadhouse showcases nightly and late-night shows of both local and national comic headliners. The club will present a special AGD-only show Friday, July 19, featuring Dean Delray. A touring musician for 25 years who opened for numerous acts such as Tom Petty and Lenny Kravitz, Delray later worked in a Harley-Davidson shop and caught the comedy bug at the tender age of 44.

Stop by Comix Roadhouse for a show and dinner — the club serves Texas-style staples like brisket, fried green tomatoes and pulled pork.

Dining

Foodies needn't look far from their hotel rooms to find some of the best dining in New England. Mohegan Sun's 40 restaurants and bars cater to every taste and mood. From farm-to-table-inspired creations at Hash House a Go Go to Mexican cantina fare at SolToro, AGD2019 attendees will be well fed after a long day of learning.

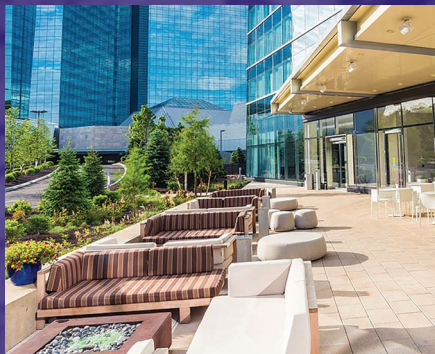

A few select restaurants include:

- Bar Americain. Located off the hotel lobby, Bobby Flay's Bar Americain has a menu inspired by the chef's travels throughout the country. Guests can sample the finest New England seafood from the Raw Bar or take a culinary excursion to the Southwest and chow down on a thick steak.
- Carlo's Bakery. Satisfy your sweet tooth with a visit to Carlo's Bakery, owned by Buddy Valastro, star of "Cake Boss" and "Next Great Baker." Fill up on Italian pastries, or pick up a specialty cake to share — or not — later.
- Michael Jordan's Steak House. Eat like Mike. Experience an establishment that only uses ingredients and delivers service that live up to the legend of Michael Jordan.

These amenities and more will be available to AGD2019 attendees. A long day of learning means relaxing will be in order, and the fun in Mohegan Sun will not disappoint. For more information, visit agd2019.org.

"Whether you've attended the meeting before or it's your first time, AGD2019 will provide you an experience unlike any other."

Why You Should Care About Your Kid's Cavities

Parenting is an exhausting job, and often the one thing that gets left by the wayside is kids' oral health. After all, cavities are a normal part of childhood, right?

Wrong. Cavities may be common, but they are not normal. They're an infection in the mouth caused by germs, and, if left alone, can become very expensive to treat.

Not the new normal

Though cavities could fall out with baby teeth, more often they dissolve the tooth down to the nerve. And when baby teeth decay early, it can impact the health and placement of the permanent tooth coming in behind it, causing crooked teeth.

Start them early, save big

Even if the decaying tooth does fall out, original germs can remain, infecting other teeth. That is why preventing cavities begins at birth, and starts with cleaning your baby's teeth after feedings, and brushing newly formed teeth with toothpaste to reduce or eliminate germs.

By teaching your kids the importance of dental hygienic practices early, they will accept these routines as normal, and see decay-ing, cavity-infested teeth for what they are: not normal.

Making the Most of Your Dental Visit

Neil J. Gajjar
D.D.S., M.A.G.D., President, Academy of General Dentistry

Though dentist visits might be low on your list of priorities, oral health check-ins now could mean fewer expensive medical bills in the future.

Scheduling regular dental care appointments can be difficult in this busy world we live in. But because the first signs of many illnesses are revealed in the mouth, your general dentist is often on the frontlines of your health.

Regular exams help your dentist keep your mouth in tip-top shape and spot indicators of problems elsewhere, in your body, like poor nutrition and hygiene or improper jaw

No issue is too small for your dentist to know

I encourage my patients to tell me everything about their health, even if they don't think it relates to their mouths. Similarly, you should communicate to your dentist about any past surgeries or major illnesses in the past. You and your dentist should also discuss treatment options and plans, insurance coverage, and billing, so that you have access to care well into the future.

Are you relocating? Make sure to talk with your regular dentist to find another practice before you move. Or, if your employers are changing insurance providers, you and your current dentist can work through this process together to make sure you will continue to be covered.

Good oral health is more than just a great smile

By working closely with your dentist, you involve yourself in your treatment plan, making sure it works for you. Before engaging a new dental office, reach out to see how they can help. Like in my practice, they should educate you on all your options, to treat small problems before they become big ones.

Oral health is more than just a great smile — it can also affect your quality of life. Your general dentist is responsible for the diagnosis, treatment, management, and overall coordination of services related to your oral health needs. They're there to protect the whole you. ■

Make AGD2019 Your Own

By Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, MAGD, Connie L. White, DDS, FAGD, and Bruce L. Cassis, DMD, MAGD

With AGD2019 just around the corner, we are looking forward to seeing thousands of AGD members in Connecticut. Whether you're a student interested in learning more about AGD or a late-career dentist looking to invest in the newest techniques, you're sure to leave the meeting armed with tools to further your career.

The most wonderful aspect of the meeting is the sheer number of quality educational offerings. Attendees have nearly 200 courses to choose from, which ensures that every dentist has the ability to create a customized education plan and make AGD2019 unique to them. As longtime AGD members, we've seen how these meetings only continue to get better every year. We'd like to share why we think AGD2019 will be the organization's best meeting to date and the reasons we're particularly excited to be spending time at Mohegan Sun.

President Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, MAGD

As 2019 president, overseeing this year's meeting has been one of the most prestigious honors of my career. The culmination of an AGD scientific session is the Convocation Ceremony. What a thrill it is to witness the next generation of AGD leadership achieve Fellowship and Mastership status. Those of you who earned these awards do our profession proud and stand as dentists committed to excellence. Assisting with the ceremony gives me faith that the future of dentistry is bright, and I can't wait to shake each of your hands as you cross the stage.

That's not to say that AGD2019 is all learning and no fun. The President's Reception will take place Thursday evening in the Earth Expo Center, and it's a great opportunity to relax and celebrate the end of the first day of the meeting. I look forward to meeting as many AGD members as possible and hearing their hopes for both the association and the profession. And then, later that evening, I look forward to seeing how many members can juggle, sing and perform magic tricks at the AGD Talent Show.

AGD2019 will truly be an experience like none other. I'm looking forward to seeing you there.

President-elect Connie L. White, DDS, FAGD

Being in the middle of thousands of dentists who share my love of learning couldn't make me happier. As an educator, I'm a firm believer in learning by doing, and the multitude of environments at AGD2019 that facilitate both traditional lecture-type learning and hands-on demonstrations are remarkable.

Past scientific sessions have featured courses that integrate learning in situ by performing dental work on pig heads, and this year is no different. Participants will be able to experience laser excisional biopsies and suturing techniques in a realistic environment.

AGD2019, however, goes beyond previous meetings by offering a live operator. This full-scale mockup of a dental office allows presenters to teach in an environment as close to the real world as possible. Real clinicians will be able to work on real patients in real time. Next to performing a procedure yourself, it doesn't get any more lifelike than that. I encourage all attendees to visit the registration section of agd2019.org and see if there are still openings for live operator courses.

Vice President Bruce L. Cassis, DMD, MAGD

As a fellow educator, I echo the sentiments of President-elect White — there is simply no better place to experience such a breadth of educational opportunities as AGD2019. From pain management to endodontic excellence to sleep dentistry, this roster of courses can educate you in the exact areas you need to better your practice.

As President Gajjar mentioned, the meeting is about more than learning, too. Since the vast majority of attendees will be taking advantage of Mohegan Sun's accommodations, thousands of your fellow dentists will be under one roof for several days. The number of networking opportunities is tremendous. Friday's Student and New Dentist Reception will give our newest members the ability to connect with peers and ask questions of dentists who have been in practice for a while. Attendees who want to experience some New England charm can bring their families — or some newfound friends — on one of our tours to such locations as the Essex Steam Train, Mystic Seaport or New York City.

On behalf of the AGD Executive Committee, I would like to wish all AGD2019 attendees safe travels and a wonderful meeting. For more information on any of the topics we've mentioned, or if you'd like to join us, visit agd2019.org. See you in Connecticut!

Meetings

Leadership Development Symposium Inspires Current and Future Leaders

Over 100 AGD leaders representing over 30 constituencies attended the 1 1/2-day 2019 AGD Leadership Development Symposium, April 12–13 in Chicago. Hosted by the AGD regional directors, the meeting's theme was "Leading from the Inside Out," and its goal was to motivate, engage and equip current and future leaders.

AGD President Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, MAGD, opened the symposium Friday morning.

"The next day and a half will be filled with learning, brainstorming and networking," said Gajjar. "I didn't start my career to become a leader of an organization like the AGD. But the reason I ended up here is that I was inspired by the people I met along the way and the opportunities to support our profession and each other. I'm thankful we can bring together people from around the country and around the world to discuss how we can be stronger leaders."

Gajjar touched on many challenges today's dentists are currently facing or will face in the near future — from working with AI and big data to dental service organizations and the changing landscape of the profession. He stressed how AGD's unique resources can prepare members to lead through these changes.

"The AGD leader is a unique individual who has a passion for learning," said Gajjar. "I now turn to you and ask: What do you need from the AGD?"

Gajjar's talk was followed by keynote speaker AGD Past President Bruce Burton, DMD, MAGD, ABGD. Burton discussed many key attributes that leaders need to be effective. He stressed that trust is the most important quality between leaders and their teams and that leaders must maintain positivity and be aware of successful communication strategies.

"Hopefully it motivates you to think about what kind of leaders you want to be," said Burton.

The remainder of the conference consisted of three concurrent tracks presented by various AGD leaders. These tracks covered topics ranging from advocacy to continuing education to working with AGD on both the local and national levels. The conference concluded with AGD Past President Bruce DeGinder, DDS, MAGD, giving a talk, "Work, Play and Learn," and President-elect Connie White, DDS, FAGD, delivering closing remarks.

In Memoriam

He held a variety of positions within the dental community beginning in the early 1970s. Leibsohn served as chair of the membership, public and professional relations, and publications committees for the New York State AGD, as well as area vice president and editor. He earned his FAGD in 1979 and served as AGD president from 1991 to 1992.

"Buccal injection of articaine to anesthetize the palatal mucosa"

Buccal and palatal injections of anesthetic agents are required before maxillary tooth extractions, but palatal injections are painful. After sectioning and measuring cadaveric hemimaxillae, Abu Sharkh et al concluded that the uniformly thin, cancellous maxillary bone, when coupled with the diffusion properties of articaine, allows buccal infiltration to produce palatal anesthesia, eliminating the need for a palatal injection.

COMMUNITY

Major facelift for one of Mississauga's oldest neighbourhoods

Cooksville in Mississauga is now a tired neighborhood that is poised to change significantly over the next few years. Vision Cooksville project is expected to revitalize and 'reimagine' the area to the LRT providing future transit service for the Hurontario and Dundas intersection.

A plan is being set in motion to create what would be known as the Cooksville Business Improvement Area (BIA). Ward 7 Councillor Dipika Damerla, who represents the Cooksville area, lauded about this plan and a town hall recently held to begin the process of starting a BIA.

"I have a vision to transform the historic Hurontario and Dundas area into a destination place where people come not only to shop but also to enjoy. A strong and distinct brand will help us to encourage residents and visitors to shop in the area and will attract new businesses," Damerla said in a Facebook post.

According to provincial ministry guidelines, a BIA allows local businesspeople and property owners to join together and with the support of the municipality, organize, finance and carry out physical improvement and promote economic development in their district. The local municipality is the body that is responsible for approving the budget of the BIA and there are currently 230 BIAs across Ontario, representing anywhere from 60 businesses to more than 2,000.

In Mississauga, there is the Clarkson BIA, Malton BIA and Streetsville BIA as well as recent discussions of forming a Downtown

Mississauga BIA as well. During the town hall, a steering committee was formed to formalize the Cooksville BIA's boundaries down the road. "We are pleased and excited to announce the formation of a steering committee for the creation of a BIA for the Cooksville area of Mississauga. Our intention is to create a unique and beautiful destination for everyone to explore and enjoy within Cooksville," said Steven Smith, local business owner and chairman of the Cooksville BIA Steering Committee. According to Damerla's staff, about 35 businesses who attended the town hall were interested in the establishment of a BIA. As for the official boundaries, the steering committee is tentatively looking at Kirwin Avenue to the north, Moradale Drive to the south, Confederation Parkway to the west and Cawthra Road to the east. The challenges of a BIA forming in Cooksville is that the vast majority of the units businesses operate in are individually owned, meaning that there is no one major property manager or company to approach in asking to form a business improvement area. 🇨🇦

South Asians head world's largest dental organizations

MISSISSAUGA

On November 4, 2018, Dr. Neil J. Gajjar of Canada became the first South Asian and youngest president of the Academy of General Dentistry (AGD), the world's largest dental organization for general dentists with over 40,000 members. AGD's award-winning publications are respected sources for the latest product and technology, as well as advances in science, pharmacology and dental materials.

Dr. Gajjar, was born in Stephenville, Newfoundland to parents from Ahmedabad, India. He frequently travels back to Gandhinagar and is fluent in Gujarati. When being installed as president, he said, "This is a proud moment for me, a proud moment for my family, and a proud moment for Canada and India."

During his one-year volunteer term as president, Dr. Gajjar's vision for AGD aligns with the organization's goal to advance the field of general dentistry and oral health through quality education and advocacy. "AGD has a phenomenal CE program, but like many things, we can develop it more," said Dr. Gajjar. "The organization's greatest strength rests in our members. We have members who are dedicated to learning, refining their skills and delivering the best care possible to their patients. We have a membership that believes in the profession of general dentistry who will advocate for the industry, their colleagues and their patients."

Dr. Gajjar intends to use his influence to encourage the organization to incorporate more advanced technological and automated platforms.

Dr. Gajjar is passionate about continuing education and has been a committed lecturer on managing medical emergencies in the dental office. In addition, he has formally served as a lecturer of oral pathology at the Canadian Academy of Dental Hygiene and as a clinical instructor in the Oral Diagnosis and Emergency Clinics at the University of Toronto, Faculty of Dentistry. He lives in Mississauga, Ontario, with his wife and two children.

In September of 2019, Dr. Chad P. Gehani will be installed as president of the 163,000-member American Dental Association (ADA). He is the first South Asian to be elected to this position. He is a Clinical Associate Professor of Endodontics at New York University, New York, and also an international presenter who has been very active in teaching in South Asia.

Dr. Gehani graduated from the University of Mumbai (India) and from the Columbia University College of Dental Medicine. He practices in Queens, New York, where he lives with his wife Rekha, who is also a dentist. Two of their three children are dentists and the other is a physician.

Both Drs. Gajjar and Gehani are looking forward to working together in promoting the profession and ensuring optimal oral health for patients. 🇨🇦

નવેમ્બર ૪, ૨૦૧૮ ના રોજ કેનેડા ના ડૉ. નીલ જે. ગજજર જનરલ દંત ચિકિત્સા અકાદમી, જે ૪૦૦૦૦ થી વધુ દંત ચિકિત્સક સભ્યો સાથેની વિશ્વની સૌથી મોટી દંત સંસ્થા છે તેના સૌથી નાના અને દક્ષિણ એશિયા ના પ્રથમ પ્રમુખ બન્યા.

ડૉ. ગજજર નો જન્મ સ્ટેફનવીલ, ન્યૂફાઉન્ડલેન્ડ માં થયો હતો અને તેમના માતા-પિતા અમદાવાદ ના મૂળ વતની છે. તે વારંવાર ગાંધીનગરની મુલાકાત લે છે અને ઘણી સારી રીતે ગુજરાતી ભાષા બોલી જાણે છે. પ્રમુખ તરીકે તેમની નિયુક્તિ થતા સમયે તેમણે કહ્યું હતું કે "આ મારા માટે, મારા પરિવાર માટે તથા કેનેડા અને ભારત માટે ગર્વની ક્ષણ છે."

એકેડેમી ઓફ જનરલ ડેન્ટિસ્ટ્રી (એજીડી) એ ૪૦૦૦૦ થી વધુ દંત ચિકિત્સકોનું સામાન્ય વ્યવસાયી સંગઠન છે જેઓ જાહેર જનતાને દાંતની સંભાળ અને મૌખિક આરોગ્ય શિક્ષણ પ્રદાન કરવા માટે સમર્પિત છે. ૧૯૫૨ માં સ્થાપના થયેલ એજીડી વિશ્વની સામાન્ય દંતચિકિત્સકો માટેની સૌથી મોટી સંસ્થા છે જે સામાન્ય ડેન્ટિસ્ટની જરૂરિયાતો પૂરી પાડે છે તથા તેમના હિતોને રજૂ કરે છે. દંત ચિકિત્સાના ક્ષેત્રમાં ગુણવત્તા શિક્ષણથી લઈને માત્ર સિદ્ધિ-આધારિત પુરસ્કારો પ્રદાન કરીને, એજીડી ખાતરી કરે છે કે અમારા સભ્યો તાજેતરના વલણોની જાણકારી તથા ગુણવત્તા શિક્ષણ સાથે ટોચ પર રહે અને સામાન્ય દંત ચિકિત્સા માં શિક્ષિત અવાજ તરીકે ઓળખાય. એજીડીના એવોર્ડ વિજેતા પ્રકાશનો, વ્યવસાયમાં નવા ઉત્પાદનો તથા ટેકનોલોજીના સ્ત્રોતો તરીકે તેમજ વિજ્ઞાન, ફાર્માકોલોજી અને ડેન્ટલ મેટિરીયલ્સમાં પ્રગતિ તરીકે માનવામાં આવે છે.

એજીડીના પ્રમુખ તરીકેના તેમના કાર્યકાળ દરમિયાન ડૉ. ગજજર તેમના પ્રવાવનો સદુપયોગ

ડૉ. ગજજર, જે એકેડેમી ઓફ જનરલ ડેન્ટિસ્ટ્રીના માસ્ટર છે, તેમણે એજીડી સભ્ય તરીકેના તેમના કાર્યકાળ દરમિયાન અન્ય નેતૃત્વની તથા અન્ય મહત્વપૂર્ણ ભૂમિકા ભજવી છે. છે. પ્રમુખ તરીકે સેવા આપતા પહેલા, ડૉ. ગજજરએ બોર્ડના ઉપપ્રમુખ અને સક્રિય તરીકે સેવા આપી હતી. તેમણે અનેક એજીડી સમિતિઓ - એજીડી સભ્યપદ, દંત શિક્ષણ, અને જૂથ લાભો અને વાર્ષિક મીટિંગ કાર્ટેન્સિલ પર પણ કામ કર્યું છે.

A FIRST FOR INDIA - TWO SOUTH ASIAN’S HEAD TWO OF THE WORLD’S LARGEST DENTAL ORGANIZATIONS

DR. NEIL J. GAJJAR PRESENTS DR. CHAD GEHANI WITH A GANESH IDOL FOR GOOD LUCK AND PROSPERITY AS DR. GEHANI ASSUMES HIS NEW OFFICE.

On November 4, 2018, Dr. Neil J. Gajjar of Canada became the first South Asian and youngest president of the Academy of General Dentistry, the world’s largest dental organization for general dentists with over 40,000 members.

Dr. Gajjar, who was born in Stephenville, Newfoundland is the son of parents from Ahmedabad, India. He frequently travels back to Gandhinagar and speaks fluently in Gujarati. When being installed as president, he said, “This is a proud moment for me, a proud moment for my family, and a proud moment for Canada and India.”

The Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) is a professional association of more than 40,000 general dentists dedicated to providing quality dental care and oral health education to the public. Founded in 1952, AGD is the largest association for general dentists in the world and serves the needs and represents the interests of general dentists. From quality education to the only achievement-based awards in general dentistry, the AGD ensures our members stay on top of the latest trends, access quality continuing education, and are distinguished as the educated voice in general dentistry. AGD’s award-winning publications are respected in the profession as sources for the latest product and technology, as well as advances in science, pharmacology and dental materials.

During his one-year volunteer term as president, Dr Gajjar’s vision for AGD aligns with the organization’s goal to advance the field of general dentistry and oral health through quality education and advocacy. “AGD has a phenomenal CE program, but like many things, we can develop it more,” said Dr. Gajjar. “The organization’s greatest strength rests in our members. We have members who are dedicated to learning, refining their skills and delivering the best care possible to their patients. We have a membership that believes in the profession of general dentistry who will advocate for the industry, their colleagues and their patients.”

During his tenure as AGD’s president, Dr. Gajjar intends to use his influence to encourage the organization to incorporate more advanced technological and automated platforms. Coming from a family of engineers, he understands how technology can significantly improve the operations and efficiency of AGD.

Dr. Gajjar, who is a Master of the Academy of General Dentistry, has fulfilled other leadership and constituency roles during his tenure as an AGD member. Prior to serving as president, Dr. Gajjar served as the board vice president and secretary. He has also worked on several AGD committees and councils — AGD Membership, Dental Education, and Group Benefits and Annual Meeting councils. On the local level, Dr. Gajjar is the past president of the Ontario AGD, the South Asian Dental Association and a member of the Canadian Dental Association. He has served as the Canada East Regent for the Academy of General Dentist International. In addition, Dr. Gajjar was elected as Councillor and served on various committees with the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario.

He received an undergraduate degree in chemistry from the University of Toronto. Dr. Gajjar went on to receive his Doctor of Dental Surgery from Howard University in Washington, DC, awarded the Teachers of Oral Diagnosis Award. Dr. Gajjar is a Fellow of the Academy of Dentistry International, American College of Dentists, International College of Dentists, Pierre Fauchard Academy and holds a certification in intravenous sedation.

Dr. Gajjar has completed his American Dental Association’s National Board Dental Examination Part I and Part II, as well as the National Dental Examining Board of Canada exams. He is licensed with the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario.

Dr. Gajjar is passionate about continuing education and has been a committed lecturer on managing medical emergencies in the dental office. In addition, he has formally served as a lecturer of oral pathology at the Canadian Academy of Dental Hygiene and as a clinical instructor in the Oral Diagnosis and Emergency Clinics at the University of Toronto, Faculty of Dentistry.

Dr. Gajjar lives in Mississauga, Ontario, with his wife and two children.

In September of 2019, Dr. Chad P. Gehani will be installed as president of the American Dental Association (ADA), when he will lead the ADA’s 163,000-member organization. He is the first South Asian to be elected to this position, an organization known as one of the leading advocate for oral health in the United States. Dr. Gehani was elected during a meeting of the ADA House of Delegates in Honolulu. He is a Clinical Associate Professor of Endodontics at New York University, New York, and also an international presenter who has been very active in teaching in South Asia.

The not-for-profit ADA is the nation’s largest dental association, representing 163,000 dentist members, which has advocated for the public’s health and promoted the art and science of dentistry since 1859. The ADA’s state-of-the-art research facilities develop and test dental products and materials that have advanced the practice of dentistry and made the patient experience more positive. The ADA Seal of Acceptance long has been a valuable and respected guide to consumer dental care products. It’s Journal of the American Dental Association is the ADA’s flagship publication and the one of best-read scientific journal in dentistry.

Since 2014, Dr. Gehani has served as the Second District trustee to the ADA Board of Trustees, and was a delegate in the House of Delegates from 2000-2014. Dr. Gehani was previously the president of the New York State Dental Association and the Queens County Dental Society.

Over the course of his career, Dr. Gehani has earned a number of fellowships from prominent organizations, including the International College of Dentists, American College of Dentists and the Pierre Fauchard Academy. In addition to the ADA, Dr. Gehani is a member of the American Association of Endodontists and the Indian Dental Association (USA). Dr. Gehani has received several awards, including the Ellis Island Medal of Honor, which recognizes Americans who dedicate their lives to community service, from the Ellis Island Honor Society, and the Distinguished Service Award from The Pierre Fauchard Academy, New York Section, in 2008. Lifetime achievement award from The Indian Dental Association (USA). Best Teacher award from The International College of Dentists.

Dr. Gehani graduated from the University of Mumbai (India) and from the Columbia University College of Dental Medicine. He practices in Queens, New York, where he lives with his wife Rekha, who is also a dentist. Two of their three children are dentists and the other is a physician.

Both Drs. Gajjar and Gehani are looking forward to working together in promoting the profession and ensuring optimal oral health for patients.

AGD 2019 Hill Day

AGD leaders, members and students met in Washington, D.C., April 29–30, 2019, for AGD's annual Hill Day event. Nearly 40 attendees from across the United States and Canada flew in to advocate for the general dentistry profession, meeting with 55 members of Congress over two days.

The issues AGD members advocated for were repealing the McCarran-Ferguson Act, funding for oral health literacy campaigns and support for the Resident Education Deferred Interest (REDI) Act.

As part of Monday's program, attendees were addressed by three dentist congressmen who are longtime advocates for oral health and the dentistry profession: Reps. Drew Ferguson, DMD (R-Ga.), Jeff Van Drew, DDS (D-N.J.), and, for the keynote address, Paul Gosar, DDS, (R-Ariz.).

Attendees also heard from Health Resources and Services Administration Administrator George Sigounas, MS, PhD, regarding the agency's efforts to promote oral health literacy.

Additionally, American Dental Association (ADA) Senior Vice President, Government and Public Affairs, Michael Graham, MPP, and Director of Congressional Affairs Chris Tampio spoke to attendees about the ADA's advocacy efforts and provided valuable insight into the current political environment in Congress and how AGD's policy priorities are affected by it.

Finally, a representative from the office of Rep. Brian Babin, DDS (R-Texas), briefed attendees on the REDI Act, of which Babin is the sponsor.

Tennessee Dentists Exempted from Professional Privilege Tax

Over two years of effort finally bore fruit as a legislative initiative resulted in Tennessee dentists no longer being subjected to an annual $400 professional privilege tax. S.B. 0398/H.B. 1262 was signed into effect May 24, 2019, by Governor Bill Lee. Beginning on what would have been the next due date for payment of the tax — June 1, 2020 — Tennessee dentists join 14 other professions in exemption from the tax. Tennessee AGD lobbyist Mark Greene participated in a coalition of professional groups seeking repeal of the tax. Meetings began in the fall of 2017 with key administration officials, legislative leaders and all members of the finance committees.

Tennessee dentists thank the bill's sponsors — Sen. Brian Kelsey (R-Germantown) and Rep. Andy Holt (R-Dresden), along with Lt. Gov. and Senate Speaker Randy McNally, Former House Speaker Glen Casada, legislative leaders and members of the finance committees.

For new Tennessee dentists embarking on a 30-year career, this new bill will save them $12,000 over the course of their careers.

Dental Practice Council Member Attends American Association of Dental Consultants Workshop

Dental Practice Council member Tyler L. Scott, DDS, represented AGD at the annual Spring Workshop of the American Association of Dental Consultants (AADC), May 1–4 in Scottsdale, Arizona. AADC's membership consists of dental consultants (dentists who, as independent contractors, provide consultation services for dental benefit plans) and nondentists who are involved with the administration of dental benefits. Over 250 dentists attended the annual event, which serves as both an educational and networking event.

Scott noted that the meeting featured excellent continuing education, including several claims review sessions that provided a valuable look inside the mindset of dentists who review claims. "That insight is helpful to me as the Dental Practice Council prioritizes developing tools to help AGD members navigate the claims submission process," said Scott.

AGD Fact Sheets

Talking to Patients About Allergic Reactions

AGD fact sheets provide your patients with all of the information they need to maintain their oral health. Fact sheets on more than 25 oral health topics are available for downloading online and can be customized to include your name and practice contact information. Download the fact sheet "Avoiding Allergic Reactions in the Dental Office" at agd.org/factsheets.

AVOIDING ALLERGIC REACTIONS IN THE DENTAL OFFICE

Itchy, swollen eyes, sneezing and a runny nose may sound like a case of seasonal allergies. But for many, these are the allergy symptoms they experience each time they visit the dentist.

Who experiences allergic reactions?
Allergic reactions occur when the body reacts to a substance that it perceives as a threat. Substances that don't bother some people can trigger allergic reactions in others. It's important to discuss any allergies or past family history, or any known allergies that you have, with your dentist prior to your visit.

What might cause an allergic reaction in the dental office?
Dental anesthesia components. Dental anesthesia is used to numb a patient's teeth during a procedure. The reaction to dental anesthesia is called anaphylaxis and it may trigger allergic reactions in other dental procedures.

Local anesthetic. Local anesthetics numb your mouth and gums during dental treatments. Although allergic reactions to local anesthetics are rare, they can occur.

Latex. Latex can be found in many medical or dental supplies and devices, such as masks, gloves and syringes. While some allergic reactions result from synthetic materials, rubber latex is derived from a tree's latex, which is found in rubber trees. If you are allergic to latex, ask your dentist if the office uses latex products.

Allergic reactions often occur more frequently in people who have a family history of allergies. Substances that don't bother some people can trigger allergic reactions in others.

In addition to itchy, swollen eyes, a runny nose and sneezing, the development of hives, dermatitis (itchy, red, inflamed skin) and swelling of the tongue, lips and throat are signs of an allergic reaction. The most severe allergic reaction is the potentially fatal condition known as anaphylaxis, which is characterized by generalized flushing of the skin, hives, muscle and throat swelling, difficulty in swallowing or breathing, changes in heart rate, abdominal pain, nausea and vomiting, a sudden feeling of weakness due to a drop in blood pressure and loss of consciousness.

What should I do if I have allergies or experience an allergic reaction?
Ask for your dentist and the dental staff and make sure that the information is included in your patient chart. If you have had severe allergic reactions, you should consider carrying an epinephrine kit (EpiPen) and using a credit card to leave the dental office as soon as you are able. If you have severe allergic reactions after a dental procedure, contact your dentist and inform him or her immediately. If you experience a severe allergic reaction after a dental procedure, go immediately to the nearest emergency room.

The Power of ‘Quiet Influence’

By Imtiaz Manji on August 26, 2019 | 2 comments

There is a certain kind of person I have come to admire. If you're lucky, you'll recognize the description because you have a person (or people) like this in your life.

I'm talking about the people I call "quiet influencers." These are the people who don't usually draw a lot of attention to themselves, but who always seem to read a situation quickly and accurately. They are ready with wise counsel when it is needed and open to taking advice and welcoming new ideas. They serve as mentors and as role models — meaning they not only provide advice based on their experience, they also provide an example to emulate based on their character.

A quiet influencer is a good listener. They know that in order to influence someone in a positive way you have to first understand them. That means listening to learn and asking the right questions that get to the heart of a matter.

A quiet influencer is a natural motivator. Because they take the time to listen and really know you, they know how to get you to see your real possibilities and they blow wind in your sails when it's needed.

A quiet influencer keeps you honest. Because they are authentic and driven by a strong set of ethics, they inspire you to maintain the highest ethical standards, as well, and they will let you know if they sense that you may be about to compromise your integrity in any way. They won't let you be untrue to yourself.

A quiet influencer is selfless. They make a lot of their contributions behind the scenes and they are happy to let others take the spotlight. They don't need or pursue recognition or accolades, and they find their greatest satisfaction in the success of the people around them.

But sometimes they get that recognition anyway, and it is well-deserved.

I have been thinking about this lately, because one of the greatest examples of a quiet influencer I know, our own Dr. Steve Ratcliff, was recently awarded the Dr. Thaddeus V. Weclaw Award — the Academy of General Dentistry's highest honor recognizing an individual's contributions to continuing education.

Dr. Ratcliff has practiced general dentistry for 41 years, and for the past 25 years he has focused his work on comprehensive adult restorative care and is regarded as one of the premier clinicians in the U.S.

It's named for the founding father of the AGD and is presented annually "to a dedicated educator who embodies the spirit of comprehensive dental care. This recipient is a professional role model whose activities exemplify a commitment to the profession of dentistry and the principles and goals of AGD."

Needless to say, I think they nailed it with this choice. Steve has played a huge role over the years in shaping the Spear brand of continuing dental education, and he has done so in his typically measured, thoughtful way. He has also been a powerful "quiet influence" on me personally, as he has been for many others on our team, and for countless dentists who are involved with Spear. I think it's fair to say that anyone who has had Steve Ratcliff in their corner has richly benefited from the experience.

Congratulations, Dr. Ratcliff — those of us who know you as the ultimate quiet influencer are happy and proud to see you step into the spotlight to accept this honor.

Academy of General Dentistry Supports Water Fluoridation

Statement from Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, MAGD, President, Academy of General Dentistry

Researchers recently published a study questioning the effectiveness and safety of water fluoridation based on maternal exposure to fluoride during pregnancy.<sup>1</sup> The Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) believes that, according to generally accepted scientific research, fluoride remains safe at the concentrations found in optimally fluoridated water and is a community health measure that benefits children and adults. As oral health professionals, we believe further research should be conducted before the public changes its water consumption habits, especially during pregnancy. We believe that there are too many variables in this study to come to any definitive conclusions, including a lack of funding and a sample size too small to capture true demographics and other environmental or genetic influences.

AGD continues to assert that, when used appropriately, fluoride is safe and effective in preventing and controlling dental decay.

Tooth decay affects more children in the United States than any other chronic infectious disease, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The CDC states that, if left untreated, tooth decay can cause pain and infections that hinder eating, speaking, playing and learning. The problem is pervasive, with 92% of adults ages 20 to 64 having had dental caries in their permanent teeth.<sup>2</sup> This number has been found to increase when fluoride is removed from community water supplies.

The controlled addition of a fluoride compound to public water supplies is considered to be the most cost-effective way to prevent cavities and fight tooth decay. The United States Public Health Service has established that the optimal concentration for fluoridation is 0.7 parts per million.<sup>3</sup> This range effectively reduces tooth decay while minimizing the occurrence of dental fluorosis. Fluoride helps prevent tooth decay by making teeth more resistant to acids that attack enamel and are derived from bacteria in the mouth and certain foods and drinks. By drinking optimally fluoridated water, all members of society — regardless of income, education or ethnicity — can benefit from better oral health, not just those who have access to dental care.

Despite the fact that good oral health is essential for the overall health of both mother and child, a significant number of women in the United States do not visit a dentist during pregnancy. Dental care during pregnancy is not only safe and effective, but also essential for combating the adverse effects of oral disease. During pregnancy, women should continue brushing their teeth twice a day and flossing once a day.

All water supplies, including bottled water, should have appropriate fluoride levels. Simply put — regular fluoride use throughout life will help protect teeth.

Current Trends in the Dental Education Landscape

Dental students today are graduating at a time when decades-long — and sometimes century-long — trends are coming to a head. To take stock of the current situation and make recommendations for the future, “Advancing Dental Education in the 21st Century,” a project published in the Journal of Dental Education, compiled the research of 70 authors and produced 38 papers. This special section analyzes three findings from the project: the ballooning cost of dental school, the role of interprofessional education and the need for research in curricula.

AGD2019 Takes Dentistry to the Next Level

AGD2019 Takes Dentistry to the Next Level

When innovative ideas meet enthusiastic participation, the momentum created has the potential to take all involved to new heights. That's exactly what happened at AGD2019, where more than 2,300 forward-thinking dentists met with top speakers and industry leaders to propel dentistry forward. With courses on a range of topics at every level of expertise and an expanded focus on hands-on, participation-based learning, AGD2019 took continuing education and dentist-branded fun and networking to the next level.

Next-Level Learning

AGD2019 offered courses across 28 distinct subject areas, including implants, periodontics, prosthodontics and even forensic dentistry.

Keynote speaker Henry Lee, PhD, presented his talk, "Forensic Dentistry: The Criminal Investigation," on Thursday morning during the opening session. During the lecture, Lee covered the latest advances in forensic dentistry and how they are used in criminal investigations, but he also gave the audience some advice about letting the community's needs guide the trajectory of your career.

"In 1998, my career was kind of in a crossroads," Lee explained. "After serving as chief criminalist and as Connecticut State Police laboratory director for about 25 years, I could retire. But the governor asked me to be the state police commissioner. I didn't want to be a chief; I didn't want to be a director. I just wanted to do my little work, just like dentists — happy in the dental clinic. But this governor was pretty smart and went to see my mother. And my mother talked me into becoming commissioner. My mom said, 'It's not what you want to do; it's what you can do for the people.' AGD's goal — outreach to the community — is a wonderful thing."

Later that morning, Lee also presented a lecture on "New Technology in Human Identification," where he went beyond fingerprints, anthropological analysis, blood typing and dental record comparison and introduced attendees to new concepts and technologies such as image recording and enhancement, artificial intelligence, facial recognition technology, big data mining and rapid DNA typing. He also presented case examples of these new forensic techniques in practice and illustrated the importance of human identification in criminal and natural disaster investigations.

The learning continued throughout the weekend with informative courses on a wide range of topics. Joel L. Rosenlicht, DMD, taught a special oral surgery course package that spanned three days and provided a blend of lecture- and participation-based courses.

Several courses also introduced attendees to new treatment modalities they could add to their services offered. Gigi Meinecke, DMD, FAGD, presented courses on facial injectables like Botox® and dermal fillers and how they can be incorporated into a dental practice to provide a more comprehensive esthetic service for patients. Meinecke also described how Botox can be used to treat gummy smiles without the need for crown lengthening.

Also featured were multiple courses on sleep dentistry, including "Using Oral Appliance Therapy and CPAP to Treat Obstructive Sleep Apnea" by Sue Ellen Richardson, DDS; "Starting Your Sleep Practice: Science to Success" by Andrew Swiatowicz, DDS, FAGD, AADSM; and "Sleep Solutions: Parts I and II" by John C. Comisi, DDS, MAGD. Treating obstructive sleep apnea can be a revenue-generating addition for practitioners and a life-saving treatment service for patients.

AGD Dr. Thaddeus V. Weclaw Award, 2019 Recipient

Named after the founding father of AGD, the Dr. Thaddeus V. Weclaw Award is presented annually to an individual who has made outstanding contributions to the art and science of dentistry or who has enhanced the principles and goals of AGD and made exceptional efforts in promoting these ideals. The 2019 award was presented during the Convocation Ceremony to Steve Ratcliff, DDS, MS, FAGD.

Ratcliff is the executive vice president of business development for Spear Education. His primary role is to create new opportunities for Spear to reach dentists who are passionate about learning and help them grow and flourish in their practice of dentistry. He taught in Spear workshops before moving into his current role and is still actively seeing patients in the Spear Faculty practice. He has lectured nationally and internationally on a variety of topics, most recently on implant-restorative therapies, and has published in peer-reviewed journals.

Silent Auction and Free Oral Cancer Screenings Support AGD Foundation's Initiatives

The AGD Foundation continued its work to fight oral cancer by offering free oral cancer screenings and hosting an electronic silent auction during AGD2019 to support future oral cancer initiatives.

The screenings were held on Friday, July 19, in the Exhibit Hall. AGD2019 attendees licensed in Connecticut volunteered to provide the screenings, and those screened included attendees, exhibitors and employees of Mohegan Sun. Volunteers screened 362 people for oral cancer, 332 of whom were Mohegan Sun employees.

"It's an important initiative because 53,000 people each year are diagnosed with oral cancer and another 15,000 are diagnosed with human papillomavirus strain 16, which is linked to oropharyngeal cancer," said Maria A. Smith, DMD, MAGD, who co-chaired the oral cancer screening event. "It's a very significant disease. The problem with oral cancer is that, by the time it is found, it is usually late stage, so early detection is absolutely key to saving lives. We are the first line of defense, and providing free screenings is one way we can give back to the community in response to this silent and deadly disease."

The Academy of General Dentistry's Standards for Continuing Education

Neil J. Gajjar, DDS, FACD

Abstract

The Academy of General Dentistry works to raise the standards of general dentistry, primarily through intensive continuing education. Since the 1960s, AGD has guided general dentists to educational opportunities that meet appropriate standards and recognized those who have achieved 600 hours of education and passed a comprehensive examination with a fellowship designation. There is a further level of accomplishment, requiring an additional 500 hours of education, culminating in a master's designation. In recognition of additional training and community service, AGD dentists can earn the Lifelong Learning and Service Recognition. This award can be achieved multiple times. AGD provides a service to the entire dental profession through its Program Approval for Continuing Education (PACE) system. CE providers can be recognized for meeting 13 standards/criteria, including those for administration, fiscal responsibility, learning objectives, evaluation, and self-instruction and electronically mediated programs.

Dr. Gajjar is immediate past-president of the Academy of General Dentistry. He practices in Mississauga, Ontario, Canada.

Since its founding in 1952, the Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) has striven to raise the standard of excellence for general dentists. AGD accomplishes this goal primarily by offering high-quality continuing education (CE) specifically suited for general dentists and by recognizing its members who have exceeded industry expectations for the advancement of their professional educations with the earned distinctions of fellow (FAGD) and master (MAGD). These distinctions are voluntary, but they far exceed the CE requirements of state licensing boards and demonstrate a commitment to furthering one's education in order to provide superior care for the benefit of one's patients.

The Importance of CE

In 1966, one of AGD's founding members, Thaddeus V. Weclaw, wrote about the need for continuing education in the Journal of the American Dental Association, noting that, "Up until the late 1950s, there was little pressure for continuing education from the profession." He went on to say that, "Unless the recipient of a degree earned 10 to 30 years ago progressively reinforces his knowledge with current developments and ideas, Supreme Court decisions, advances made in antibiotics, new concepts of science, and other forward strides that have been made, his degree will have become obsolete. The practitioner...has not fulfilled the debt owed himself and the community if he is not keeping up with the current advances of his profession."

With the astoundingly fast rate of change and technological advancements in modern dentistry, it is likely that, if you are an experienced and established clinician, there are procedures you perform differently from how you were taught in dental school; if you are a student now, it is likely that the landscape of dental materials will change before you reach the middle of your career, and so will the technologies you use in your practice. The education you receive in dental school is only the beginning.

Voluntary standards represent a commitment to personal excellence and professional growth. AGD members are committed to maintaining and building on their proficiency beyond simply meeting state dental board CE requirements. In order to broaden patient access to care and services, the general dentist is expected to have a much wider knowledge base than a specialist and ensure that this knowledge base is up to date, making CE that much more important. The founders of AGD recognized that the CE needs of general dentists differ from specialists, and, therefore, the driving force of AGD has been to provide that broad-based lifelong learning to general dentists. Due to the variety and number of services dentists provide to their patients, if a general dentist settles for the minimal number of CE credits required by the state licensing board, the dentist risks falling behind on important new knowledge within the profession. It is impossible to stay current with every area of care general dentists provide without exceeding the minimal CE requirements.

In order to formally recognize members who prioritized professional growth in the form of CE, the AGD fellowship program began in 1962. The FAGD distinction requires the completion of 500 hours of CE, at least three years of membership, and the passing of a comprehensive fellowship exam. The MAGD distinction was created in 1968 for AGD members who wish to continue beyond the FAGD distinction and requires the completion of 600 additional hours of CE.

These distinctions serve two important purposes: On the surface level, they recognize practitioners who have made a commitment to lifelong professional education. They also provide a framework for professional improvement; for example, the MAGD distinction requires 400 hours of participation-based CE as well as minimum credit requirements in 18 major subject areas. These requirements set a high standard for the quality as well as the well-rounded nature of the education received. These distinctions encourage members to maintain a high level of education long after their dental school graduations by regularly participating in CE courses and engaging with new knowledge that can be applied in their practices for the benefit of their patients.

In addition to the standards FAGD and MAGD candidates are measured against, AGD also has rigorous standards for CE providers through its Program Approval for Continuing Education (PACE). The 13 standards/criteria for approval by the PACE program include standards for administration, fiscal responsibility, learning objectives, evaluation, and self-instruction and electronically mediated programs, among others, and ensure PACE-approved CE providers develop programs in accordance to quality standards. PACE is overseen by AGD's PACE Council, and two of the purposes and goals of PACE are to improve the educational quality of continuing dental education programs and to promote uniformity of standards for continuing dental education that can be accepted by the dental profession. When choosing CE courses, clinicians can feel confident that PACE-approved providers have the organizational structure and resources necessary to provide CE activities of acceptable educational quality. The PACE standards serve the dental profession by setting a bar for continuing dental education, and this, when combined with the measurable distinctions provided by AGD, creates a quantifiable measurement for professional excellence throughout a clinician's career with regard to lifelong learning and development.

"The practitioner...has not fulfilled the debt owed himself and the community if he is not keeping up with the current advances of his profession."

If you are a student now, it is likely that the landscape of dental materials will change before you reach the middle of your career, and so will the technologies you use in your practice. The education you receive in dental school is only the beginning.

Going Beyond

In addition to the FAGD and MAGD distinctions, AGD offers another measureable distinction: Lifelong Learning and Service Recognition (LLSR). LLSR requires an additional 500 CE credits—150 of which must be from participation-based course attendance—from at least eight of the major disciplines. LLSR also goes beyond CE by requiring the completion of 100 hours of dental-related community/volunteer service and/or service to organized dentistry. Acceptance of submitted service hours is subject to review by the Dental Education Council. Examples of recognized community and volunteer service include providing pro bono dental services through a not-for-profit organization, service in a volunteer dental clinic, service on a dental mission, and providing oral cancer screenings at a community location or event.

While the CE requirements of the FAGD, MAGD, and LLSR distinctions measure clinicians' dedication to continuously improving their skills and knowledge base in order to apply their improved education to patient care within their own practices, the service requirements of LLSR place an important voluntary standard on outward action. Many dentists prioritize volunteer service in an effort to fill the gaps in oral health care access in their own communities as well as in regions around the globe where access to oral health care is limited.

Despite the numerous modern advances in dental treatment for caries and periodontal disease, significant barriers to accessing care remain, and these barriers hinder the progress dental professionals can make toward addressing the oral health concerns of their communities. Providing pro bono services can bring care to patients who could otherwise not afford it, and it can make a phenomenal difference in their lives. The LLSR distinction represents a flagpost goal that encourages clinicians to participate in these activities and give back as a way to achieve a more fulfilling professional and personal life. And while fellowship and mastership status are one-time achievements, LLSR can be earned repeatedly. Some AGD members have earned LLSR as many as four and five times. These dedicated clinicians are an excellent example of the benefit of voluntary standards, both for the clinician as an individual and for the community as a greater whole.

In addition to voluntary clinical service, AGD members also propel the profession forward through activities related to organized dentistry. AGD has a strong advocacy arm that works to ensure the voices of general dentists are heard loud and clear within the state and national governments. Members unite to advocate on issues such as anesthesiology and sedation, barriers and access to care, Food and Drug Administration issues, and Medicare, as well as scientific and practice issues. Involvement in advocacy through organized dentistry enables members to directly impact the standards against which all members of the profession are measured.

Pursuing Excellence Together

Pursuing distinction and recognition from a professional organization like AGD mimics the benefits of dental school on a much larger scale and with more individual control. Other members become your professional colleagues, much like your classmates in dental school. AGD members receive support on their paths to fellowship, mastership, and LLSR from other members who are in the same place in their careers as well as from those who have already achieved these distinctions. Members who are on the track toward these distinctions share the goal of bettering themselves as clinicians, and this shared motivation can enable close personal bonds between colleagues. These bonds provide mutual support as well as inspiration to succeed.

Unlike during a clinician's initial dental education, where the curriculum is packed and there is little room for deviation, CE allows clinicians to tailor their education to their professional needs and interests. While AGD mastership requires recipients to meet minimum CE credit requirements in all 18 major discipline areas in order to prove the general standard of excellence has been met, fellowship and LLSR both allow for a more open-ended approach to CE. Clinicians often serve patient populations with different needs, and those pursuing these distinctions can immerse themselves within the areas that will best serve their patients. Additionally, as clinicians consider adding new services to their treatment repertoire, they can pursue courses that meet their interests and learning objectives with the confidence provided by the PACE umbrella when choosing a CE provider.

It is important to emphasize that the CE credits AGD members pursue and the service hours they clock have far-reaching benefits. Keeping abreast of the latest in science and clinical practice translates directly into better care for patients. By pushing themselves to continuously learn new information and treatment methods, AGD members raise the bar for the dental profession to exceptional heights. By setting and meeting a higher standard for themselves, these clinicians set the standard for the profession. Staying current with the rapid pace of change and advancement in the dental industry as well as the latest recommended best practices is necessary in order to provide the highest level of care for patients, and the distinctions AGD confers encourage, recognize, and honor that commitment.

Conclusion

AGD commends the American College of Dentists for focusing on the broad issue of standards in dentistry and inviting AGD to participate. Dentistry is highly regulated, and each of the mandatory standards serves a specific purpose, which is often challenging to translate to the practicing dentist. Pursuing voluntary recognitions like FAGD, MAGD, and LLSR is about personal goal setting and lifelong learning and culminates with a sense of shared accomplishment. It is about setting a higher standard for yourself than what is required of you. The initials after my DDS also serve as a conversation starter with patients, giving me the opportunity to tell them about my dedication to continuing my dental education as a lifelong learner and keeping up with the latest in science, technology, and techniques in order to better serve my patients. The pursuit of these voluntary standards is a way for me to differentiate myself from the status quo, and it is also a way for me to elevate my own skills beyond what is merely required and instead work to achieve my own maximum potential as a clinician. By pursuing these voluntary standards as AGD members, we elevate ourselves and each other, and in doing so, we also elevate the profession. ■

Advocacy

AGD Attends Two National Legislative Conferences

AGD leadership and staff exhibited at two national conferences in August — the annual National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) Legislative Summit and the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC) Annual Meeting — where state legislators from across the country discussed current legislative issues.

AGD government relations staff members were joined by AGD congressional liaison Mike Bromberg, DDS, at the NCSL Legislative Summit and Gordon R. Isbell III, DMD, MAGD, at the ALEC Annual Meeting to provide general information about AGD, speak with legislators about matters relating to oral health and general dentistry, and discuss specific issues legislators may have in their state and how AGD can be a partner to help solve them.

Both events are opportunities for legislators to gather and discuss state policy and potential solutions to prominent issues. Organizations and other parties of interest attend to share information, network and connect. AGD values these opportunities to interact with elected officials and discuss the significant role AGD member dentists play in local communities as well as work to solve issues related to oral healthcare. Between both conferences, AGD representatives spoke directly with hundreds of legislators and staff from more than 30 states.

Partnerships

AGD, AAFP and AADE Developing Diabetes Toolkit

AGD is developing an online toolkit to help members access resources related to diabetes awareness and diagnosis. It includes a series of videos to educate members on when and how to perform a blood sugar (A1C) test on patients at risk for diabetes or prediabetes. The effort, supported by a Colgate educational grant, is the result of a partnership with AGD and the American Academy Family Physicians and the American Association of Diabetes Educators. The organizations have been working to identify those at risk and to improve outcomes. To learn more, go to agd.org/diabetes.

AGD Foundation

AGD Foundation Hosts Interdisciplinary Oral Cancer Summit

On Aug. 16, the AGD Foundation hosted an Oral Cancer Summit at AGD headquarters in Chicago. The summit was facilitated by AGD Foundation Immediate Past President W. Mark Donald, DMD, MAGD, and included representatives from participating organizations in dentistry and medicine. The aim of the summit was to share information regarding the treatment and management of oral cancer patients from the perspective and knowledge base of each organization. Another goal is the development of a standardized interdisciplinary toolkit for dental and medical providers to use in oral cancer case management.

During the summit, each representative was given the opportunity to share current advances and obstacles facing their fields. Attendees brainstormed solutions to shared problems and volunteered to share information-based resources to fill gaps in each organization's capabilities. Throughout the day, the discussion focused on how to better serve and provide for patients through better interdisciplinary cooperation, optimized information-sharing, standardized timelines and protocols, and, above all, increased oral cancer awareness throughout the dental and medical professions.

The efforts of this group are ongoing, and AGD will continue to share updates and pertinent information with the general dentist community. The group will continue to meet in person or via teleconference, and representatives from other pertinent organizations will be added as they are identified. Attendees at the summit included AGD Foundation President Carol A. Wooden, DDS, MAGD; Wanda C. Gonsalves, MD, of the American Academy of Family Physicians; Derrick T. Lin, MD, FACS, of the American Academy of Otolaryngology — Head and Neck Surgery; Ann-Christine Nyquist, MD, MPH/MSPH, of the American Academy of Pediatrics; Mohammed Qaisi, DMD, MD, FACS, of the American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons; Karen Pitman, MD, FACS, of the American Head and Neck Society; Alexander T. Pearson, MD, PhD, of the American Society of Clinical Oncology; and Dena Fischer, DDS, MSD, MD, of the National Institute of Dental and Craniofacial Research.

AGD Foundation Annual Report

Mission

The mission of the Academy of General Dentistry (AGD) Foundation — the philanthropic arm of AGD — is to passionately support the efforts of the general dentist toward improving the oral health of the public. The AGD Foundation is strongly committed to promoting oral cancer awareness, risk factor prevention and diagnostic training for general dentists that uses the best technology and clinical judgment.

Being the heart of AGD is more than a tagline — it's who we are and what we do. Following are highlights of the AGD Foundation's recent oral cancer awareness efforts to drive our mission.

Education for AGD Members

More than 1,000 AGD members registered for the May 2, 2019, free webinar, "Oral Cancer Screening." The webinar covered the basics of oral examination and focused on detection of clinically suspicious lesions. A flow chart–based algorithm helped clinicians assess suspicious intraoral white lesions. In addition, three one-hour sessions on the topics of oral precancer, oral cancer and oropharyngeal cancer were presented at AGD2019 for dentists and their team members.

Screenings for the Public

In support of the AGD Foundation's mission to fight oral cancer, the AGD Foundation and the Connecticut AGD collaborated to host free public oral cancer screenings during AGD2019. Local dentists, hygienists and dental students screened 362 people.

Care Packages for Oral Cancer Survivors

The AGD Foundation was a sponsor of the AGD New Dentist Lounge at AGD2019. As a community service project, dental students assembled 200 care packages containing donated oral hygiene products specifically for oral cancer survivors at two local organizations, Hartford Hospital and Support for People with Oral and Head and Neck Cancer. The care packages also included notes of encouragement from the dental students.

Interdisciplinary Collaboration

On Aug. 16, the AGD Foundation hosted an Oral Cancer Summit at AGD headquarters in Chicago. The summit attendees included representatives from participating organizations in dentistry and medicine. The aim of the summit was to share information regarding the treatment and management of the oral cancer patient from the perspective and knowledge base of each organization. Another goal is the development of a standardized interdisciplinary toolkit for dental and medical providers to use in oral cancer case management.

The efforts of this group are ongoing, and AGD will continue to share updates and pertinent information with the general dentist community.

Why TikTokers are chugging pineapple juice before wisdom tooth surgery

BY IAN KIMAMOTO

LIFE

9.15.2021

If your TikTok algorithm tends to lead you down rabbit holes of supposed health hacks, you've likely run into at least one viral video of a teenager drinking half a gallon of pineapple juice before getting their wisdom teeth removed. Many claimed that binge-drinking pineapple juice a day before the big surgery prevented their faces from swelling into a painful flesh balloon.

Should you really be chugging fulvic acid or smearing it on your face?

This holiday season is going to be a thunderdome of travel anxiety

Although this health fad has been making rounds on more current corners of the net, it's nothing new. For years, parenting blogs have sworn by the magical healing powers of pineapple juice. As someone who avoids pain at all costs and has been putting off getting their wisdom tooth removed for way (and I mean, way) too long, I was instantly intrigued. Does drinking pineapple juice actually prevent swelling, even after such an intensive procedure? And would I really need to drink the entire 64 ounces for it to work?

The roots of this health claim rely on an enzyme called bromelain, which can only be found in pineapple. Although the results of clinical studies have been mixed, it is widely believed that certain properties of bromelain reduce pain and promote healing after surgeries. In fact, pineapple has been used to treat indigestion and inflammation in South and Central American indigenous cultures for centuries, according to Mount Sinai.

After some research and talking to several health experts, I came to a conclusion: While drinking 64 ounces of pineapple juice would probably help reduce swelling after wisdom tooth surgery, it's not the most practical or healthiest method to do so.

Still, some experts seem pretty enthusiastic about the multifaceted health benefits of consuming (fresh, not canned) pineapple juice. "Pineapples are full of nutrients and vitamins [and they are] a substantial source of vitamin C, a potential collagen formation," William Kemper, a pediatric dentist in Louisville, Kentucky, told me. "So that is why a chilled glass of pineapple juice before or after – preferably before – is a great way to help your body heal after the surgery." Kemper compares having a cold glass of pineapple juice to other methods that reduce swelling, such as eating ice cream or drinking any cold drink, but with the added benefits of pineapple's natural properties. However, note that he mentions drinking one glass, not an entire half-gallon of it.

In fact, most of the doctors I spoke with agreed that bromelain likely helped reduce inflammation and mitigate post-surgery pain. At the same time, almost all were skeptical about the methods being promoted on social media. That's to be expected, though: How could anything outside of strong, FDA-approved drugs really mediate the exceptional pain that comes with getting a tooth yanked out?

Joyce Kahng, a cosmetic dentist and owner of Orange's Magnolia Dental Studio, hopped on the pineapple juice discourse earlier this summer and made a Twitter to confirm that bromelain did, in fact, have anti-inflammatory properties. But when I reached out to her, Kahng made it clear that if she were to have wisdom teeth surgery tomorrow, she probably wouldn't drink 64 ounces' worth of it. "Pineapple juice can be very acidic and cause erosion of the enamel," she tells me. "For those who choose to drink it, I would recommend not sipping it throughout the day but rather keep the drinking within a time frame so the oral environment can neutralize."

In other words, you shouldn't just chug pineapple juice leading up to the surgery, as various TikTokkers have. A more sound method is to just drink a little bit of it beforehand. Some experts reminded me that even though pineapple juice contains bromelain, we can't forget that it still has a pH of around 3, which is highly acidic. Ingesting too many acidic foods can have been linked to liver problems, bone damage and (sigh) yes, cancer.

Although there are studies here and there that show promising signs of the healing properties of bromelain, they don't necessarily prove that the enzyme by itself leads to faster healing. "These studies are based on small sample sizes and were not conclusive," says Neil J. Gajjar, a dental surgeon in Mississauga, Canada. He also criticized the social media recommendation of drinking 64 ounces. "This is a lot of juice and the sugar and acid with that much consumption is not good for you or your teeth." It's true.

One 46-ounce can of Dole pineapple juice, for example, contains 30 grams of sugar, which is about six more grams than the recommended daily sugar intake. For the sake of simplicity (and to do as little math as possible), let's just say that drinking a can-and-a-half would put you way over that recommended limit. Gajjar went on to explain that there are several pain-relieving medications that people can take before and after their surgeries, and that people should listen to their doctors and not TikTokers.

In Europe, however, there is a drug called Ananase, which contains bromelain in a concentrated pill form, according to Gian Pietro Schincaglia of Case Western Reserve University. Schincaglia cited a 2014 study that found that bromelain was just as effective in preventing swelling as Nonsteroidal, an anti-inflammatory drug.

A more chill alternative to chugging would be to invest in bromelain pills or, as mentioned earlier, have just a couple of cold glasses of pineapple juice before surgery. To be honest, learning about the fruit's properties and its wide use in pre-colonial cultures made the entire juice ordeal all the more intriguing. I think I'll definitely drink a glass before my long-overdue appointment, if that date ever comes.

Halton-Peel Dental Association Holds 2022 Awards Night

The Halton-Peel Dental Association (HPDA) was pleased to host its Annual Awards and Past Presidents Night this year, on April 28, 2022 — after a two-year hiatus due to pandemic restrictions. The event, themed “April Showers Bring May Flowers,” was held at the Waterside Inn, in Mississauga, with 60 member dentists in attendance. The HPDA welcomed 16 of its past presidents to the event; Dr. Charles Frank, ODA President at that time, was on hand to present ODA Presidential Citation Awards to Dr. Neil Gajjar and Dr. Alison Sigal. ODA Service Awards were given to 30-, 45-, 50-, and 60-year members.

Gord Markic, Mark Eckler and Ms. Larisa Pomula; award recipients received custom “spa-on-the-canvas” art pieces designed by Ms. Laura Nashman, who also provided the musical entertainment for the evening. All attendees were provided with reversible umbrellas courtesy of the HPDA, along with a menu printed on seed-embedded paper to help celebrate new growth and renewal, the best that spring has to offer. Congratulations to all of this year's award winners.

Dr. Rajiv Butany is a 2006 graduate of the University of Toronto's Faculty of Dentistry, and operates a family practice in Port Credit, Mississauga. He is currently the Communications Chair for the Halton-Peel Dental Association.

Dr. Ronald Goldstein receives his 50-Years Service Award from Dr. Frank, ODA President (2021-2022).

Dr. Sigal receives an ODA Presidential Citation from Dr. Frank. This award recognizes contributions to dentistry or oral health, at a local or provincial level, to members of the profession or to laypersons for single acts of merit.

HPDA award recipients Drs. Rodriguez, Bhalla, Markic and Eckler.

Cheryl L. Mora

When I would get AGD Impact and General Dentistry, I would always look forward to Dr. Winland's Editor's Notes. No matter the topic, his message was always concise and insightful. His many years of service to AGD and our profession are an inspiration to all of us involved in organized dentistry. He was greatly respected and admired and will be missed by his AGD family.

W. Mark Donald

Everyone knows that Roger was an exceptional editor. His Editor's Notes were from his heart and touched so many aspects of life. I believe he touched and impacted the lives of those who read them. What you read in his pieces was who Roger was. I spent a lot of time with him away from the boardroom talking about life and our passions. I appreciated the way he made me think about all the different aspects of life, encouraging me to do some introspecting of my own. A giant in the forest of dentistry has fallen, but his words will live on in the lives of those of us who got to know him. My thoughts and prayers go out to his wife, Debra, and the family.

Neil J. Gajjar

A gentleman and scholar, Roger acted as editor since I joined AGD over 23 years ago until his retirement in 2020. I had the pleasure of serving with him on the Executive Committee, where he always brought calm and institutional knowledge, both of which were needed to make decisions for the future of AGD. He will be dearly missed!

Colleen DeLacy

As former chair of the Communications Council, I had a distinct honor and opportunity to get to know Dr. Winland. The long-term editor of General Dentistry and AGD Impact, his Editor's Notes were always well-regarded and on point. He rarely dominated the room, instead preferring to quietly take in the conversation; then, when a voice of reason or clarifying point was needed, he was there. He was gentle and kind. One thing I loved was that, after long days of AGD meetings in Chicago, his evenings were reserved for his wife and him to have dinner in an undisclosed location because that was their time together.

Sireesha Penumetcha

I was so sorry to hear the sad news regarding the passing of Dr. Winland. He was a go-to person for us all at the Communications Council meetings during his service as editor. I enjoyed discussing with him the intricacies of drafting resolutions at the council. I will miss his calm demeanor, wisdom and presence. I offer my condolences to his family and to AGD, for he will truly be missed.
